OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash-OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU. Washington, July 15.—Senators Chamberlain and Lane voiced conflicting views on the proposal of the Senate committee on appropriations to cut down the appropriation for the Federal Trade Commission from $200,000 to $50,000. This amendment, as was pointed out in debate, was the only instance in the entire sundry civil bill where the Senate had undertaken to reduce the amount allowed by the House of Representatives. Every other Senate amendment, if it changed the amount appropriated.

"Not unless they know something about it already," said Stafford.
He said, Logan told "prospects" that "it was absolutely a sure thing, or we couldn't sell its".
