CAILLAUX MOVES HEAVILY

behind the plea of "professional secrecy."

scientist, Paul Palliere, declared he had been told by the banker, Gaston Dreyfus, that the Figaro was going to publish several private letters. Leon Bailly, editor of Intransigent, related how M. Calmette had read the Fabre report on the Rochette affair at a dinner of a few friends, saying as he replaced it in his pocketbook.

"I always keep it on me; one never knows what may happen." Mme. Madeleine Guillemin, a life-long friend of Mme. Caillaux, who saw her on the night before the tragedy, said: "She was quite calm. In my opinion her act was unconscious. She never intended to kill."

George Fromentin, clerk in the drugstore, where Mme. Caillaux bought the weapon which she used to kill M. Calmette, described the sale of the pistol. He took an automatic pistol from a package before the judges and explained its action.

"I had never fired a pistol," Mme. Caillaux interposed. "I had hunted with my husband, however." Another gunsmith's employe said Mme. Caillaux had practiced in the range under the store. Three of her six shots struck a target the size of a human figure.

Mme. Sylvie Chartran, the wife of an artist, said Mme. Caillaux had confided her apprehensions to her two days before she killed Calmette, saying she feared her letters were about to be published.

Isidore de Lara, a musical composer, testified to lunching with the Princess of Monaco on the night of the shooting. He said that Mme. Caillaux had spoken a great deal at the table about the "Thy Joe" letter. He continued: "I thought she talked too much. Mme. Caillaux seemed greatly distressed."

The witness spoke of the gentleness and sweetness of Mme. Caillaux's disposition.

TRADE CALLED ACTIVE

IRA F. POWERS HEARS VIEWS OF EASTERN BUSINESS MEN.

Money Outlook Believed Good, but Trip Also Makes Him Stronger Advocate of Good Roads.

Ira F. Powers has come back to Portland a complete "good roads" fan after five and a half months' travel in Europe.

"From now on," he says, "there will be no more persistent booster for good roads than I, for I have seen since I left Portland innumerable object lessons of the importance and necessity of them to the upbuilding of a state as rich in natural scenic features as Oregon. The tourist crop is a wonderfully important crop and Oregon will only realize the full importance of it to prosperity and growth as she improves her facilities for handling it."

Mr. Powers expresses his belief that business conditions throughout the country are on the mend and that the fall season will be a good one nearly everywhere.

"In New York alone did I notice serious depression, and I think that conditions there would improve if someone could kill off the pessimists."

"Stopping in Grand Rapids on the way back from New York, I talked with business men that had come there from all parts of the country and the tone of their conversation was, almost without exception, optimistic. California is a trifle dubious over the impending possibility of the prohibition amendment carrying in that state, but that is about the only 'calamity talk' I heard."

While in Europe Mr. and Mrs. Powers traveled through Italy, France, Germany and England. Business conditions in all of those countries Mr. Powers found good, with the exception of Germany, where it is a trifle quiet, and throughout the continent there appeared to be a tendency toward still further improvement of conditions, he said.

VILLA'S ATTITUDE MENACE TO PEACE

Complications Both Internal and International Cause Trouble for Mexico.

AMNESTY NOT PROMISED

Carranza's Refusal to Give Guarantees May Force Carbajal to Muster His Military Forces and Resist to End.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Peace in Mexico is far from assured, and complications, both internal and international, are rapidly entangling the situation. Administration officials, diplomats and Mexicans of both factions here believe.

The United States Government is exerting every diplomatic influence toward harmonizing discordant elements, but certain aspects are admittedly grave. Official reports reveal that the most threatening factor is the aloofness of General Villa from the authority of General Carranza. Another vexing point is that General Carranza, according to his agents here, is disinclined to grant an amnesty to political offenders and will insist on an unconditional surrender by the Carbajal government.

Carbajal Demands Assurances. Unless Carranza is willing to give assurances that there will be no wholesale arrests, executions and confiscations of property when the constitutionalists enter Mexico City, Provisional President Carbajal will rally all military elements at his disposal and resist to the end the constitutionalist advance.

The diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Chile and Brazil, who mediate in the international dispute between the United States and Mexico, have indicated through Secretary Bryan their belief that a peaceful transfer of authority could be accomplished with little difficulty if an amnesty were granted and proper guarantees given.

Foreign complications are looming up as between Mexico and England, and France and Spain and European creditors generally who had financial relations with the Huerta government.

Reparation Will Be Demanded. England is preparing to ask for satisfaction for the killing of William S. Benson; France is making vigorous protest over the killing of two French citizens at Zacatecas. The Spanish government is anxious that the Spaniards driven from Torreon and other points be reimbursed for their losses. The grievances of these countries are judged against General Villa particularly, and General Carranza's estrangement from Villa has made it difficult for the first chief to attempt to settle them satisfactorily.

The Washington Government has made an earnest appeal to both General Carranza and General Villa to forget their personal differences and work in harmony for the restoration of peace. No indication of Villa's attitude since receiving the appeal has come, but reliable advices to the Washington Government are that Villa has been concentrating his troops preparatory to making vigorous demands on Carranza.

SUSPECTED SPY RELEASED

American Shows Suffering Endured in Prisons of Morelos.

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—George Duval, an American arrested at Cuernavaca, in the State of Morelos, May 7, on a charge of espionage, was sent to Vera Cruz today by the Brazilian Minister. After having been detained in Cuernavaca for a few weeks, Duval was brought to Vera Cruz and confined in several prisons. Recently he was taken to the military hospital in a bad state of health.

Duval was not released until July 20, after the resignation of General Huerta. When he arrived at the Brazilian legation he was in a pitiful condition, suffering from lack of food and clothing. He was furnished with clothing and funds by the Brazilian Minister and will be cared for by Consul Gaudin at Vera Cruz until he can be sent to the United States.

The charge of espionage against Duval was not proved.

BRUSH FIRES CHECKED

FLAMES NEAR OSWEGO UNDER CONTROL, SAY FIIGHTERS.

Burned Area to Be Encircled by Ditch As Precaution—No Real Timber Destroyed Is Report.

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 22.—A report was received at the State Forestry office late tonight that a brush fire, which had been burning for several days, had been checked by the fire fighters.

The brush fire which has been burning in the vicinity of Oswego since last Saturday was reported last night by Hugh Henry, of the Oregon Forest Fire Association, to be well under control. Mr. Henry was at the scene of the fire all day yesterday, having taken five men from Portland early in the morning to help those on the ground.

These five men worked under A. H. White, one of the county road bosses at the north end of the blaze. Thirteen other men under Leo M. Martin, who has been deputized by State Forester Elliott to take charge of the fire fighting, devoted their energies to keeping the blaze from spreading.

As a further precaution today, a few more men from Oswego will be added to the force on the ground. It has been decided to dig a trench around the fire area to guard against any possibility of its getting again beyond control and spreading. This trench will have to be from 2 1/2 to 3 miles long. The fire was prevented from spreading yesterday, and Mr. Henry said no timber has been damaged and no property is threatened.

"So far as I could learn," said Mr. Henry, "no property has been injured by this fire except the mill in which it started."

"It has not at any time, however, been a real forest fire, being what would call a brush or slash fire, and no timber has been damaged."

C. S. Chapman, secretary of the Oregon Forest Fire Association, said last night that in spite of the long period of dry weather, there were no serious fires in the state.
