The revocation followed hearings by the Council at which it was charged that the Bottlehouse has been the hangout for habitual drunkards and other kinds of low people; that wagonloads of drunks have been hauled away by the police; that a long list of men have died either directly or indirectly from the effects of the liquors served and the intoxication which ensued, and that eight out of every ten men in homes for "down and outs" attributed their downfall to the Bottle-house.

Proprietor Makes Plea.

Margullis, who is proprietor of the establishment, made a desperate plea From Morningside Sanitarium.

A. N. Hale, a maniac, escaped from his cell early yesterday morning at Morningside Sanitarium, where he had been confined by the United States Government, and spread terror among residents along the Base Line and Russellville roads.

Shortly after noon he was seen to enter a farmyard about four miles from the Base Line road, on the Russellville house, he picked up a double-bit ax and began to sharpen it on a grind-stone. The persons living in the house, believing the man to be crazy, escaped out of the front door and summoned neighbors.

sentenced to six months and hayes to four.

It was charged that Dean and the Smith woman had kept Small drugged and locked up in his room for at least three days while they tried to get his money. Hayes afterwards got Small away from the two, and, it is alleged, tried to cash some of his checks.

Paying Teller Young, of the United States National Bank, testified that $500 had been paid on Small's checks. The first check, for $100, was cashed by Small himself. Three other checks, payable to Dean, also were cashed.

Mr. Young said his suspicions were aroused when Dean brought a check for $2000 on a San Francisco bank, showing Small's passbook on a Wilbur bank. Later Dean brought Small to the bank in such a condition he could not sign his name, and the check was refused. After Hayes took charge of Small he

After Hayes took charge of Small he was removed to another North End lodging-house. The proprietor appeared in court yesterday with a bill for $100 for 38 hours. Judge Stevenson refused to allow the bill.

Small has been laid up in the Emergency Hospital for four days.

Maine. She and Mr. Ballou were married in Helena, Mont. in 1899.

In addition to her work as treasurer, corresponding secretary and director of the Patton Home, Mrs. Ballou was also an active worker for the Visiting Nurse Association.

The ment that a Councilmanic investigation will be held was made yesterday.

It is likely charges will be filled against the place by Mayor Albee within the next few days.

Last December, when the renewal of grill licenses was considered by the Council, the Tannensee license was questioned. It finally, however, was granted, as there was not sufficient evidence against the place to warrant a denial of the license.
