COURT CONFIRMS

Judge Davis Makes Ruling Before Attorneys for City Complete Arguments.

EARLY HISTORY RECALLED

New Angle Introduced Showing Municipality Was Given Title to Lot for Use as Lyceum Now Occupled by Cadillac Hotel.

Construction of the public auditorium on the Market block, Third and Market streets, was authorized in yesterday by Circuit Judge Davis in the injunction suit brought by Gordon Lang, J. R. Widmer and M. F. McLain to determine the legality of locating the auditorium on the Market block. A new angle in the friendly suit ap-A new angle in the friendly suit appeared during the trial of the suit yesterday. In a map recorded more than half a century ago by Travaillot, a part of block 150, now occupied by the Cadillac Hotel, was shown as the property of the city, to be used as a lyceum or auditorium.

The city may commence litigation to recover this property should the pres-rium may be located on block 150, at Third and Columbia streets.

According to local attorneys, it is believed the courts would not allow the city to use the lycoum property, if acquired, for any other purpose than a lyceum or auditorium. Deputy City Attorney Latourette, who is representing the city in the suit, declared yesterday that a public meeting hall, owned by the city, was located on the property designated on Travaillot's map as a lyceum site in the early fifties.

Supreme Court Ruling Desired. The decision by Judge Davis establishing the legality of the auditorium site at Third and Market streets will be appealed by Hall & Lepper, attorneys for the plaintiffs, to the Supreme Court. Mr. Lepper said yesterday that efforts will be made to bring the matter before the Supreme Court immediately to enable construction of the auditorium at an early date.

C. E. S. Wood, Arthur Langguth and Deputy Cliy Attorney Latourette appeared yesterday to argue for the city, Attorney Lepper appearing for the Attorney Lepper appearing for the plaintiffs. Mr. Latourette had spoken only a few moments when Judge Davis interrupted.

"There is no use in going into this matter further," said Judge Davis, "for the court has made up his mind in this matter. There is no question in my mind that the city took possession of the Market block in the deed from W. W. Chapman to the city, recorded December 27, 1865. I therefore deny the petition for an injunction of the plaint-lifs in this actoion." Mr. Wood and Mr.

Languth were not heard.

The plaintiffs asked for an injunction restraining the city from building the auditorium on the Market block, alleging that the property was recorded on plats as a market place and could be used for no other purpose. Early History Recited.

Mr. Latourette explained the early history of the Market block. "When provisional government was estab-lished in this state by the early immigrants," he said, "every settler was given the right to squat on 640 acres of land. Pettygrove and Lovejoy set-tled on the site of what is now Portland and in 1850 they sold out their rights and property to W. W. Chap-man and Daniel Lownsdale. In 1851 man and Daniel Lownsdale. the city was incorporated and the Brady map was filed, designating block 132 as the market block. It did not state whether it was to be used as a public market or whether the city
could locate a private market thereon.
"The map showed various churches located on different sites, but many mistakes were made in this map and it is not to be relied upon by the courts. Both the Short and Lownsdale maps, filed in 1852, designated what is known as the Market block as block

"Block 150 was shown as the property of the Municipal Lyceum, the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons and as the location of the Sons of Temperance organization, but block 150 was not identified as even the city's property." declared Mr. Latourette.

The testimony was taken Monday by Judge Davis and many pioneers testified to the early history of the Market block. These, however, failed to agree on the intentions of the
