Entire Family in Chicago Suburb Is Wiped Out in Brutal Attack.

MOONLIGHT GUIDES BLOWS

Mr. and Mrs. Mislich, Their Daughter and Her Baby Hacked to Death in Slumber—Tall, Lanky Man Is Now Sought.

CHICAGO, July 6.—That the murder with an ax of four members of a family in Blue Island, a suburb, before sunup today was a case of the most heinous...

The man has disappeared. He had not been seen at his boarding-house since early Sunday night. No one knew why he went away. Detectives have been sent to the police in the principal cities in the Middle West.

The police believe that the murders were committed by some one familiar with the Mislich home. Entrance was gained through a window facing the front porch.

The man then climbed to the attic, where Mr. Mislich, 75 years old and head of the family, slept.

Mr. Wallace sleeps at show and is locked in house. Lusty Cries and Pounding Arouse Neighborhood and Rescue One "Buyer" for Crowd.

Trip! Slip! Rip! September Morn Modernized!

San Francisco Woman Ventures Out in Petticoat Skirt of Latest Style, Falls and Men Rush to Aid With Coats.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—(Special.) Stripped—stripped—stripped—stripped. These four words tell the sensational story of how, in one false move on Powell street at O'Farrell this afternoon, a woman at one and the same time almost outdid "September Morn" and fully convinced several dozen others of the fair sex that to venture out in the attire of the tight, petticoated skirts indeed is exceedingly risky.

She came across O'Farrell street with short, mincing steps, until she reached the car tracks. There she tripped. With a convulsive movement she threw out her foot—and slipped.

There she stood—er, without a petticoat. "Coat, quick! bring me a coat," caused two public-spirited citizens to strip off their coats and fling them to the modern September Morn. She wrapped them about her and assumed the well-known attitude in the painting, while another hero sped across the street into a clothing store which he covered the woman from head to heel. Then she snatched up the skirt, tucked it under her arm and fled.

DARK THEATER PRISON

E. WALLACE SLEEPS AT SHOW AND IS LOCKED IN HOUSE.

Lusty Cries and Pounding Arouse Neighborhood and Rescue One "Buyer" for Crowd.

The New Grand Theater, on Sixth and Stark, is a "mighty lonesome place to be in if you're all alone," and E. Wallace, of 102 Tenth street, can give expert testimony on this point.

Mr. Wallace groped his way to the door and pounded. Then he yelled lustily. Harry Mattison and Ray Foote, at the automobile stand in front of the theater, heard the uproar and called the night watchman. But the night watchman had no key. Then Foote telephoned for Manager Langerman, and the small crowd that had collected set down to wait developments.

Langerman was peevish when he arrived, for he had been called out of bed. Wallace was also peevish, and the crowd voted that he had the more reason of the two to feel that way.

Those not arrested in the grill either were picked up on the streets or followed to rooms within a radius of two blocks, after having left the grill.

The floor of the Peerless Pacific Pipe Company's warehouse, at 51 North Front street, gave away at 7:45 o'clock last night, causing a total damage of $3000.

The principal damage was caused by the breaking of the plant's fire sprinkler system, about two feet of water flooding the basement. Manager W. S. Babson says that the floor was old and rotten and places his concern's damages at $1000.

H. F. Norton, hide dealer, was damaged $2000 by the water which leaked into his store next door. No one was hurt.

Death May Cause Change. The death of Seattle yesterday of R. M. Boyd, general agent of the freight department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, is likely to be followed by the transfer from Portland of E. K. Garrison, district freight and passenger agent here, to have charge of the Seattle office, railroad men believe. The transfer would be a promotion. Mr. Boyd had been connected with the Milwaukee for almost 20 years. His death was due to heart trouble, from which he had been long a sufferer.
