Sprinkler System Recommended and Construction of Concrete Dock Under Span With Fire Walls.

Unless immediate action is taken by the City Council and the Public Dock Commission, the Broadway bridge is in danger of being destroyed by fire, if frame buildings underneath should burn, according to the report of Building Inspector Plummer, which was filed yesterday with the Commissioner of Public Works. Commissioner Dieck will recommend to the Council at the next meeting that the under side of the bridge floor be covered with tin and that sufficient covered with the and that sufficient hydrants and hose reels be placed under the bridge approach to enable firemen to reach any part of the structure in case of fire.

Recommendations have been made to the Public Dock Commission that an additionable to the public description of the sufficient of the ordinance be enacted by that body requiring all buildings within 500 feet of a bridge to be provided with automatic sprinklers.

The construction of a concrete public dock on the property under the we approach to the Broadway bridge lso recommended. Fire walls should be erected at both sides of the ap-proach, according to Mr. Plummer's report. Feet, Bruised and Infected,

Professor Waterman Marvels at Cure of Experimenter's Ills-Joe Now

Forest, via Holland and Grants Pass, Or., Aug. 6.—(Special.)—Personally, I consider that Joe Knowles has had a very close call. His feet were not only scratched in the early stages of his experiment, but the abrasions became infected. At the present time some of infected. At the present time some of his toes are twice the normal size, though he now considers them "cured." His limbs were swollen and black almost to the knee. If he had come into camp in this condition I would certainly have gone out the 50 miles for medical aid. It seems to me that if it had here any worse he would not even Knowles has been rather more ingenious than I expected; for example, his method of catching trout in the East was to build a dam across a stream below a pool with a "trap" or chute at one side. By going upstream he could drive the trout down into it. The brooks in the East, however, seem to be quiet and still. Here in California they tumble helter-skelter over rocks and along little guilles. The trout here are nothing more than gray shedows amid the foam and streaks of Fish Net Ingentous.

Knowles also has made a line with a fly, which he uses for casting. The hook part is made of the wishbone of closser & Devers, 1-11 N. Front st. bone he trimmed off for the hook and to the other he attached his cedar bark string. This string is brittle when dry,

A stipulation prepared by Judge Mc-Nary, proposing a way to end the tie vote between the two, was accepted yesterday by Judge Benson. The stip-ulation was signed and returned.

Council resolved themselves into a committee of the whole Council and passed more than two hours taking evidence in regard to charges preferred against Marshal T. J. Williams by Rev. Charles Wilson Baker, pastor of St. George's Church of this city. In his statement before the committee Mr. Baker said Marshal Williams, acting without authority, entered the parish house of St. George's Church, turned off the lights and broke up what the pastor termed was a private dance. threatening him later by stating that he knew where he (Mr. Baker) secured his booze. Mr. Baker further charged the officer with threatening to arrest members of the dancing party as they were about to leave the parisi house and enter automobiles prepara-tory to being driven to their homes. Mr. Baker's testimony was corrob-orated by Mrs. Nathan Fullerton, wife orated by Mrs. Nathan Fullerton, wife of a druggist, and several other young women who were present at the parish house on the night of the alleged trouble. Mrs. Fullerton said she was hostess on the occasion and that those present were simply practicing a few new steps in dancing. Mrs. Fullerton said Williams went so far as to threaten to put them in the "cooler" in the event they caused a disturbance.

Legal Right Alleged.

Legal Right Alleged. Marshal Williams and Night Officer Marshal Williams and Night Officer Ketch gave testimony to the effect that they had consulted the City At-torny and had been apprised that they had a legal right to stop the so-called private dance. They also testified that Williams did not threaten the members of the party with arrest until after they had signified their intention of going on a joy ride to get even with of going on a joy ride to get even with the officers. The officers further asserted they were the target of numer-ous slurs hurled at them by the mem-bers of the dancing party.
