BALLOON MYSTERY STILL IS UNSOLVED

100 Hours After They Arose, Gasbag 'Springfield' and Occupants Not Seen.

PIGEON'S MESSAGE IS LAST

Aide Henderson's Law Partner, W M. Davis, Heads Search Party Into Bull Run Country. Farmer Repeats Story.

More than 100 hours have elapsed since Roy Donaldson and Wilbur Henderson sailed away from Portland last Thursday afternoon with the gas bal-loon "Springfield." With the exception of a meager report transmitted by carrier pigeon a few hours after they left, not a word has come back from

Their probable fate and their present whereabouts are cause of much anxiety, particularly among their immediate friends, and generally among the thousands who have watched the progress of the balloon race in which the "Springfield" and three other bags participated.

Of the four balloons that started in the race, the "Springfield" alone is unaccounted for. The three others—the "Uncle Sam," piloted by Captain H. E. Honeywell, with Dr. W. E. Stewart as side; the "Million Population Club." Captain John Berry, pilot, and George Y. Morrison as aide, and the "Kansas City III," with Captain John Watts, pilot, and Roscoe Fawcett as aide, have landed safely, with their intrepid passengers none the worse for their experiences.

Many conflicting theories are enter-tained among local students of balloon-ing and friends of Donaldson and Hen-derson regarding the fate of the miss-

Men Certain to Have Landed. It is certain that the men have landed, but the place at which they alighted and their chances of reaching civiliza-tion before their provisions are ex-hausted are questions of deep concern. According to the best advised students of the situation, the "Springfield" has come down either in the Bull Run section, where a balloon was reported early Friday morning, or has followed the general direction of Watts "Kansas City which landed well up in the foot-hills of the Cascades in Eastern Linn County.

Persistent reports come from the Bull Run district and from the western slope of Mount Hood that a balloon was seen in that vicinity about 4 o'clock Friday morning, just 12 hours after the race started. W. M. Davis, with whom Henderson is associated in the law practice, went out yesterday afternoon at the head of a searching party to the Bull Run ter-ritory. There he saw T. Ruther, the farmer who first was reported as hav-ing seen the balloon Friday morning.

Farmer Ruther Confirms Story. Ruther confirmed his earlier story to the Davis party yesterday.

"The balloon was up about 500 feet and sailing slowly toward the head of Sandy Canyon," said Ruther.

"I called my wife and we watched it

"I called my wire and we watched it about 10 minutes. As we watched it the bag seemed to go higher into the air, and finally passed from view.
"That's the last we saw of it, and we have not heard of any one else who saw it. As it was about 4 o'clock in the morning there was not much proba-bility of anyone else seeing it."

The Davis party remained last night at the Aschoff ranch on the Sandy River. Others in the party are J. L. Ledwidge and D. G. Knealand.

Larch Mountain Searched.

Another searching party was organ-ized yesterday by O. B. Henderson, brother of Donaldson's aide. They left here at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and proceeded to the LaFollotte ranch. where they conducted inquiry for persons who had seen the balloon. Their efforts were fruitless. With Henderson in this party were B. D. Heitschmidt and W. W. Evans. They returned to Portland last night. La ollette is an ex-forest ranger and well acquainted in the country thereabouts. He took the men part way up Larch Mountain and with the aid of strong field glasses they were able to explore a consider-and east as far as Mount Hood. If the balloon is anywhere in that district he should be able to see it, he says.

O. B. Henderson is not much alarmed over the probable fate of his brother. He is sure that the men have landed and that they now are working their way out to civilization. Both the missing men are hardened to hardships. Donaldson is an experienced balloonist and Henderson is a well-built athlete. They could readily stand the exposure They could readily stand the exposure They could readily stand the exposure unless they encountered severe storms and could live in the open for weeks, if necessary. They took with them food enough to last at least 14 days.

Mauager Rieg Joins Search.

Mauager Rieg Joins Scarch.

While J. M. Rieg, manager of aeronautics for the Rose Festival Association, under whose auspices the balloon race is being conducted, inclines to the belief that the Donaldson balloon followed the Watts balloon southward, he will leave today at the head of a searching party, sent out by the Festival officials, to the Bull Run district. It is probable that C. C. Colt, president of the association, too, will be a member of the party.

There is nothing definite to substantiate the theory that the "Springfield"

There is nothing definite to substantiate the theory that the "Springfield" went southward, except the fact that Donaldson had been trailing Watts all the way until they encountered the storm that sent Honeywell and Berry to the ground. Watts is an older pilot and is said to have had more experience than Donaldson and it is believed that Donaldson would be inclined to ence than Donaidson and it is beneved that Donaidson would be inclined to follow the Kansas City man's lead, if he possibly could control the course of his balloon. This control could be acquired, and generally is acquired by aeronauts, by shifting their ballast to meet the desired and required air currents.

is the little town of Wedderburn, formerly the headquarters of the "King of the Rogue," the late R. D. Hume. Volumes have been written about Mr. Hume, and volumes more might be written. He came here and established a cannery in 1877 and for many years, and up to the time of his death in 1908 he was the dominant figure in Curry County. So much has been written about his pugnacity, his enterprise, versatility and his resourcefulness that it is not necessary to go into those phases of his character. But during his residence of some 30 years here he built up a great business and a wonderful domain. When he died he owned some 29,000 acres of land hereabouts, 5000 of which was agricultural or pasture land.
