yesterday showed more building activity and movement of real estate than the month of July, 1913.

During July, 1914, 53 permits, aggregating $868,155, were issued at the City Hall, as compared with 515, aggregating $851,895, during July, 1913. Among the large projects which helped to swell last month's total were the construction of the $250,000 municipal docks on the East Side, the $135,000 ass container to be built for the Portgas container to be built for the Portand Gas & Coke Company in the Southeast Side and the $50,000 permit authorizing the preliminary work on the new Meier & Frank Company building.

Realty transfers amounting to $742.-631 were recorded at the Courthouse last month, as compared with the much larger total, $2,360,183, for the corresponding month last year.
Since the first of the year July and March are the only months that have shown an improvement over the cor-responding months of the previous year in building permits and May and March are the only months that have shown increased realty transfer totals over those months of the year 1913.

Defendants named are T. Scott Brooke, E. Henry Wemme, E. T. Ames, J. C. Beck, T. A. Linthicum, H. W. Pierong, Pantages Amusement Company, J. A. Johnson and the Empress Amusement Company.

Judge McGinn held that it would be best for all concerned to have all the facts made public and he recommended one trial for all the defendants.

CAT CASE PROVES COMEDY

Defendant ip Damage Suit Cleared When Witness Admits "Crime."

Who killed the yellow and white male cat owned by M. Domstauder, 509 North Twenty-sixth street? This was the question to be answered in Judge Jones' department of the District Court yesterday. A dozen witnesses were yesterday. A dozen witnesses were called to testify in the suit brought for $25 damages by the cat owner against Louis Kleim, a neighbor. The trial developed into a roaring comedy, and even the judicial solemnity was disturbed.

The defendant was discharged finally, as one of the witnesses admitted he had killed the cat. The superintendent of the garbage incinerator and his as-sistant were called to identify the cat's carcass, and considerable testimony was
