Chamber of Commerce Straw Ballot Not Official, but Opinion of Members.

VOTE STANDS 470 TO 111

585 of 860 Members Express Views on Statewide Prohibition-Many Large Cities Take Similar Action Officially.

More than four to one against was the vote of business men of Portland expressed in the straw ballot of the mbers of the Portland Chamber of members of the Fortland Chamber of Commerce, which was canvassed yes-terday morning by the board of trus-tees of that body.

A total of 585 votes was cast, out of a membership of 860. Four ballots were blank, 111 were in favor of statea whole on the subject.

Many Cities Do Likewise.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce is only one of half a dozen or more prominent chambers in the United States in which straw ballots recently have been taken on the prohibition question, although the results in other cities have been announced as the official attitude and definite resolutions of protest against prohibition have been adopted.

The movement in Portland was The Portland Chamber of Commerce

The movement in Portland was started immediately following the ac-tion of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. The referendum vote in the San Francisco body was 1187 to 41 against prohibition and the chamber issued and published resolutions broad-cast, strongly urging the defeat of the proposed California prohibition amend-ment in the November elections.

California Millions at Stake.

Similar resolutions, worded even more definitely and strongly, were adopted and sent out by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. In these resolutions it was maintained that the enactment of the California prohibition amendment would amount to the confiscation of an industry in which several hundred millions of dollars ar

It points out that the state for year has systematically and directly en-couraged the people to plant grape and make wine and to develop th viticulture industry to the fullest possible extent, and that now there ar 60,000 people and 340,000 acres of lan involved in the industry, which repre ented an income in the state last yes of $26,175,000. Other commercial bodie in California contemplate similar ac tion, urging the defeat of the prohibi-tion amendment in that state. Prior to the action of the Portland

Chamber of Commerce members, the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce adopted resolutions urging the defeat of the proposed Federal prohibition bill. A similar resolution was adopted officially by the Chamber of Commerce, of St. Paul, Minn.

Many protests were sent the Portland chamber when it was found that the straw ballot was to be taken, urging that the plan be abandoned. For that reason it was decided better to make the action represent the individual opinion of the members instead of the official attitude of the organ-
