Supply rooms at the Associated Charities, where the clothing for the outfitting of the Fresh Air parties is stored, were stripped of a wheat field after a visitation of locusts. When half a hundred children descended upon the committee to be fitted with shoes and clothes for the trip to Silverton.

Shoes of odd sizes and misfit garments were about all that was left when the excitement was over, but there were 50 of the hapless children, imaginable strutting about the hall, "dressed up" in their new outfits.

"Shoes, especially, and underwear for the little girls in the parties are needed very much," says Mrs. M. H. Whithouse, the chairman of the clothing committee.

Medical examination of the children in the party for Silverton, yesterday was made by Dr. Hubert F. Leonard and Dr. E. H. Streit, who donated their services.

One little girl was discovered to have a temperature of 102 and to be in really serious physical condition. She has lately had two attacks of pneumonia. Eager to enjoy the Fresh Air trip, she came up to the Associated Charities in spite of her weakness and bravely made an effort not to appear ill.

Girl Swallows Disappointment. When the doctor shook his head and told her that she belonged in bed rather than in an excursion party, her chin quivered and one or two tears squeezed themselves out from her eyelids and splashed down her cheeks, but she made an effort to control her sorrow and her disappointment.

The party that was outfitted will leave Tuesday morning at 8:30 for Silverton.

One of the pathetic things yesterday was the number of applications that were received from mothers who are obliged to work out to support their families and who caught at the hope of a few days' rest in the country with pitiful eagerness. There are not yet enough places for them all, and for most of the others from the country places ask for children to be sent.

Secretary Manning is sending out a general call for information from any one who is willing to entertain for a few days in the country one or more of these mothers. Transportation and payment of rent during their absence will be attended to by the Charities.

Cottage May Be Taken. In case it is not possible after all to secure plenty of places for the mothers and their children in the country, efforts will be made to secure a cottage at the beach for this purpose.

In a cottage at the beach Mr. Manning expects to be able to furnish outings for at least a dozen of the little children during the present season.

Contributions to the fund yesterday rose almost to the $500 mark. It is expected that more than $1000 will be secured before the end of the second week of the Fresh Air campaign. The great gift of the day was a $500 check, which was sent by Miss Hazel Dolph, who was chairman of the committee last year and who is looked upon by the children as a sort of "Good Angel" to them.

H. C. Wortman's son has offered to furnish a launch twice a week to take the children on excursions on the river. His launch can accommodate about 12.

Fred Jacobs, Jr., son of Fred A. Jacobs, announced yesterday that he had secured a launch for the Fresh Air fund. This represents ten days' vacation in the country for ten children.

JANITOR'S JOB BOBS

City Commissioner Brewster Believes Judge Erred.

APPEAL WILL BE URGED

Aged City Hall Employee Is Held in Position by Decisions of Civil Service Board and Court That He Is Competent.

Believing that Circuit Judge Morrow allowed his decision in the case of Russell T. Chamberlain, an aged, veteran City Hall janitor, to be prompted by sentiment, to an extent, City Commissioner Brewster announced yesterday that he will ask the City Commission to authorize the City Attorney to appeal the case to the State Supreme Court. Commissioner Brewster has been trying to oust Chamberlain for about eight months.

"I still think I am right," said Mr. Brewster yesterday. "I believe that the question involved here is important and I am sorry sentiment has crept in. I have not talked with the Commissioners and do not know how they feel about the case."

It is known that Commissioner Bigelow is opposed to carrying on Chamberlain case further. It is thought others will take the same position, as the case is considered unimportant and the Commission has been criticized severely, and in some cases condemned, for wasting time and money in trying to get the aged janitor out of his $30-a-month position.

Commissioner Brewster first started after Chamberlain last Fall, when he discharged him for old age and inability to perform his work properly. As Chamberlain is under civil service jurisdiction, the Civil Service Board held a hearing, at which it was shown that the aged janitor is able to perform his work.

On the strength of the testimony the board vacated the discharge and gave Chamberlain back his position on Christmas eve. Commissioner Brewster then took the case into the question of Chamberlain's ability to perform his work.

Judge Morrow overruled Commissioner Brewster and upheld the Civil Service Board. Mr. Brewster may appeal to the Supreme Court, if he can get the support of the majority of the other Commissioners.

Mr. Chamberlain has been a janitor at the City Hall for 15 years. He is 73 years of age and apparently does as much work as any other janitor.

For about eight months he has been working from 4 P. M. to 12 o'clock midnight and has been caring for one of the most important floors at the City Hall. He is a Grand Army veteran, with an enviable record, and is a member of a number of fraternal organizations.

MARYLANDERS HERE TODAY

"Old Line" Exposition Commission to Be Shown City.

