15 ESTATES REPORT

Many Still Fail to Obey Order of Circuit Judge Cleeton.

WEINHARD HEIRS OFFEND
 Several Trusts Have Made No Accounting to Courts in Many Years and Contempt Proceedings Are Threatened.

Fifteen estates reported property conditions to Circuit Judge Cleeton yesterday as a result of the ultimatum issued by the Probate Court to all delinquent heirs, administrators, trustees, executors and executrices. Several hundred have not reported, including the Henry Weinhard estate. Mr. Weinhard died 10 years ago and no report has ever been made. Ellen Malloy, guardian of the estate and person of Mary A. Bound, an insane dependent, she was appointed May 18, 1903, has never reported. Other delinquents are Charles D. Crockett, guardian of the estate of the 3573 estate of Ruby and Ernest Crichton, minors, February 24, 1905; Elizabeth C. Holcomb, executrix of the estate of John B. Willard, died at 1000, appointed February 12, 1909; Charles H. Woodard estate, Mrs. Ella A. Woodard appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. Sarah Woodard since May 20, 1910.

A copy of the will of Richmond H. Bickford dated May 4, 1905, but no administrator or executor was appointed and consequently no reports on the will or value of the estate are on file in Probate court records. Walter Ridenhah, guardian of the $3000 estate of Walter Thayer, a minor, has made no report to Judge Cleeton since appointed on September 20, 1909. Dudley Witmer's estate was appraised at $104 October 26, 1909, and no report has been made since. Above cited cases are only examples of the hundreds of delinquent managers of estates.

Judge Cleeton has issued an ultimatum to estate holders that reports must be made immediately and semi-annually hereafter, as required by law, or he will cite the delinquents to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court. Deputy County Clerk De Martini and Quinlan have noted several hundred notices of the delinquents during the past week.

Reports filed this morning are as follows: Frances Dudley, guardian of estate of Ruth Dudley, a minor; J. E. Goldstein, guardian of the estates of Deeky and Sammy Goldstein; Anna Forest, estate of Charles Anderson; J. P. Dietz, guardian of Leopold Dietz; Mrs. Etta Smith, estate of R. L. Smith; Elizabeth Everett, estate of John H. Everett; Ralph R. Routledge, estate of Joseph R. Loshbaugh; Aaron Fox, estate of Emma L. Cole; J. H. Upton, estate of William Henderson; Henry M. Winters.

Winters Estate Not Paying.
 The latter case has been subject to considerable litigation. Winters died a reclusive and left no will. Several contestants filed suit for a portion of the estate but the matter has remained in the custody of the state, although litigation is pending.

The report showed that, owing to the expiring of various probate terms, the estate has not been paying. During July, according to the report, $23 was received from rents of the brick hotel and seven cottages. Expenses of conducting the estate amounted to $40.14. A total of $16.86 was left over and is to be paid to the widow and other court expenses. The estate is receiving $12 monthly from the sale of a compound called "Microbe Killer."

He had just spent his last money advertising for a job, he said. He had been married only a few months. He came to Portland from San Francisco, with Mrs. Henry, in hopes of finding work here.

GEORGE BAMPFORD'S WILL FILED.
 Petition for probate of the will of George Bampford, who died July 4, 1914, was filed yesterday by Mrs. B. Bampford, the widow, who also asks to be appointed executrix. The will leaves $5000 to a son, George C. Bampford, stock in the Martin & Forber floral shop to another son, H. V. Bampford, and the remainder of the estate is given to the widow.

"He didn't beat me. He was just trying to dance with me. Please let him out of jail," pleaded Mrs. Martin Aults to Miss Wilma P. Chandler of the Municipal Bureau for the Protection of Women. Van Aults was serving a 75-day sentence for beating his wife.

The man was brought from the County Jail, where he had served two weeks of his sentence, and again faced Judge Stevenson in Municipal Court. "Your wife wants you back," said the judge. "You'll have to sign a pledge not to take another drink for a year. You'll have to work and turn all your wages over to Probation Officer Inskeep. Do you want to do that, or do you want to serve the rest of the 75 days?"

Van Aults signed the pledge and departed from the courtroom, arm in arm with his wife. Mrs. Van Aults had been a mother only two weeks when the beating is alleged to have occurred. She has been in the hospital since that time.
