Lieutenant Makdych Prepares Table Showing Strength of Four Belligerents.

TEUTON ADVANTAGE SEEN

Russian Mobilization Slow, Is Statement of Soldier, Who Explains Manner of Formation of Each Military Force.

A table showing the military strength of Germany, France, Austria-Hungary and Russia has been prepared for the Oregonian by First-Lieutenant J. Makdych, of the Austrian reserves, who is connected with the printing firm of A. E. Kern & Co.

The chief value of the table, aside from its use for comparative purposes, is that, when the dispatches say that a certain army corps of either of the four nations has been ordered to the front, giving the number of the corps, German, Russian, Austrian or French readers of the Oregonian may refer to the number of the corps in the table and learn from what city the corps is sent. Thus they will be able to determine whether their friends or relatives have been sent into the danger zone.

Armies Fully Mobilized.
"The German and Austrian armies are fully mobilized at the present time," said Lieutenant Makdych, "for they have a science of mobilization. In 1903, 1908 and 1912 the entire Austrian army was able to mobilize in six days. This means that all the army corps assembled in their headquarters cities, ready to be sent to any part of the empire."

"Every town has one or two companies, and they come in to the cities to make up their regiments. Then, if the regiment is sent out to a 'cadre' or framework regiment, it is kept in the headquarters cities for each regiment, and recruits come in and fill the regiments to full strength. They are trained, and if the regiment receives a second call other recruits come in and fill the ranks of the skeleton regiment."

Although the Russian mobilization began before that of the German army, the latter has a great advantage in this regard, according to Lieutenant Makdych, who says that it will take the czar at least four or five weeks to get his troops together.

The table prepared by Lieutenant Makdych, showing the relative strength of the four armies, their disposition by corps and the composition of each corps as to infantry, cavalry and artillery, follows:

RECRUITING HERE STOPPED

British Consul Believes America Will End Illegal Practice.

"This business of recruiting former residents of other countries involved in the trouble in Europe undoubtedly will be stopped in the United States, if the war gets under way, for it is entirely illegal," said Thomas Erskine, British Consul.
"In the Boer War there were no British subjects recruited in this country, although many served. They paid their own expenses until they got on a British ship or on British soil. Under this arrangement it is probable that most British reservists who desire to return to the service in the event of war will make their way to British Columbia."

MAP SHOWING POSITIONS OF FRENCH AND GERMAN ARMY CORPS, AS INDICATED BY YESTERDAY'S DISPATCHES.

First Lieutenant J. Makdych, of the Austrian army reserve, having read the cablegrams from Europe, yesterday drew the above map, showing the positions of the German and French army corps, now moving against each other for what may be a decisive battle of the war. It is the common understanding that Germany hopes to crush France in a decisive engagement at once and then turn her attention to the more slowly mobilizing Russians on her eastern frontier. The heavy dotted line indicates the French-German frontier. From the position of the troops yesterday it would appear that a great battle is soon to be fought in the vicinity of Nancy, France.

SWISS CALLED IN

Reserves to Be Used in Holding Neutrality.

ARMY MOBILIZATION PLAN

Consul Streiff Calls on Switzerland's Young Men and Old, From 20 to 48, to Report for Possible Service During War.

Preparatory to establishing its neutrality with force, if necessary, Albert Streiff, Swiss Consul for Oregon, received yesterday summons from the Swiss legation at Washington, D. C., in which the reserves throughout the United States were asked to report at once to the Consul of Switzerland in their respective territory.
Advertisement for the "Auszug" and "Landwehr" of the country is now being run in the papers.
The telegram from the Swiss Legation reads:

Notification Notice Out.
"Consulate of Switzerland, Portland, Or.—Mobilization of the whole Swiss army ordered. Affects Swiss incorporated in the Auszug and Landwehr living in the United States. Notify Swiss in your district. (Signed)
"CHARGÉ D'AFFAIRES HUESCHER."
The "Auszug" includes all men between the ages of 20 and 30. The landwehr includes those from 30 to 40 years of age.
One other division, Landsturm, (Landwehr) is mentioned in the telegram, but Consul Streiff believes that it is included in the mobilization and has asked that all men between 40 and 48 be notified of the landsturm report to him also.
The three divisions mentioned compose the three classes of the Swiss army. The first division is the nearest approach to the standing army. Every man enrolled goes into an eight weeks' camp every two years for what is known as the "review course."
Target Practice Yearly.
The men between 30 and 40 organize every year for a short target practice and review of the school of the soldier.
Just 44 years ago Switzerland was in practically the same position, with fighting all around it and holding its neutrality.
The country then was a retreat for France's fleeing army. The retreating legions of Bourbaki sought refuge in Switzerland, and 80,000 men were cared for by the little republic throughout the years of that war. The present mobilization is for the same purposes, to maintain its neutrality against all.

