

CRIMSON CREWS IN FAVOR FOR WAGERS

Excitement Tense on Night Before Meet Between Two Varsities Is Scheduled.

COACHING ON BIG TEST

Yale's New Methods and Manager in Crucible When Harvard Lines on River for First Stroke of Long Pull Over Four-Mile Course.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 18.—A Harvard pool of $1000 offered against $5000 that the Cambridge crews would sweep the river found no takers tonight.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 18.—On the eve of the 48th regatta between the crews of Harvard and Yale universities the same uncertainty prevails that has marked the night before the annual aquatic contest on the Thames River for the past few years.

In fact it is the tried and proven coaching system of the Crimson navy as opposed to the Yale experimental methods that causes the Cambridge crews to stand as popular choices tonight.

If the Yale sweep swimmers can hold to the form and methods of rowing as taught by Guy Nichols, the famous Oxford University oarsman and manager of the English Leander crew, without being outdistanced early in the race, victory for Yale is far from an impossibility.

The programme, subject to wind and weather conditions, calls for the rowing of the two minor races tomorrow forenoon and the main event late in the afternoon.

Although the Harvard rowing star has been in the ascent during the past few years, the history of the dual regatta shows that so far as the varsity races are concerned the river under the stars are evenly matched.

The statistics of the six crews which will meet in the three races tomorrow are as follows:
