

CARRANZA'S FIRST CHIEF, IS DECISION

Villa Subordinate in Command, but Supplies Will Be Furnished Him.

CAVALRY SEEKS PASTURE

Treasurer-General and Other Supporters of Carranza, Who Have Been Imprisoned at Torreon, to Be Released.

TORREON, Coahuila, July 7.—General Carranza has been recognized as first chief of the rebels and General Francisco Villa is subordinate to him. This confirmation of the relative positions of Carranza and Villa was regarded as the most important step taken at the internal peace parley here intended to reunite the Villa and Carranza factions.

In settling this point the question of supplying the division of the north, which Villa commands, with coal and ammunition probably will find an automatic solution. While General Villa owes Carranza absolute subordination, Carranza, on the other hand, is obliged to meet the wants of the Villa troops.

Vital Issues Decided. The conference is ended so far as vital points are concerned. The statement was made today that the result of the meetings was satisfactory. General Villa said today:

"I hope that the outcome of the conference will be beneficial to Mexico and that patriotic motives will cause the compact to be signed."

"It is not the practice of men to buzz around like mosquitoes and sting others when they least expect it," said Villa in referring to the reports of misconduct made against him by Carranza followers along the border. "I am averse to personalities," he added.

Army Practices Economy. While the conference was in session brigades of the northern division were being sent north through Torreon to go into quarters in the country districts of Chihuahua. In these districts the cavalry horses are recruited from the hard campaigns of Fierro and Zacatecas. Coupled with this movement is the desire to maintain the army more economically.

Food and forage have reached the highest prices and since Villa's purchasing agents buy at current quotations, it sometimes has been a problem to supply the troops with necessities. Most of the army will be concentrated near Chihuahua city until the advance on Mexico City is resumed.

Villa to Surrender Money. One of the principal points at discussion involved the cooperation by Villa element in returning the constitutional national funds confiscated at Juarez and secured in the United States. General Carranza, today telegraphed Alberto Pani, one of his agents here, that the Villa people had agreed to turn over the money. Lázaro de Garza, Villa's agent here, received orders from his chief to deliver the funds.

The treasurer-general and the other Carranza men who have been detained at Torreon probably will be released.

FEDERAL OUTPOSTS MUTINY

Mexican General Notifies Funston, to Prevent Alarm.

VERA CRUZ, Mex., July 7.—Brigadier-General Funston made public today copies of the telegrams exchanged last night between the American Army headquarters and Lieutenant Colonel Izunza, commander of the Mexican federal outposts. In his dispatch Izunza said:

"Portions of my infantry outpost revolted and I am unable to reduce them to order."

The general said he notified General Funston because he desired to prevent alarm among the American outposts in the event mutinous troops sought to enter the American lines or of an action occurring in their vicinity.

General Funston assures Izunza that the federal deserters would be arrested promptly if they approached the American outposts.

The extent of the revolt was unknown to headquarters but it was believed that it affected only a small portion of the Mexican force in front of the American lines. Colonel Izunza got close enough to the fleeing outpost to the southwest of Tejeria to warrant him in attacking it with his troops. He did not stop to resist, replying only with a scattering fire. Colonel Izunza expects to continue the pursuit.

FOOD IMPORTS INCREASE

IMPORTS OF MANUFACTURES NOT MUCH LARGER.

Secretary Redfield Says Figures Show Americans Will Not Be Driven Out of Business.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Foreign manufacturers sent into the United States in the first eight months of the new tariff system just 3.8 per cent more of their finished products than they did under the old. This was pointed out tonight by Secretary Redfield as ample demonstration that there was no ground for the fears of Americans that they would be driven from business by the Democratic tariff.

Importations of foodstuffs showed a large percentage of increase in the eight months which ended with May, while foodstuff exports fell off substantially. There was a relatively small reduction in the amount of completed manufactures exported.

"The figures," said Secretary Redfield, "show, as it is normal they should, the results of the world-wide depression in commerce as modified by our own shortage of foodstuffs, arising from the inadequate crops of last year, which condition is rapidly passing."

"They indicate also that our competing power in manufacturing is well sustained, because at times when our commercial rivals are eager to sell and unwilling to buy, the item of exports of fully finished manufactures is depressed relatively little, and the item of imports of finished manufactures increases relatively little."

The total increase of importations of foodstuffs, the department's figures showed, was $56,750,437, while the total increase in importations for the period was only $55,136,685.

In the line of finished manufactures Mr. Redfield said the United States was maintaining its foreign business well.

2-TERM PLAN HOLDS

Teachers' Committee Opposed to Year-Round School.

VACATION CHANGES HINTED

Members Will Shift Pupils From Congested to Less Crowded Buildings in Holding Down New Structures-Laurelhurst Loses.

That the suggested plan for a continuous year-round school, of four terms, aggregating 48 weeks, will not be adopted in Portland for some time was clearly indicated by the discussion of the teacher's committee of the School Board last night.

"We are not ready yet for the introduction of continuous schools in Portland," said Dr. Sommer. "The thing is so much in the embryo that we cannot hope to adopt it for some time."

"While I don't know what Superintendent Adams would do if he were here, I feel certain he would not recommend the continuous school plan for immediate adoption," said Assistant Superintendent Rice.

Dr. Alan Welch Smith was of the same opinion.

Two-Term Plan Rejected. As a result of this sentiment the regular two-term plan is readopted, with modifications aimed at the cutting down of vacation days.

According to School Clerk Thomas, the district has paid out over $55,000 in the last three years, for which no return was received. This has caused the teachers' committee to feel that this amount is lost in instances where pay is given without services.

In solution of the congested school problem the teachers' committee decided that all district boundary lines should be obliterated and all schools filled up to the arbitrary discretion of the superintendent.

At present many communities are demanding the erection of new school buildings, while many rooms in other buildings are not being used.

Laurelhurst School Dented. While discussing this phase the committee voted to refuse the request for a Laurelhurst school. It was pointed out that several school buildings, including the Kerns, Fernwood, Glencoe and Rose City Park, were located within easy approach of Laurelhurst. It was argued by the members that Laurelhurst has not a sufficient number of children to warrant the erection of a separate school at this time.

At the request of John S. Beall and L. W. Buckley, of the Manufacturers' Association, the teachers' committee recommended to the general board that an 18-foot strip of land on the site of the Boys' School of Trades be donated for the supplementary use of the land for products to be held in Portland from October 28 to November 14, inclusive.

JORDAN'S ELECTION SURE

My personal ambition to serve in a better way at this time the association that I have tried so hard to serve faithfully for more than 20 years. I ask my loyal friends to join me in making the nomination of Dr. Jordan unanimous."

Suffragists won a measure of success today when the resolutions committee reported to the association a resolution approving woman suffrage and equal pay for teachers, respectively.

Women delegates were highly elated over the actions of the resolutions committee and pointed out that as women they were in the majority at the convention there is little doubt as to the passage of the suffrage resolution which will be presented as the "peace movement" within the convention.

The resolutions committee also announced that in view of the international peace, resolutions will be presented endorsing the work of peace societies.

Sex Hygiene Teaching Favored. Sex hygiene conservatively taught in the schools will be endorsed; parents will be urged to enlighten their children on sex questions; and the teaching of sex hygiene in normal schools probably will be recommended.

Federal aid for vocational training in public schools will be asked in another resolution and still another will be urged that uniform wording of the National song be adopted.

EACH OF 5 ACTS WINS

Pantages Bill This Week Is Best for Long Time.

PLAYLET IS STIRRING ONE

Harry Jolson Is Plaintive Black-face Artist Who Captivates—Animals Pose Like Statues—Quartet and Dancers Vie.

If there were only two acts on the Pantages bill this week the patrons would be getting their money's worth and more. As it is, with five really good numbers, the show is one of the best that this house has put on for many a week.

For first-place honors it is a toss-up between a musical playlet, with a very unusual setting, and a king of black-face artists. The playlet is entitled "The Luck of a Totem" and deals with life in Alaska, where strong men vie for the love of a girl.

The Sheriff raises the little girl of his partner, who, with his wife, was killed. Keeping the girl in innocence of the death of her father, he unwittingly grows to love her, as do all the men in the camp. On her 19th birthday he tells the men the true situation, which the girl misunderstands. She decides, in consequence, to leave the camp.

Just as she is leaving she finds that her love for the Sheriff is great enough to keep her there. A half-breed, also in love with her, tries to kill the Sheriff, but meets his just reward. The play ends in a happy ending.

The company is a strong one. Miss Agnes Cain-Brown, as the girl, fills the part and looks it to perfection, while the animal, Jimmie La Toy, with wood-brow and childlike Sheriff, by Harry Girard, is an excellent piece of work. Louis, who impersonates three people, and his parody on "Melba, the contortionist," brought down the house.

Mr. Jolson must be seen to be appreciated. His work is first-class. Animal statuary is far from a common sight, due to the extraordinary care and patience needed to train the animals. Agnes La Toy, with wood-brow and childlike Sheriff, presented some tableaux which were exceptionally artistic, in which the animals showed wonderful self-control.

Two bull terriers and two toy poodles gave some dozen or more poses, never moving from their positions and hardly winking an eye.

The Orpheus quartet, with makeups that were a scream, especially in their varying sizes and hues, provided the rapid comedy of the bill, while another act that pleased the audience was that of the Basque under new management. Their costumes and the steps of numerous Russian native dances sent quite an atmosphere of the Steppes over the footlights.

Pantagescope concluded the bill.

STATE BOARD IGNORED

CLACKAMAS DOCTORS REPORT TO OSTEOPATHIC OFFICER.

Instructions to "Pass Up" Dr. J. A. Van Brakle Fall Flat When Threat to Prosecute Is Made.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 7.—(Special.)—Despite the order of the State Board of Health that the doctors file all the vital statistics reports direct with the State Board and ignore Dr. J. A. Van Brakle, the osteopathic county health officer, every physician outside of Oregon City has sent in his June report to that official.

Several reports have come even from Oregon City, the center of the fight against Dr. Van Brakle.

The health officer will submit these reports to the State Board in the usual way.

