Leavetaking of Fugitive ex-Dictator Solemn—Fleeing Ruler Pays Tribute to America and Non-Committal as to Wilson.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—General Carranza informed the United States Government today that he was ready to declare a suspension of hostilities against the government of Provisional President Carranza...

PUERTO MEXICO, July 20.—General Victoriano Huerta, former President of Mexico, left his country tonight and is on his way to Kingston, Jamaica...

Huerta Refers to Wilson. General Huerta referred to President Wilson in a conversation with the newspaper men just before leaving shore...

Arrests Are Made. A scare occasioned last night by the report that the constitutionalists threatened to attack the town still prevailed...

Senora's Eyes Red. General Huerta looked about with an air that seemed puzzled and a little painful...

Blanquet was at his side, both hands laden with packages. Aides followed similarly burdened.

Huerta's face lightened somewhat when the correspondents approached and he began to smile again.

United States' Power Realized. "But they have advertised me," he continued. "Oh, yes, they have done that..."

Officers, the laboring men and all others looked at him more closely, but with no loss of time Huerta shot back emphatically: "No, never."

General Huerta, whose wife had been signalling him to "come on," moved away toward the landing at the pier.

Camera Men Obligated. The picture men, who had been busy all the time, asked him to stop a minute more and he obligingly posed for them while they continued grinding out a record of his last moments ashore.

Aboard the Dresden, General and Senora Huerta were shown to the captain's quarters, which they will use during the next three days on the trip to Jamaica.

CRIMINAL ACTION IN PLANS

Unmerging of Old New England Line Alliance and Steamship Service Divorce Among Demands Due From Government.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Civil suit to separate the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company from its subsidiary rail, trolley and steamship lines will be brought by Attorney-General McReynolds in the United States District Court at New York within the next few days.

A final effort today to settle the problem without litigation ended in failure, although the Attorney-General, W. Gregory, special assistant in charge of the case, and a committee of New Haven directors were in conference many hours.

The New Haven case will be laid before President Wilson and the Cabinet by Attorney-General McReynolds.

In the Government's bill the New Haven will be charged with the maintenance of control in New England's transportation and with being a combination in restraint of trade and in violation of the Sherman law.

It was said tonight there will be at least two features in the bill not included in the Government's bill.

The court also will be asked to dissolve the New Haven from its so-called sound steamship lines which ply Long Island Sound and run from New York to most of the ports along the lower New England coast.

That the New Haven be required to divest itself of the Boston & Rhode Island trolley lines and the Berkshire trolley in the Connecticut Valley.

The agreement with the department provided for the sale of the New Haven's stock of the Merchants' & Miners' Transportation Company, but the recent sale to a Baltimore trust company has caused the Attorney-General to insist that the Government's bill.

The stalling-block in the negotiations has been over the disposition of the New Haven's stock controlled by the Massachusetts trust company.

EXCEPT FIRST ACT EVERYTHING IS SERENE.

Schoolmaster's Nightmare Is Depicted by Three Girls and Three Boys. Newboys Quartet Is Good.

Comedy reigns supreme at Pantages this week, for excepting the first act, which is a study in strength by two brothers, the acts are screams from start to finish.

Do you remember in your boyhood days the youngster who was always a thorn in the side of the pedagogue and who always was getting you to suffer punishment for the sins he did?

Another exceptionally good number is the American Newboys' Quartet. There are many so-called quartets of newbies, but this is the genuine old-fashioned quartet.

NAKED MAN IN WILDERNESS

ter and food supply, for the animals and birds are my friends.

Professor Waterman tells me that I will be lucky if I come out of this country alive, but I am sure that I shall live.

I am positive there must be game in this country, for, if there is not, there cannot be any game in the State of California. It is really the jumping-off place. Although we passed miners and prospectors on the trail, I believe the forest where we are is almost primeval. It looks it and it feels it.

Defeat May Be Admitted. If I do find, through any stroke of ill-luck, that the forest here will not provide the livelihood I believe I can wrest from nature, then I shall come out and say that nature here has covered its tracks so well that I was unable to succeed.

This is probably the last letter on the stationery of civilization that I shall write until I come out, 30 days or more from now. As I have arranged to do, however, I shall send in the Oregonian some letters from the depths of the forests to some of the strangest stationery that its editors and readers have ever seen. I don't know what it will be yet. It may be of bark; it may be on stone. Maybe it will be illustrated with some sketch which I even may be able to color with some berry juices or vegetable or mineral stains. But you shall hear from me, I promise you that.

INDIAN IS STUDIED

Dr. Leo J. Frachtenberg Makes Investigations Here.

August 8, when there will be a meeting of Indian school superintendents.

Dr. Frachtenberg crossed the continent with W. I. Brooks, assistant director of the United States Geological Survey, who is now in Alaska.

Another story related to Dr. Frachtenberg by Mr. Brooks was that the Governor of Alaska, Secretary Fisher of the Interior, and he, while on an Alaskan tour, had some exhausted to a shack occupied by a Swede and had asked for shelter.

Liquor Is Race Problem. Scholar Says Key to Preservation of Redmen Lies in Abolition of Spirits and Quotes Experiences of Tasmanians.

NEWPORT, Or., July 20.—(Special.) Dr. Leo J. Frachtenberg, an ethnologist of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., who specializes in Indian studies, has returned to Oregon after an absence of nine months in Washington, where he superintended the compiling of books containing the result of his former researches.

Dr. Frachtenberg passed four years on the Siletz Reservation. He leaves today for Chemawa Indian School and will later go to Neah Bay.

Dr. Frachtenberg believes that one of the vital questions concerning the preservation of the Indian races is the liquor problem. He said that an Indian cannot control his desire for liquor as well as the white man, and that, if left to buy as much as he pleased, he would soon be purchasing alcohol by the barrel instead of whiskey by the bottle.

Liquor Kills Tasmanians. The natives of Tasmania, he said, numbered 160,000 in 1860, when the British Government took hold of the island and allowed the liquor traffic to be introduced. In 1882 the last native Tasmanian died. Dr. Frachtenberg also said that he thought that the British were handling the Boers in South Africa in a similar manner.

Cato Sells, United States Commissioner of Indians, will be at Chemawa.
