Troops at Camp Jackson Get Lesson in Attack and Defense From Experts.

TESTS GIVEN OFFICERS

Problems Presented as Groups Walk Over Grounds and Instructors Ask Militiamen to Solve Them as in Actual Hostility.

CAMP JACKSON, Gearhart, Or., July 16. — (Staff Correspondence.) — Text-books were the principal weapons in the bloodless maneuver warfare that was waged here throughout today by the force of 2100 National Guardsmen and regulars in camp or field instruction.

The fine points of battalion attack and defensive actions were gone into thoroughly.

Just how to advance across a hot field of fire with the minimum of loss and the maximum of damage to the enemy was the gentle subject of an extensive troop movement in which the six battalions of the Third Oregon and Second Idaho regiments participated this afternoon.

The terrain, west of camp, was found excellent for thorough instruction in these exercises, offering just such difficulties as would be met in actual warfare.

Flank Protection Feature.

All the subtleties of making use of every vestige of cover, of taking advantage of every shortcoming and loophole presented by an opposing force and of leaving no dangerous flanks in the manner of attack were thoroughly explored.

Special emphasis was laid on the importance of combat patrols for protection of flanks and for using these patrols at the vital stages of an assault or in repulsing an attack or counter-attack.

After this valuable practice and instruction in controlling the mechanism of commands, tactics was made the subject of study and discussion in tactical walks taken by officers and non-commissioned officers subdivided into groups. Each group was led by one of the Army instructors sent here by the War Department.

Officers Solve Problems.

Theoretical situations, such as would arise in a campaign, were presented by the instructors, and each officer was called upon for his solution.

This special instruction for majors, captains, lieutenants, sergeants and corporals is giving to the citizen-soldiers the most valuable military experience they have yet gained at Summer maneuvers.

It is serving to prepare the regiments to go into action with every commander ready.

As pointed out by the Army tacticians, the burden of responsibility rests rapidly in action. The Colonel's functions come to an end practically when he has sent his battalions forward for deployment. The Majors have little left to do after they have spread out their companies and assigned the sections of human targets offered by the enemy's front.

Squad Leaders Trained.

When the companies get down to the heat of battle, the squad leaders in the ranks become the controlling factors. Hence, it is pointed out, the necessity is obvious of perfecting every man in his work. With an ample supply of ammunition, the drillers will try their skill in demolishing targets that have been put up in the sand dunes along the beach.

Indirect fire will be used, the gunners firing on targets which they do not see, the ranges and firing data being signalled to them by officers on reconnaissance.

Colonel James Jackson, Inspector-General of the Oregon National Guard, arrived in camp this afternoon and will remain until the end of the instruction period.

The troops were mustered for pay late today.

James McClure has filed as a candidate for County Assessor. He is now a Deputy Sheriff in the office. Sheriff Tom Foster has asked for a second term and will probably have no opposition.

SPORTSMEN IN ARMS

Governor's Removal of Warden Held Political Act.

SCREEN ADOPTION FACTOR

Executive Reported to Believe His Official Was Too Much Interested in Patent, Which Is Emphatically Denied.

BOISE, Idaho, July 16.—The removal of O. H. Barber, of American Falls, a well-known newspaper man of this state, as State Fish and Game Warden, by Governor John M. Haines, and his appointment of Jess E. Gowen, a business man of Caldwell, as warden, has resulted in stirring up the ire of the friends of the former warden as well as the Haines supporters.

After Barber's removal, reports were afloat that the Governor's action was taken because he believed the former had too great an interest in the Salt Lake Johnson screen. When Mr. Barber heard this he was indignant and lost no time in placing the facts in a clear light. In a public statement in which he narrates how the Johnston screen happened to be approved by the Fish and Game Department, he gives the lie to the insinuation that he was interested in them in any other way than to have a good fish screen in use in this state.

David Burrell, also of American Falls, chief clerk of the House of Representatives during the last session, and a former member of that body, was one of the chief deputies under Barber. He, too, was requested to present his resignation. Burrell is said to have been active in opposition to the Governor.

In his letter removing Barber, the Governor gives as his reasons that he had permitted certain of his deputies to make trips over the state not in the interest of the department, and that he had shown in his expenditure of the public's money that he was not handling the fund judiciously.

Warden Explains Incident.

In reply Mr. Barber says he is willing to leave the latter charge with the sportsmen of the state for their credit as to the expenditure of the money and he asserts the charge about the traveling of deputies is groundless.

Mr. Barber says that it was at the Governor's suggestion he went to Salt Lake and took up the matter of the screens with the inventor, Mr. Johnston, and the manufacturer, and that the Governor had the State Engineer and his department test out the screens and pass upon their serviceability. The engineer gave a favorable report.

It was only at that time, Mr. Barber says, that he exercised his authority to declare the Johnston fish screen the pattern that should be installed in rivers, streams and canals in this state.

When Warden Gowen took over the wardenship, his first act was to rescind the former warden's order.

