Sunburned of cheek and plump from two weeks of wholesome farm cooking and with their arms laden with fruits and vegetables and gifts of clothing from their hosts, the children of the Silverton fresh air party came back to Portland yesterday.

There were 50 of them, two or three having been kept in Silverton for a longer visit. And they brought with them reports of elaborate preparations under way for the reception of the second Silverton party which is to go

August 4.

Their hosts were really sorry to part with their little guests yesterday morning when it came to the actual separation and there were many tearful eyes in the crowd that assembled at the depot in Silverton to bid the little ones goodby.

Beys Spend Busy Hours.

Mrs. John Wolford, chairman of the committee in Silverton, sent word to Secretary Manning, of the Associated Charities, that she was "immensely proud" of the party and that the children had behaved perfectly. In the preparations for the second party the Rev. Mr. White, of the Lutheran Church, is canvassing among the members of his congregation for places for the children.

Among those to stay from the first party is "Major," 12, who was not in Served White Aprilements a dozent, and the close for the season, but some nice large ones are in market at 20 cents a dozent, and the close for the season, but some nice large ones are in market at 20 cents a dozent, and the close for the season, but some nice large ones are in market at 20 cents a dozent and pasket, or 75 cents a crate of four baskets. Nectarines, at 10 cents a dozent, and Italian prunes, at two dozents for 15 cents, add to the already large variety Oregon offers of fruit.

One of the latest comers is Osage muskmelons from The Dalles, at 25 cents each and two for a quarter. Canteloupes are four and even six for a quarter, and watermelons have come down to a cent and a half a pound.

The little fellows went down and bought it with their own money, but found themselves too bashful to present it, and so compromised by laying it on the floor where the little girl would get it. Dr. Lewis, of Silverton, donated his services to the fresh air children and attended to their "stomach aches" and splinters in their bare feet. The people of the town organized pienic and ice cream parties for them, and alto-gether the 10 days they spent in and near Silverton were quite filled with pleasures. INQUIRIES CAUSED BY AD No Positions Open in Postoffice

Prospective Students Learn.

Postmaster Myers has had many inquiries in the last two days concerning an advertisement appearing in local newspapers to the effect that "po-sitions would be open in the Portland Postoffice at $80 a month" and that applicants could fit themselves for the work by a course of study provided by the advertiser. the advertiser.

"There are no positions open," said Mr. Myers yesterday, "nor is there any possibility of any being open. We have a large eligible list from which to fill vacancies as they may occur, and there will be no examinations for positions in the Portland Postoffice until September 5, 1915. People who answer