On June 1 it became known that Dr. Calvin S. White had notified the local physicians that they should report directly to the State Board. The order said that Dr. Van Brakle was not county health officer, although the County Court refused to remove him, and an action to oust him was non-suited several months ago in the Circuit Court.

As soon as Van Brakle learned of this action he began to collect information so that the matter could be brought to an issue. The state law provides a penalty for every case not reported to the county health officer and constitutes separate offenses. Dr. Van Brakle intended to test out the case on that issue.

CITY POOL IS PLANNED

Vancouver May Lease 'Old Swimming Hole' on Burnt Bridge Creek.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 7.—(Special.)—The old "swimming hole" on Burnt Bridge Creek, just outside the city limits, probably will be leased by the city for a period of three years and made into a place where a larger number of boys can enjoy a swim in the hot Summer days.

C. H. Falk, who owns the property, is willing to lease the land for a nominal sum. The City Council has appointed a committee composed of G. R. Percival, Harry Steel and George E. Schuele to investigate the matter.

ORING, Wash., Office to Move.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, July 7.—The Postoffice Department has authorized the removal of a postoffice at Oring, Wash., on August 1, to new quarters in the Rowe building, on Main street, near the present location.

FUNSTON DROES BUZZARDS TO BAY

S. L. O'Shea Back From Mexico, Tells Thrilling Tales of Vera Cruz.

SHIPS' FIRE SAVES LIVES

Mexicans Formerly Threw Garbage in Streets and Buzzards Were Official Scavengers of City, but Not Now, Says Navy Man.

"Funston has driven the buzzards from Vera Cruz."

T. L. O'Shea, who served on board the U. S. S. Vermont on the Pacific during the recent action at Vera Cruz, transferred to the recruiting service and stationed in the Portland office, brings a thrilling series of stories of the occupation of Vera Cruz and the events that followed it. The new Vera Cruz is a revelation, he says.

While he was not in the immediate engagement that took place at the Naval Academy on the morning of April 22, stationed on the Vermont, within a stone's throw, so to speak, of the engagement, he was a witness of all the scenes of the battle in which nine American men lost their lives.

"People who tell in the occupation of Vera Cruz and who condemn the action of the United States ships Prairie Academy as uncalculated, merely show how little they know of the true conditions under which the occupation was made," says O'Shea.

Prairie's Fire Saves Lives. "The fire from the Prairie was the only thing on earth that prevented the regular bluejackets in front of the Naval Academy from being wiped out of existence."

"In the San Juan prison, across the harbor was a torpedo room that threatened the Prairie all through the engagement. During that time the starboard torpedoes were kept trained on this warning of an effort to launch a torpedo against her, to open fire. Before the Prairie took her position, sound bombs were dropped in the water and she was stationed in such a way that even if a torpedo had been launched and she had been sunk, the guns still would have been clear of the water and in a position to do service. Her port guns commanded the naval Academy."

"Fire was not opened upon the Academy until the cadets began firing upon the bluejackets with machine guns, one-pounders and Mauser rifles. There were 200 cadets, trained in military affairs, in the Academy. The second regiment of bluejackets was exposed to their fire with little opportunity of returning it effectively."

Orders to Shoot at Windows. "They were ordered to lie down and the Prairie opened fire from the harbor. Orders were not to fire lower than the second story of the building and to fire through the windows as much as possible. The occupation, it was found that not a shot from the Prairie had gone lower than the second story and only a few had pierced the wall. The fire of the cadets against our landing party. The Cheater supported the Prairie and it is the work of these two that really made possible the occupation of Vera Cruz with as little loss to our men as the war was waged."

From the party from the Vermont we lost one man killed, and six were wounded. When a landing party goes ashore, we were pretty eager to be there, but someone has to stay on board to look after the ship.

"When we saw what was going on ashore, we were pretty eager to be there, but someone has to stay on board to look after the ship."

"In occupying the city the bluejackets and marines were divided into parties and combed straight through the streets with the Mexicans sniping at them from the roofs, until they had worked their way clear through and threw up their entrenchments on the other side, against the Mexican army that was stationed beyond. The Mexicans fought at a great advantage from the roofs of the houses. Houses are built with a steep sloping parapet that affords good protection and in firing all one has to do is poke his rifle over the edge of this parapet and bang away straight down into the street without exposing more than his head."

"The Mexicans used to throw their garbage into the streets and the buzzards were the official scavengers of the city. The streets were full of buzzards when we arrived. Since General Funston took charge he has made the buzzards off the street without exposing more than his head."

Satin Hats Successes of the Paris Races, Reproduced Here, Spec'l $1.95

At the Paris races recently and also at the international polo match smartly tailored and extremely chic hats of black and white satin were the dominant mode.

On those occasions these satin hats were worn by the best dressed women of the world.

Today we present these hats in the same smart styles, sailor effects, soft tops, slightly drooping narrow brims, and crowns that are inclined to be higher on one side.

In solid black, in solid white, or with black brims and white tops, and black tops with white brims.

They are light in weight, and while severely tailored in style they are generally becoming. With the mere addition of a wing, a quill or a bit of ribbon these hats would be completely and correctly trimmed.
