Our Once-a-Week 'New Book' Review

"THE VICTIM," by Thomas Dixon--An historical romance, woven around the personality and career of Jefferson Davis. The story is told in a clear and concise form, without passion or prejudice--and the reader "feels" the power of the man whose leadership of five millions of people, though almost forced upon him, has a most wonderful achievement. Throughout the tale runs a love story, delicately handled, and strong with the strength of heroism and utter submission to the "cause." Briefly, "The Victim" is one of the greatest stories of the Civil War period, charmingly written and fairly handled. Price, $1.25 Net.

"ONCE TO EVERY MAN," by Larry Evans--This is Mr. Evans' first novel, though his short stories have appeared in the leading periodicals of the country, and he has won for himself a niche in the hearts of story-loving people. He writes of the great outdoors--the hills, the fields, and running the dice down deep into their hearts and plays up the better side of human nature--the side that predominates in many instances in the face of the greatest odds. "Once to Every Man," by Larry Evans, is a condensed, unheeded, nearly 1,000-page novel, written when his father was a drunkard--by the Court of Common Repute he is relegated to the same path. But he triumphs! And of course there's an incentive--"Once to Every Man" is worth reading. Price, $1.35 Net.

"DIANE OF THE GREEN VALLEY," by Leona Dalrymple--This is the $10,000 prize novel, selected from 500 manuscripts by the Great Novel Contest. It follows that it must be a story of exceptional merit and keen interest. From page to page the reader follows the trail of the Green Valley. It's a tale of the open, wholesome, manly world, and is intensely interesting. Price, $1.35 Net.

"YOUTH'S ENCOUNTER," by Compton Mackenzie--An English story, woven about the life of a boy, and most adequately. From page to page the reader follows the trail of the Green Valley. It's a tale of the open, wholesome, manly world, and is intensely interesting. Price, $1.35 Net.

DIVORCE HELD NULL

Man, After Second Tie, Is Told Decree Is Forgery.

NEGRO LAWYER ACCUSED

Portland Carriage Painter's Plight Revealed When First Wife Asks Law to Prosecute Him--Husband Ignorant of Deceit.

Believing that he had been divorced legally, J. H. Young, a carriage painter living at 9 East Seventh street, married again. Yesterday, eight months after his second marriage, he was notified that his divorce decree is a forgery and that his second marriage is null and void. Young was taken to the District Attorney's office, his ex-wife, now at Boise, Idaho, having asked that Young be prosecuted. Deputy District Attorney Dempsey investigated the charge and learned that Young possessed a forged divorce decree he regarded as real. Young said he applied to Lewis A. Dawley, a negro attorney, in November of 1913, to obtain a divorce for him, and paid $75 attorney's fees in advance. In December, Young says, he called on Dawley to ask about the divorce proceedings, and was handed a type-written copy of a divorce decree. This document, said to be the one now in possession of Deputy District Attorney Dempsey, is declared to be a forgery. Deputy District Attorney Dempsey says Young did not sign any complaint, and did not appear in the divorce court. Young, he said, was surprised at having obtained a divorce so easily. A month later, in January, 1914, Young married Mrs. Sarah Tackelberry at Van-

ABANDONED BABE FOUND

Mother Provides $5 and Directions for Feeding Infant.

Abandoned by her mother, a 3-week-old girl baby, clean and well-cared, was found yesterday morning in Washington Park and cared for by Mrs. E. E. Mische, wife of the Park Superintendent. The cries of the infant attracted a passerby, who telephoned Mrs. Mische. An envelope tied around the child's neck was addressed: "To the Finder." Inside was the following note: "To the one who finds my baby: I am a widow and unable to support her. I live in the country near here with a friend, and my baby was born at her house July 24. I intended leaving her at the baby home for adoption, but they said they had no room, so I have left her here in the hope that someone will find a home for her. I have mailed $5 to the Associated Charities to be used in caring for her until a home is found for her, so please present this note to them." "Feed according to inclosed directions. She is used to wearing just half this amount of clothes." The note was signed "Mrs. Scott." Mrs. Mische summoned Mrs. Lolla G. Baldwin, of the Department for the Protection of Women, and the baby was placed temporarily in the Baby Home at Richmond.

VICTORIA MOBS ACTIVE

BRITISH COLUMBIA CAPITAL STAGES OWN LITTLE FIGHT.

Hostful Hotel Proprietor Gets Severe Beating as He Flaunts Kaiser's Prowess Before Patrons. "Tense excitement because of the war news, with mob uprisings against German residents and business men of Victoria, have so changed the general aspect of the British Columbia capital that an old resident returning to the city would question if it were truly the same place," said James A. Patte, traveling Northwest representative of the Hotel Multnomah, who was in Portland Sunday. He makes his headquarters at Victoria. Mr. Patte said that German residents are leaving British Columbia rapidly, but that he does not know where they are going, unless it is to the United States. As an instance of the anti-German feeling, he said that the proprietor of the Kaiserhof Hotel, one of the best in Victoria, made a slighting remark about the English while conversing with a number of his wealthiest patrons, and they gave him a terrible beating. The hotel man resembles the Kaiser, and was wont to boast of the resemblance. "Last week a young German girl" continued Mr. Patte, "was driving an automobile past a bulletin board where a large crowd had gathered to get the war news. She shouted some disparaging remark about the English king. Her car was surrounded immediately by the mob, who took her from it, and then turned it upside down in the street. No harm was done to the girl. "An argument between German and English cooks and waiters in the Vancouver Hotel precipitated a general melee in which dishes were thrown and several of the disputants injured." Victoria is headquarters for the British military and naval reserves, and all reservists must report there for transportation to England. Mr. Patte says that the streets in front of the government buildings are the scenes of reserve camps, and patrols are kept
