COLORED CHURCH IS EAST SIDE PROBLEM

Congregation Ready to Build or to Sell, if Property-Owners Pay $8000 for Lot.

NEIGHBOR SAYS BLACKMAIL

Zion's Preacher Denies Profit Is Being Made in Deal and Threatens to Start Work Today if Not Closed.

The congregation of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church say they are having "the very dickens" of a time in finding a location on which to build a house of worship. Property owners in the vicinity of East First and Halsey streets say that the colored and maisey streets say that the colored people seem just as anxious to sell their church property on the southwest cor-ner of East First and Halsey streets, the proposed site of the new church, as the property owners are anxious to see the property purchased and made into a street.

"The proposal of the Zion congrega-tion to build a church in this neigh-borhood is simply a blackmailing scheme to make some money," said homas Varwig yesterday.

Mr. Varwig lives directly across the street from the church property, on the northeast corner of East First and Hal-

Previous Deal Is Cited.

"They made some money by selling their property at East Sixth and Mult-nomah streets, because the residents in that locality gave them a contribution to induce the sale. Now they think they can make some money out of us by the same scheme.

The church members themselves ad-"The church mompers themselves are mit that the street ought to be put through where their property is and are anxious to sell their property. They are laying for seven or eight thousand dollars, but their property is worth nowhere near as much as they ask."

"I have lived in this locality for 30 where near as much as they ask."

"I have lived in this locality for 30 years and I naturally know something about the property values," said A. Dewar, who lives at 331 Halsey street, not more than 100 feet from the line of the church property. "That two-thirds of a lot for which they sak $5000. the church property. "That two-thirds of a lot, for which they ask $8000, is not worth any more than $3000. No property in this community, of similar dimension and location, has brought any more than $3000. It looks to me like they were trying to make some money."

Rev. William Wealthy Howard, pastor of the Zion Church, had an entirely different story to tell yesterday.

"Unless the interested property owners make payment to us tomorrow we will commence the excavation for our new church," he said. "If they will pay us $8,252 we will surrender title to the property and look elwhere on the East Side for a location.

side for a location.

Profit Denied by Preacher.

"We did not make any money by selling our original property at Sixth and Multnomah streets, where we now conduct our worship, but under the circumstances, considering the way the times are now, we figured that the best we could do was to sell. The East Halsey-street property stood us $8000 when we purchased it from Mrs. McLean. The $252 which we ask is to cover the expense of removing the old residence on the site and for attorney fees attached to the proceedings."

The contract for the excavation, which is scheduled to begin today, has been let to G. J. Penn, the treasurer of the church. Rev. Mr. Howard said yesterday that Mr. Penn probably would be given the contract to creet the new sterday that Mr. Penn probably would yesterday that Mr. Penn probably would be given the contract to erect the new building also. It is proposed to build a frame church, costing between $4500 and $5000. The colored congregation expects to have it completed by October 1.

The property at issue is a peculiarly shaped parcel, which makes a sharp tog in Welsey street at its intersection shaped parcel, which makes a sharp jog in Halsey street at its intersection with East First street. The property owners say they have been trying for 15 years to have Halsey street extended through the irregular strip.

The matter has been presented to City Engineer Dater and now is being considered by the city officials. Last Thursday about 50 white residents of the locality appeared at the City Hall to demand that the property be made into a street. The church was represented at the meeting by G. J. Penn and its attorney, Guy R. McCoy.

An assessment district has been created to raise the money to buy the land. It seems that some of the residents in the district are not willing.

"I am willing to pay the assessment of $600 made against me if the city says so," said Mr. Varwig yesterday.

If you believe in fresh air, now is the time for you to show that your faith is actual.

There are people in Portland who are making an effort to give every child who needs it a few days of fresh air out in the country, where they can learn that bacon is not a vegetable and that cans are not the original packages for milk. If you want to know about this fresh-air movement, call Main III and the folks there will tell you all about it, and how you can help.

Beer vs. Bier.

At the funeral of a well-known saloonkeeper a few days ago the minister, instead of making the usual announcement that an "opportunity will now be given to view the remains," thought to make a change in the announcement and said: "An opportunity will now be given to pass around the bier." And quite a number of old fellows in the back part of the room wiped the sympathetic tears from their eyes, removed their quids of tobacco, spit out of the window and awaited results.—Ex.

Father O'Hara was responding to the request of the education committee of the Oregon Social Hyglene Society that ministers preach "Back to the Home" sermons during the month of July.

W. F. Woodward, of Portland, chairman of the committee, addressed the Presbyterian Synod at Eugene last night on the same subject, and A. F. "Better home life must be the watchword of all good citizens," said Father O'Hara. "Our city population has drifted away from the ideals of home. The truant officer, the juvenile court and other similar agencies tell a story which can hardly be news to any city dweller who has eyes and ears and time for reflection. It is a sad story of parental neglect, of juvenile wilfulness and of domestic tragedy.

"Many hundreds of children are reported late at night as ranging the ported late at night as ranging the streets without control, frequenting the playgrounds without supervision and visiting places of amusement without chaperons. It is putting it mildly to say that all thoughtful investigators say that all thoughtful investigators are appalled by the record of youthful delinquency. There is one chief cause, namely, the decay of home ideals; there is one sovereign remedy, the rehabilitation of home influences. "In order that children may find their home what it should be it is necessary for the parents to take their duties seriously. In view of the sucduties seriously. In view of the suc-cessive polygamy which is so general-ly practiced it is often difficult for children to know whom they should obey, but even apart from the wreck-ing of homes by divorce, there is unfortunately too much evading of parental responsibility.

"Many parents turn over to the schools the whole moral education of their children. This shelving of the duties of father and mother onto the school is essential socialism. The state has many important functions.
