WHITTALL EXHIBITION LOOM Did You Ever See How Carpets Are Made?

Meier & Frank, at Great Expense, Have Brought to Portland This Great Educational Factor The Whittall Exhibition Loom The First Time on the Pacific Coast

If you HAVE seen Carpets in process of scientific manufacture, you are one of the very few people in Portland who have been fortunate enough to witness this very interesting and instructive exhibition. For the Whittall Loom, the last word in modern carpet-making machinery, is now in Portland for the first time and today may be seen in operation. This famed Loom, built a trifle smaller than the factory machines for purposes of exhibition and to permit of easy handling—but in every other respect an exact duplicate—has been brought from Worcester, Mass., to demonstrate the principles and methods of high-grade carpet manufacture. The Exhibition is one that will interest all who wish to know what it is precisely that enters into the making of Carpets; how the material is selected; what varied processes are necessary to transform the raw material into the finished article; how to estimate the worth and probable service of different varieties of floor coverings. As will be seen, the demonstration is of an exceptionally useful kind, and Mr. Coley, an expert from the Mills, will be present to explain all that does not immediately suggest itself to the mind. All are invited, all will benefit highly, and a special invitation is extended to teachers, pupils, technical and textile students, to whom the Exhibition will prove a boon.

The Exhibition begins Tuesday, the 16th, in the Yeon Building, Alder Street Entrance, and will continue to Saturday, June 27th, inclusive.

PARIS PLAY IS HIT

Mlle. Minni Amato Dances in Pantomime at Pantages.

"MALE MELBA" IS FAVORITE

Kumry, Bush and Robinson in Farce, Romano and Carmi, Musicians; G. Wilson, Jokester, and Wire Walkers on Tip-Top Bill.

Mlle. Minni Amato captured the audience yesterday at Pantages, where she is appearing for a week in a colorful production entitled "A Night in the Stairs of Paris." The opening scene shows early morning happenings in a street in Paris and introduces interesting incidents and unique characters. The action of the play is carried out entirely in pantomime. The acting is clever. There is a lot of human interest, intense feeling, dash and color in the tableaux. The stage setting and the costuming of the various characters are in keeping with the plot, which deals with the destinies of Casque d'Or, a golden-haired adventuress. Mlle. Amato has the leading part, and she gives an exhibition of dancing that is fascinating. The grace expressed by her lithe form make her part in the Tango and the Dance of the Dagger thrilling and artistic. A large company assists in making the act a brilliant feature. Aurelio Cocchi, who presents the play, takes the part of Juliet, lover of the heroine and her dancing partner. Descriptive music adds realism and effect. Bob Albright, known as "the male Melba," is an extra attraction that will prove popular. At his appearance yesterday the audience applauded for several minutes. His first number was "To Have to Hold, to Love," which was followed by several impersonations of well-known celebrities. His own version of a duet between a soprano and baritone, singing "My Hero," showed to advantage his wonderful voice range and brought a demand for an encore, to which Mr. Albright responded with "Just for Tonight."

Personal magnetism and good stage presence are added to the singer's vocal accomplishments. Kumry, Bush and Robinson have a merry little farce they call "Fun in a Music Store." Miss Robinson is a pretty girl, vivacious and charming, and she dances like the proverbial fairies. The long-legged, pipe-stem man is a scream, and altogether the three are mirthmakers worth while. In typical garb of Italian street singers, Romano and Carmi, a harpist and a tenor, sing and play.

George Wilson, "Waltz Me Again," has a bunch of songs and jokes. "You Can't Get Away From It" perhaps is his best.

Jumping nimbly over chairs, walking a slack wire with ease and juggling everything in sight, McDevitt and McDevitt complete the all-round tip-top bill.

The Pantagescope is worth seeing, for it has some genuine laughs.

WEED CAMPAIGN IS ON

NO DANGER SPOTS OR EYESORES TO BE LEFT IN CITY.

Police, Health Department and Engineer's Office Agree on Distribution of Work to Be Done.

Final plans were completed yesterday by the Police Department, the Health Department and the City Engineer for the commencement today of a vigorous anti-weed campaign. The three departments will work together systematically in forcing the cutting of weeds on vacant property, the removal of dangerous poles and trees and the removal of brush, dangerous embankments and unsightly rubbish piles. Police Captain Moore instructed the policemen on all beats to compile lists of vacant property on which the weeds have not been cut. When this list is completed each property owner will be notified to cut the weeds. Failure to comply will be followed by arrest. An effort will be made to have the property owners cut the weeds voluntarily. In the case of property owned by persons living outside the city, notice will be posted on the weed covered patches. If they are not cut within five days the city will do the work and the cost will be assessed against the property on the city docket of liens, the same as street and sewer improvement assessments. According to the arrangements the police will confine their efforts to actual occupants of property on which there are weeds. The remainder of the city will be covered by the Health Department and the City Engineer, who will work under the assessment provisions of the new ordinance.

150 PIONEERS REGISTER

Early Settlers of the "Oregon Country" Come From Afar.

More than 150 pioneers registered yesterday at Pioneer headquarters, Tourny Building, southwest corner of Second and Taylor streets. A goodly number of these were from places as far away as Walla Walla, some of whom became members of the Oregon Pioneers' Association for the first time. For the benefit of many who are entitled to become members of the association, the clause in the association's constitution relating to membership is given herewith in substance, as follows: "All persons who came to any part of the original 'Oregon Country' or were born in the same, irrespective of their respective places of residence, up to and including the year 1859, are eligible to membership. Nothing in the constitution shall be construed to prevent anyone born in California, now living anywhere in the 'Oregon Country,' from becoming a member of the association upon application." The expression "Oregon Country" means all the territory included in the present states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and those parts of Montana and Wyoming west of the Rocky Mountains.

FRUIT GROWERS COMING

FORMATION OF SUB-AGENCY NORTH PACIFIC DISTRIBUTERS PLANNED.

H. C. Sampson, H. F. Davidson and Wilmer Sieg Laying Out Campaign for Selling Crop of 1915.

That the meeting of fruitgrowers of Western Oregon, which is to be held at the Portland Commercial Club Saturday at 10 o'clock, will be important is evidenced by the election of delegates from most of the cities and shipping centers between Roseburg and Portland. It is probable that 75 delegates will be present to meet the officers of the North Pacific Fruit Distributors, the purpose of the meeting being to consider the organization of a sub-central agency of that co-operative fruit-selling organization. The proposed sub-central is intended to be the machinery for assembling the fruit crops which are to be sold this season through the Portland headquarters of the distributors, of which Wilmer Sieg, of Hood River, is manager. Prior to the meeting of Saturday, H. C. Sampson, secretary-treasurer of the organization, is scheduled to make three addresses by invitation of the farmers' associations located near Newberg, Albany and Roseburg. Mr. Sampson will be at Newberg Wednesday, Albany Thursday and Roseburg Friday. He arrived in Portland last night.

President Davidson and Mr. Sieg will also take part in the campaign.

"It is the desire of the management of the distributors to centralize all business of Western Oregon at Portland," said Mr. Sampson. "Hood River and the White Salmon growers are already selling through the distributors, and those central, together with that at Vancouver, Wash., will be transferred to this headquarters. The distributors expect to clear between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 through Portland banks this year. In that respect we will rank among the largest concerns in the city."

Allen Jay Seen at Junction City. JUNCTION CITY, Or., June 15.—(Special.)—Allen Jay, who escaped from the state insane asylum for the third time June 11, was seen half a mile north of this city Saturday night. Jay is headed for his home near Blackly, Lane County.