The Maryland Panama-Pacific Exposition Commission, which has been in San Francisco arranging for the Maryland state building, will be Portland guests today.

The exhibition will be on the steamship Hascalo. It is chairman. There are five in the commission.

The members will be met at the Union Depot at 7:30 o'clock by J. F. Hyland, promotion agent of the Oregon Commission, and C. C. Chapman, of the Commercial Club, who will enter the city to its annual excursion on the river, to children in their charge.

This is the third annual excursion of this kind given by the company.

The excursion will be on the steamship Hascalo. She will leave Ash-street Dock next Monday morning at 11 o'clock. Luncheon will be provided on board.

In the invitations which were mailed yesterday to the various charitable institutions of the city, request was made to have the respective groups of children accompanied by someone in authority, and in addition, the guests will be entertained and looked after by committees of the company.

YAMHILL WALNUT OUTLOOK GOOD.

YAMHILL, Ore., July 10.—(Special.)—The walnut crop outlook is good in this district and favorable reports from other localities in Western Oregon have been received. The experiment station has a 14-year-old tree that will produce 200 pounds this year, netting $40 at present prices. Salem has a tree that has produced that amount and will do so again this year. Portland has several good trees which no doubt equal or surpass these yields.

CITY TAKES MARKET

Yamhill Vending Place Under Municipal Control Today.

REGULATIONS DRAWN UP

R. W. Gill Appointed Marketmaster and J. D. Eastman, Assistant, Until Civil Service Examination Is Held—Rentals Fixed.

With R. W. Gill in charge as market master and J. D. Eastman as his assistant, the Public Market on Yamhill street will formally come under municipal jurisdiction this morning at 8:30.

The City Council yesterday passed an ordinance taking over the market and prescribing rules and regulations, and Mayor Albee formally assigned the market to the Department of Public Finance, under Commissioner Bigelow.

Mr. Bigelow yesterday conferred with members of the Market Board and upon recommendation of the members of this body appointed Mr. Gill to the principal position. Mr. Gill recommended the appointment of J. D. Eastman as his assistant. These men will serve until the Municipal Civil Service Board can hold an examination and make the market master and his assistant appointments will be made. Mr. Gill will receive $105 a month and Mr. Eastman $80 a month.

The ordinance passed by the Council provides for the collection from each farmer occupying a booth in the market a fee of 10 cents a day and 10 cents extra for each additional salesman. A fee of 25 cents a day will be collected from market associations. These amounts will be collected daily by the market master and turned over to the city's general fund. It is expected the market will be self-sustaining.

Marketing hours are increased by the new ordinance so that the market will be open from 8:30 A. M. to 6 P. M. on all week days, and on Saturdays it will remain open until 9 P. M.

Booths will be subject to use only by bona fide growers or producers or their employees. The term "grower or producer" is defined in the ordinance as a person growing farm stuff on land owned or leased by him. Upon request producers or persons in the market can be required to produce a title eligibility list from which permanent appointments will be made. Mr. Gill will receive $105 a month and Mr. Eastman $80 a month.

Provision is made for the arrest of persons using the market who are not actual farmers.

Under the ordinance the market board will be continued in existence, but will serve only in an advisory capacity.

NEW COUNTY RULE INVOKED

Laborer on Columbia Highway Has $168.75 Due for Sick Leave.

The first of the county employees to benefit under the new rule that injured workmen be paid full wages until able to return to work and that hospital treatment be afforded at the eligibility institution without charge, will be Biagio Monaco, an Italian laborer on the Columbia River highway who was injured 75 days ago.

The Italian was treated for several weeks at the Multnomah Hospital at a cost to the county of $58. He was drawing $2.25 a day while employed making $168.75 due.

CONTRACTOR'S PLEA FAILS

Council Refuses to Remit Penalties Against Bechill Bros.

E. J. Cowlishaw appeared before the City Commission yesterday and asked that body to remit the penalties imposed against Bechill Bros., contractors, for delinquency in the completion of five street grading and sidewalk contracts, which Mr. Cowlishaw says he has shirked and which the contractors have failed to complete.

The Council turned a deaf ear to the appeal of Mr. Cowlishaw, announcing that the contractors will be required to complete the work. It is said by Mr. Cowlishaw that the contractors were taken at such a low figure that all will be losing propositions. A scheme had been figured out whereby Mr. Cowlishaw could finance the improvements with a small profit to himself if the penalties for delinquency should be remitted.

MEAT MUST BE SANITARY

If New Law Is Held Up Markets Are to Be Inspected.

