TARIFF CUT KILLS MOHAIR INDUSTRIES

Multnomah Mills Shut Doors When Lower Duty Opens State to Foreign Goods.

PLANT TO GO TO CHINA

Loss of Higher Wool Prices, Market for Products and Another Payroll Is Laid Directly to Democratic Regime.

Oregon mohair producers have had a practical demonstration of the disastrous consequences of tariff meddling by the present Democratic Administration.

The Wilson policy has not only resulted in a material reduction of the market price of mohair, but it also forced the Multnomah Mohair Mills, a Portland institution, the only factory in the West established for converting the raw material into manufactured goods, to close its plant down indefinitely.

Plant Has Steady Growth.

Four years ago John Eben Young and his associates organized the Multnomah Mohair Mills and erected a plant at Sellwood that represented an investment of $225,000. The mill had a capacity of 1,000,000 yards annually, representing an output of $500,000, and was amply large to handle about one-half the combined clip of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, averaging 750,000 pounds, the bulk of which is produced in this state.

The mill began on a smaller scale, but, as the requirements of the trade demanded, additional units were developed until, at the beginning of 1913, it was being operated to capacity, furnishing employment to 150 men and women. The factory was forced out of business in the Summer of 1913, soon after the Underwood bill went into effect.

Factory to Move to China.

Mr. Young explained yesterday that he is negotiating for the removal of the plant, machinery and equipment to China, where cheap labor is enabling manufacturers to benefit from the reduced tariff schedules.

"When we began operations," said Mr. Young yesterday, "we paid 20 cents a pound for wool, but, through the development of our business, the price increased to 40 cents, due largely to the fact that it could be handled at home. Not only did our operations have the effect of stimulating the market, but a material improvement in the breeding of Angora goats resulted. We bought mohair on a basis of quality whereas this product formerly was bought more with respect to quantity, as many other commodities.

Labor Is Big Cost.

"But the reduction in tariff removed the protection from American labor, which alone made our operations possible, and obliged us to close down our plant and seek another location. Forty-five per cent of the cost of our manufactured mohair goods was labor, and when that protection was interfered with, our only alternative was to quit business, as we could not compete with the manufacturers of England and Germany, who, with their cheap labor, under the Administration's tariff schedule, today can pay the small duty and ship their goods into this country for less than it costs the home manufacturer to buy the raw material and convert it into the finished product.

"In contrast with our price of 40 cents per pound the fact that the 1914 clip brought an average price of 27 cents in this state tells its own story of the havoc the Administration's tariff policy has wrought on an important Oregon industry."

DIVORCE COURTS ACTIVE

Five Decrees Granted and One Suit Filed Is Day's Record.

Five divorces granted and one new divorce suit filed was the record established by the Circuit Court yesterday. Circuit Judge Cleeton signed three decrees and Judge McGinn and Judge Gatens signed one each.

Judge Cleeton granted the following decrees: Iola G. Wade from Fay E. Wade, cruelty; Bertha Abel from Simpson Abel, desertion, maiden name, Bertha Watkins, restored; Iva McCartney from George E. McCartney, cruelty, maiden name, Iva Roper, restored.

Judge McGinn granted a decree to Mrs. E. N. Briggs from B. D. Briggs, habitual drunkenness, and gave her the two children.

Judge Gatens separated Bertha M. Ware from William F. Ware and awarded her the two minors, Lila, 15, and Ivan, 13.

Bessie C. Larsen filed a divorce suit yesterday against Louis Larson, alias Lee Hardy. They were married at Yorkville, Ill., in 1884, and she alleges that he deserted her in 1889. Since that time, she charges, he gave the children 50 cents each in 1896.

ROAD TURMOIL GROWS

COURT SAYS IT WILL PROCEED WITH ST. HELENS WORK.

Protest of Clatskanie and Rainier Residents Is Futile—Proposed Recall Not Disturbing.

ST. HELENS, Or., Aug. 19. — (Special.)—Another turn was taken in the fight over distribution of the funds under the road bond issue, when citizens from Rainier and Clatskanie came to St. Helens yesterday and demanded a hearing before the County Court.

The protestants asked the county to spend no money in constructing a new road into St. Helens, but to appropriate county funds for the Clatskanie-Rainier road.

Although they argued with the court until late in the evening the Commissioners held that the lower end of the county was well provided for and that immediate conditions demanded connection of the Columbia Highway with St. Helens.

Of the $360,000 allowed on the main road, contracts for $280,000 have been let for the lower half.

A recall petition originating in West St. Helens by persons who would like to see immediate improvement of the adopted survey west of the railroad track and through West St. Helens, has not disturbed work on the highway. The road is progressing and advertisements for work on other parts have been published. The county has advertised for Columbia City-Warren road construction through St. Helens.

Walla Walla Has Farm Fires.

WALLA WALLA Wash., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Smut explosions and sparks have caused the burning of over 1500 acres of standing grain near Prescott and Waitsburg since Friday. On the Joe Harvey ranch near Prescott Sunday and Monday, over 600 acres of standing grain were burned. This is the third farm fire this year. On the Odell ranch 400 acres were burned and there were fires on the McLaughlin and Malloy ranches. A. Hopson lost 130 acres of grain and a separator and on the McKinney ranch near Waitsburg 400 acres were burned.

UNION SCHOOL VOTE SET

Five Districts to Show Sentiment on Question August 30.

Five districts will vote upon the location of a union high school August 30, notices to this effect being sent out by County Superintendent Armstrong yesterday. Superintendent Armstrong favors establishment of a union high school.

The vote first will be on the site for a union high school, if one should be organized, to get unanimity of opinion. If the location is determiner, the next procedure would be to vote on the question of establishing such a school.

Votes will be taken in the following named districts in Multnomah County: Alto Park, West Portland, Hillsdale, Mabelwood and Fairvale. The districts of Metzger and Garden Home, in Washington County, also may decide to vote on the question.

INDIAN CHIEF TO SING

Iroquois to Take Part in Production of "Hiawatha."

PITTSBURG, Aug. 15.—Chief Skai-an-nan-dak, of the Allegheny Indian reservation and one of the principal councilors of the Iroquois nation, will join the Lloyd-Hiawatha Indian players. Skai-an-nan-dak comes here from Idaho where he has been visiting the Bannock tribe.

Aside from his influence among Indians in both the Eastern and Western tribes Chief Skai-an-nan-dak is noted as an Indian singer with a voice of wonderful range and volume. So much interest has been shown by musical students in Pittsburg in the Indian music that Director Lloyd has engaged the Seneca chief particularly to augment the singing contingent of the "Hiawatha" company.
