It was found that bottom lands, that up to three weeks gave every appearance of preducing 1900 pounds to the acre. will yield only from 1200 to 1400 pounds. This yield only from 1200 to 1400 pounds. This yield only from 1200 to 1400 pounds. This tremendous shrinkage is due to the continued dry weathen. It is said it no rain falls between now and the time of picking this estimate may be reduced still more.

Cables received yesterday brought the near that practically no hops will be imported into Ergland from Germany, and this deficit will have to be made up from America. The English market is advancing, and as it is regarded as doubtful that the Continental crop will be harvested, New York dealers anticipate that New York's crop will sell at 58 cents a pound.

Lack of War Risks and Fear of Capture Prevents Ships From Sailing.

Although some business is being done with Orient and California, the grain trade the Orient and California, the grain trade is at a standstill as far as export business is concerned and it is all a matter of guess work when grain ships now in port will get away with cargoes to Europe. The Japanese are taking a limited amount of wheat, The grain is coming to Portland more freely than at this time last year, 163 cars having been received during the first three days of this week.

ships are not only held in the harbor because of the European war, but those en route have been stopped and are lying in venient harbora. Since wheat has been ared contraband of war, and war risks not been adjusted to cover grain carers from this port, owners do not care their vessels venture out, fearing a apture. The reports of German cruisers off his coast deter English ships from starting on the long voyage to the United Kingdon and exporters say this is the whole explanaof the present stagnation.

it has been rumored that the local banks are not financing the grain movement be of the uncertainty and that grain is being diverted to Puget Sound ports on that account. This is denied by both bankers and exporters, however. Some exporters have cancelled charters themselves because of the present unsettled conditions. It is until war risks are arranged. there will be no outlet for export grain,

The coffee market, fike the market for all goods that come from foreign countries, is very much excited. The stock on hand in the United States is supposed to be ample to cover ordinary requirements for from six weeks to two months.

As previously stated on these columns, all the coffee is brought to this country in English and German steamers, Practically all of these have been withdrawn and he coffee is coming. Arrangements are presumably being made to ship coffee in Brazilian steamers. There are but a few of these and at the earliest processly no coffee could reach here from Brazil under 60 days. In the meantime stocks will become very low. Bankers demand that even coffee coming in Brazilian ships have war risk insurance placed on it and this is costing about 3 per cent. Freights on coffee have doubled, adding another 3 per cent. These advanced, adding another 3 per cent. These advanced, adding another 3 per cent. try and it is likely that prices will remain high.

Today coffees in New York and New Orleans are held at an average advance of 2½c per pound, or on ordinary grades 20 per cent increase in value. How much further they will go up depends entirely on how soon supplies will reach this country and how great a quantity comes.

What applies to coffee applies also to tea as well, and the average advance on teas has been 15 per cent. As long as Japan keeps out of the difficulties we are likely to be supplied with teas.

As regards spices and seeds, the advance on these goods varies according to the country of production. Spices show an average increase of 25 per cent, seeds an increase from 25 to 200 per cent. The seeds which come from Holland, Germany, Russia and Austria show the very great increase of 200 per cent and these particular sorts are liable to remain high for several years were there no change in the price in the Were there no change in the price in the country of production of any of these goods, the increase through insurance, higher freight rates and higher exchange would and oti-er vessels are now loading in primary centers, but these cargoes are said to be made up of coffee which had been paid for before the foreign exchange situation became demoralised.

The curb market for futures was decidedly easier today. The demand to release hedges seems to have tun its course for the time being, while there was some scattered liquidation of old long accounts under which prices declined to 7.75c for September contracts, or about 90 points from the high level of last week. Rio grades were also easier in the spot market with 5s quoted at $\frac{1}{3}c.

A relatively good demand was reported for Santos and quotations for is were maintained at 14 to 15c, according to description.

BAD CHECK MAN ADMITS

WILLIAM A. MURRAY CONFESSES VICTIMIZING MERCHANTS.

Elaborate Scheme to Flood City With Worthless Paper Uncovered by

William A. Murray, arrested Satur-day night by Patrolmen Klingensmith day night by Patrolmen Klingensmith and Schad, contessed yesterday, according to the authorities, that he, with another man, the identity of whom the police have not learned operated a fake general contracting and manufacturing office to aid them in flooding the city with bogus checks. Their operations resulted in the loss of several hundred dollars to local merchants within the last few weeks. According to Detectives Hellyer and merchants within the last few weeks.
According to Detectives Hellyer and Tackaberry, to whom the prisoner is said to have confessed, Murray and his confederate had a quantity of letterheads printed for the "McBride, Fleming Co., Inc., General Contractors and Manufacturers." The office of the concern was supposed to be located in the Yeon building, while the plant was listed at 309 North Nineteenth street Checks were then printed place of business Saturday and pre-sented one of the checks. When they received the money they stepped out-side and were seen dividing it. This aroused the suspicion of Villa, who reported the matter to the police. Murray was yesterday bound over to appear before the grand jury.