If slaughter-house proprietors succeed in getting an injunction against the enforcement of the new meat inspection ordinance, which went into effect yesterday, City Health Officer Macellus announces that he will assign the men appointed as meat inspectors with the inspection of meat markets as their principal business.

It is proposed to proceed under the general sanitary ordinances of the city in requiring the butcher shops to hand in the only meat inspection law. Mr. Macellus says he believes much of the unclean and unfit meat now coming into the city can be discarded through the butcher shops if the ordinance refuse to permit the inspections in the slaughtering places.

Hassalo-Street Congregation Disposes of East Side Site.

The Hassalo-Street Congregational Church has sold its property at the northwest corner of East Seventh and Hassalo streets, to Harlan R. Gardner, the consideration being $25,000.

The property consists of two lots and the church buildings, the main structure fronting on Hassalo street and a gymnasium fronting on East Seventh street. The membership may consolidate with some other church or select a new site and erect a church in a better location. For the present the congregation will continue to occupy the present building.

Hassalo-Street Congregational Church is a pioneer East Side church. It was built about 40 years ago.

WOMAN TELLS OF COLLISION

Mrs. A. G. Bachrodt on Pretoria When Rammaged by New York.

A. G. Bachrodt, a gatekeeper on the Broadway bridge, has received a letter from his wife, who was a passenger on the steamship Pretoria when she collided with the steamship New York in mid-Atlantic early on the morning of June 13. Mrs. Bachrodt wrote her husband as soon as the Pretoria reached Hamburg.

Mrs. Bachrodt says that two days after the collision some of the passengers said they found out that the Pretoria was much worse injured than the ship's officers admitted. Hammering went on all night and the engine had to be stopped while the ship was being repaired. There were 800 passengers aboard.

SEVERAL TESTIFY IN BIG FRAUD CASE

Government Witnesses Tell of Payments Made for Lands of Railroad.

GOOD FAITH IS DEFENSE

Attorneys for W. F. Minard, J. W. Logan and E. W. Sellers Endeavor to Show That Purchasers Acted Under Legal Advice.

Several witnesses were called yesterday for the Government in its case against W. F. Minard, of Portland, and J. W. Logan and E. J. Sellers, of Seattle, the three men on trial in Judge Bean's division of the Federal Court, for misuse of the mails in connection with locating settlers on the disputed lands of the Oregon & California land grant. Their testimony was to the effect that they had all paid various sums for parcels of land and that up to the present time they had not received their land nor their money back.

The defense is contending that until the Supreme Court passed on the case against the railroad company no one would be able to determine whether one could get title or not. They also are endeavoring to show that these defendants were instructed under the advice of attorneys that they would have prior claim to the land.

The defense maintains that while there was an agreement among the defendants to sell the railroad lands, the use of the mails was not contemplated, and they were acting in good faith throughout.

J. W. Skidmore, who lives at North Yakima and who is more than 64 years old, testified that his wife, Mary Jane Skidmore, as well as one each for his children, George, Susan and Willie Skidmore.

Five Claims Cost $855. In all Mr. Skidmore paid $855 for his claims, thinking that he would be a rich man in a short time.

"Now, I've been swindled," he exclaimed. "I was a big 'gump.' My wife said I already had enough property, but I thought I knew better."

Fred B. Watkins, of Springfield, Or., living in Nebraska at the time, said that he saw an advertisement in the World Herald as a result of which he went to the office of Logan & Minard.

J. W. Barclay, of Stellacoma, Wash., a real estate dealer, also testified that he bought land from the defendants.

The last person to be examined yesterday was J. L. Huntley, a man about 60 years of age, who comes from Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. He testified that he was deterred from buying a second claim by his wife.

Attorneys for the defense asked purchasers who paid sums as low as $75 if they expected to get perfect title to property worth approximately $5000 for such a sum, but none seemed to think it unreasonable. Mr. Huntley said he took it for granted that the land was to become his property.

Modus Operandi Shown. The testimony in general of the Government witnesses tended to show that they were solicited to purchase this land by Logan and Harper, whom they took to be the agents of the "acting attorney" for the Oregon & California Railroad Company.

Logan and Harper would forward their requests for land to Minard, who would send receipts to the claimants. The first witness for the Government in the morning was Mrs. Bertha Norcross, a schoolteacher of Chawelah, Wash. She testified that she purchased land with $500,000 of timber in Douglas County at a cost of $120. For this she said Logan promised her title within a year. Then she received an "official receipt" for the money from Mr. Minard in Portland. Later she was told that her claim had been changed for one "equally as good" in Jackson County.

A separate trial has been granted to D. E. Houston, originally indicted with the others, when J. Harper with the others, pleaded guilty and been sentenced to a 60-day term in the county jail.

Switzerland now makes 59 hours a legal working week.
