

BOSSEN, ON STAND, HAS CLEAR STORY

Defendant in Eugene Murder Trial Never Falters as Prosecutor Crowds Him.

SOBS COME AS CLIMAX

Physicians for Defense Tell Radically Different Effect of Overdose of Headache Tablets and Mercury Found in Stomach.

EUGENE, Or., June 24.—(Special.)—Climaxing the strong defense put up by his attorney, Andrew Bossen, on trial for the murder of his wife, today told in a clear, straightforward way the facts surrounding Mrs. Bossen's death. His testimony of no witness did more for his defense than did his own. No question of the District Attorney was too quick for him. Only once did he falter, when he told the last words of his dying wife. His lips did not quiver when he spoke of her accusations.

SISTER CLAIMS BABY

Three witnesses testified that Dollie Levins had asserted that Mrs. Bossen gave her little Stanley the week before her death. "You cannot have him," were the words of the girl, according to Mrs. W. P. Beeman, who called with relatives of Bossen to get the child. "Edith gave him to me. If you take him away I will get him back after Andrew is convicted. And he is going to be convicted."

Dollie Levins denied the alleged offer of the child by the mother, which was cited by the defense as an indication of anticipated death from ill-health. "The ill-health of Mrs. Bossen before her death, which was denied by the state, was testified to by several witnesses. Others testified Bossen's real grief after the death.

Bossen testified to his wife's ill-health, which is an important point of the defense, regarding the action of the acetanilid in the headache medicine, which is supposed to have caused the death. He denied taking steps to stop an examination, but admitted that he had opposed it. He denied attempting to intimidate witnesses who heard his wife's dying statements, but said he cautioned them to tell the truth. He told graphically in detail of the night of his wife's death; of nursing his sick wife up to the point of death; of how he had wanted to call help and she had protested, and of how she had taken large doses of the headache medicine, which he had helped administer.

Dollie Levins, the woman pictured by the state as the woman for whom Bossen killed his wife, took the witness stand in the morning and repeated her sister's dying words. "I found my sister in the bathroom," she said. "I ran to her and found her stiff, holding onto the tub. She said: 'Dollie I am dying. I have been poisoned. Andrew poisoned me. Take good care of little Stanley. He gave me whiskey. Bitter whiskey. Oh so bitter. For God's sake bring me butter. Lots of butter.'"

"I called to Andrew to bring some butter and he brought a very small square." Bossen after his wife's death, the witness testified, threatened her if she repeated the words of his dying wife, which implicated him. Later, she said, she had talked with Bossen about her sister's death.

"I told him that I wanted to know what caused her death and that I favored an investigation," she testified. "He replied: 'She ate a banana and there was a bug in it. An investigation would kill me. I never could have little Stanley grow up and have it said that his father brought home a banana and it poisoned his mother.'"

Constitutionalists Invited In

At the close of today's conference, Ambassador De Gama gave out a statement embracing the proposals which were signed tonight. He announced that three articles of the peace plan had been promulgated and that these related only to the internal side of the Mexican problem. "We deem it advisable," he said, "to invite the constitutional party to send delegates to discuss with the Mexican delegates the internal aspects of the problems."

The protocols signed are as follows: Article 1.—The provisional government referred to in the protocol No. 3 shall be constituted by agreement of the delegates representing the parties between which the internal struggle in Mexico is taking place.

Article 2.—(A) Upon the constitution of the provisional government in the City of Mexico, the Government of the United States of America will recognize immediately and thereupon diplomatic relations between the two countries will be restored.

(B) The Government of the United States of America will not in any form whatever claim a war indemnity or other international satisfaction.

(C) The provisional government will grant an absolute amnesty to all foreigners for any and all political offenses committed during the period of civil war as a consequence of military acts or acts of national authorities.

Article 3.—Three mediating governments agree on their part to recognize the provisional government organized as provided by Section 1 of this protocol.

Protocol No. 2, referred to in the foregoing, was signed two weeks ago and set forth merely that a provisional government, to be constituted as later provided, shall be recognized on a certain date, to be agreed upon subsequently and from that time forward shall exercise governmental powers until the inauguration of a constitutional President."