MUSICIANS CARRY CHIPS

INTERNO RAGES IN BANDS THAT HAVE MANY NATIONALITIES.

Leaders Find Diplomacy Needed When Neutrals Stir Europeans by Chance Remarks at Concerts.
International diplomacy was never more severely put to the test in any of the dynasties of Europe than it is in McElroy's Band at the Oaks, or Brown's Band in the municipal park concerts, for there isn't a nation in the great European conflict that is not staunchly and frequently pugnaciously represented among the musicians.
Indeed, at the Musicians' Union headquarters there are more different brands of chips going around on more different nationalities of shoulders, it is probable, than in any other place in the city.
W. E. McElroy, director of The Oaks band, finds himself at most sudden and unexpected moments called upon to arbitrate an international disturbance that has been fomented by the neutral element in his band.
On the surface it may not look bad, when "Mac's" baton is drawing out of the responsive aggression of the great European conflict that is not stirring tones may be raging a very inferno of Russo-Italian-Anglo-Franco-Teutonic fury.
Ach Gott! How should Kolb soften the sighs of his bassoon to the amorous airs of sunny Italy when his soul is stung to the madness that demands that he should rip out a few

BIG GERMAN FISH BUYER HALTS HERE

F. Klevenhusen, Head of Firm, Waits in Vain for Word From Bremen.

TRADING NOW IMPOSSIBLE

Stalled Merchant Expresses Fear That Shutting Off of Cotton Supply Will Be Disastrous. Kaiser's Victory Predicted.

Calmly and watchfully waiting at the Hotel Muhlmann for news from his native land is F. Klevenhusen, of Bremen, Germany, head of the firm of F. Klevenhusen & Co., of that city. He had heard nothing from Bremen for three days yesterday, and believes that the German government must have forbidden the use of the cables for private purposes.

Mr. Klevenhusen's firm imports salmon from the Pacific Coast, buying in Portland, Astoria, Seattle and Alaska ports. Four carloads of frozen and cold-cured salmon were shipped from New York for Bremen by the firm on the steamer Quersaat just before the European trouble became acute. The steamer when one day at sea was recalled by wireless. The salmon was placed in cold storage, where, with other shipments for New York, it must remain until calmer times. In the meantime Mr. Klevenhusen can do no buying.

There will be excitement in Bremen over the cotton situation," said Mr. Klevenhusen, "for Bremen is one of the biggest cotton ports of the world, and this disturbance shuts off her supply."

"If Russia is the victor in this war, what will England gain?" he asked, discussing the possibilities of England's siding against Germany. "What a setback to human progress it would be. Russia is the most reactionary nation on earth. Besides, victorious in this war, she would not only threaten England in India and attempt to take Persia, but she would become the most powerful factor in Western Europe."

"But Russia is not going to win, and if England, as I think very improbable for the reasons I have pointed out, sides with France, thus becoming an ally of Russia, it may mean the conflict, but will affect the result not at all."

Mr. Klevenhusen says it would be impossible to land an invading force on the German coast, by reason of its character and the strength of the fortifications. Besides these difficulties to an invader, it was the most confidence that the German navy will cope successfully with any foe it meets.

"It is probable that every automobile in Germany that may be used for military purposes has been commandeered," said Mr. Klevenhusen. "The government has the big freight auto trucks with the understanding that they are to be available in time of war."

He drew a small map showing the

Doctor Speaks Out to Coffee Drinkers

The Boston Advertiser of June 15, 1914, quotes Dr. D. H. Kress, of Chicago, in an address as saying that tea, coffee and cocoa cause more deaths than alcohol.

"These table beverages are sapping the life of our Nation. They are making us a race of weak-kneed, weak-livered beings, unable to reproduce ourselves. The kidneys and liver do not perform their proper functions, and the waste matter left in the system tends to bring on arteriosclerosis."

"Statistics show conclusively that as the consumption of coffee, tea and cocoa have increased, the number of nervous diseases and insanity have increased proportionately."

This strong statement from a medical authority, cannot be lightly disregarded.

It is easy to prove in one's own case whether coffee is the cause of frequent "spells" of nervousness, indigestion, biliousness, liver complaint, headache, heart disturbance and other ills.

Quit coffee 10 days, and in its place use

POSTUM

—then note the difference.

Made from prime wheat and a bit of molasses, Postum is a pure food-drink, entirely free from the pernicious drugs in tea and coffee, or any other harmful substance.

In thousands of homes Postum supplies a table beverage, pleasant to the taste, and to be used freely as a re-builder, where coffee and tea tear down.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum, must be boiled, 15c and 25c pkgs.

Instant Postum, a soluble form, made in the cup instantly, 30c and 50c tins.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum
