SALMON TRADE AFFECTED

Buyer From Fatherland Arrives to Make Heavy Purchases, but Declaration of Hostilities Is Cause of Inactivity.

"No matter who wins victory, everybody loses in this terrible war that has come upon us," said Max Pudlich, of Koeslin, Germany, at the Multnomah

Koeslin, Germany, at the Multhoman Hotel yesterday.

"If Germany wins, the cost will still be great to the fatherland. For the last 20 years we have enjoyed unexampled prosperity. Everybody has more money than he used to have. Our industrial development has been going forward. Business has been good. No matter who wins, all this will have to be built up again, for war puts an end to business and development. Everybody loses in the end.

"Even the United States must lose.

"Even the United States must lose. Germany is one of the best markets this country has." Association, speaking at the Portland Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon on "Why Is War"?

Mr. Pudlich is a salmon buyer, representing a large house in Germany. He comes to Oregon every year to negotiate for the salmon pack output of the Columbia River. He was preparing to buy this year's pack, when the war news stopped the deal.

"Why Is War"?

"The reason for war is that the great fundamental laid down by Jesus in the Golden Rule, Love thy neighbor as thyselfself, has not yet become sufficiently effective with nations and with individuals to control us in these matters of strict. War Hits Salmon Trade. "That is an example of how a European war cannot help but hurt this country; that brings it home to you," said Mr. Pudlich. "The market for packed salmon is right now absolutely dead. If I bought it, I could not get matters of strife.
"We all know that men do not hate each other. The soldiers that are now each other. The soldiers that are now to kill and murder their rivals know that war is foolish, barbarous and all wrong. There is only one thing that will prevent war, and that is the spirit of the Golden Rule.

"Once it comes into full sway on the earth, the dogs of war will be tied up and peace will prevail. The horribleness of the impending struggle may hasten the day of complete peace, for it will forcibly demonstrate the folly of it all."

H. W. Stone, general secretary of dead. If I bought it, I could not get the money from Germany to pay for it, and I could not ship it home. I can-not even get in communication with my home office.

H. W. Stone, general secretary of the local association, also answered the question, "Why Is War?" by en-larging upon the points made by Mr. "Bremen, Germany, and Liverpool England, are the two great cotton-buy-ing centers in the world. That market is stopped. Germany is the greatest market for Pacific Coast dried fruits. In any city in Germany you will see California dried fruits. Of course, until this war ends, there will be no market in Germany for dried fruits." Though Mr. Pudlich left Germany