Many sportsmen censure the Governor for his action in removing Barber, claiming that it smacks of politics and that the primary campaign is on and the Governor is a candidate for reelection.

Idaho Line Being Rushed.

Dr. Thomas E. Green, One of Noted Lecturers at Gladstone Park Chautauqua.

Lake. The track put down this Spring is from Donnelly to McCall, and but ten more miles remain to be completed. It is predicted that the northern terminus of the line will be Lewiston or Spokane, and to reach either city the route will probably run down Little Salmon River.

Pastor and Bride Entertained.

GRESHAM, Or., July 16.—(Special.)—A reception for Rev. M. T. Wire and his bride was held last night on the lawn of Linnerman Methodist Church. It was in honor of their marriage and to enable Mrs. Wire to get acquainted. A programme of music was given. Besides members of the church many of the citizens of Gresham attended and extended congratulations to Rev. and Mrs. Wire. They were married at Lakeview, Or., two weeks ago.

GLADSTONE PARK, July 16.—(Special.)—Dr. Thomas E. Green talked "Peace" this afternoon at the Chautauqua as the patriotic day feature. His lecture was given before an audience of 3000 persons and with a background of 200 battle-scarred warriors, straining their grizzled faces to catch every word. The subject was "The Burden of the Nations."

It was a novel experience for the veterans to march upon the stage and sit for two hours while an orator urged that war be discarded as the last relic of barbarism left in this world.

Veterans Almost Convinced.

Dr. Green came as near convincing the gray-haired fighters that war was wrong, grand never, finely settled anything as any mortal man could do. While one or two of the veterans apparently would not be convinced, the first to seize the speaker's hand amid the applause at the conclusion of his speech were these same old, battle-scarred veterans, who had come to Chautauqua arrayed in the blue and gray.

"It is a crime, made so by the common conscience of the world, for two men to stand and deliberately murder each other to satisfy personal ambition, will you tell me by what logic under the sun two nations can do the same identical thing and remain guiltless?" asked Dr. Green. "War means deliberate plan for destruction, for murder. You cannot elevate murder into a virtue."

"Common Man Fights."

"Who fights? The common man, ever the common man, who not only fights, but also provides the money with which to do the fighting. Thank God, there is a common man in this land among the common people who says: 'Yes, yes, rush in and fight if you wish, but don't count on me to help protect your selfish interests.' In the last 300 years 85 per cent of the wars of the world have been inspired by mere handfuls of selfish men. You've seen it in the streets of our cities, but my friends, you will never see the same exploiting, man-eating, cannibal Wall street of 10 years ago; it, too, is a relic of the old."

Mr. Green attributed the growing peace sentiment largely to the enfranchisement of women.

Park Is Crowded.

A big crowd gathered in the park today. It was Pacific University morning and President Bushnell spoke at 11 o'clock.

At Mothers' Congress headquarters this afternoon Professor T. J. Gary, of Portland, spoke on "Parent-Teacher Extension Work." Mrs. J. C. Elliott King presided.

Ng Poon Chew and Dr. Homan are to speak Friday. Saturday is Oregon Agricultural College day and alumni and friends will hold a big basket picnic on the grounds.

WOMAN'S DEATH ACCIDENT

Coroner of Lane County Will Not Hold Inquest Over Mrs. Wilcox.

EUGENE, Or., July 16.—(Special.)—No inquest is deemed necessary by the Coroner into the death of Mrs. Lorana Wilcox, aged 75 years, killed last night by the Southern Pacific's Shasta Limited while crossing the tracks on the way to a neighbor's home. She apparently did not see the train until she was struck. Death probably was instantaneous. The body was carried some distance and was badly mangled. Engineer Paulson, traveling at 35 miles an hour, did not see the woman until too late. No blame is attached by the relatives.

UNITILLA HARVEST ON YIELDS UP TO LAST YEAR'S, BUT STRAW APPEARS LESS.

GRAIN SEEMS TO BE OF BETTER QUALITY, AND ON ONE PLACE NEAR PILOT ROCK BARLEY GOES 50 BUSHEL AN ACRE.

PILOT ROCK, Or., July 16.—(Special.)—Investing has begun an Unitilla County grower has found that in the heavy land districts the cold, backward Spring had the effect of producing little straw. The grain, however, seems to be of excellent quality. The light lands suffered little and the crop is averaging as good as last season, with a better quality of grain.

On the turtevant property, east of town, the barley ran 50 bushels to the acre, and was of good quality. North, on the Thomas Jaques place, the barley ran 112 pounds to the sack, which was heavier than last season. On W. B. Jenkins' place the barley ran 20 sacks to the acre. It probably will average 46 bushels to the acre.

On the Charles Manning place, northwest of town, the crop was somewhat light, but was considered up to last season in weight and number of sacks to the acre.

Reports are in circulation that about Hale and in other sections where a yield of 40 and 45 bushels were expected only 30 bushels are being threshed.

Gasoline tractors are taking the place of horses and mules in the harvest field this year.

After harvest is over the tractor can be used for plowing.
