MATTHES AND SNOW ARE HELD IN JAIL

W. J. Summers, Also Arrested for Alleged Bank Swindle, Furnishes Bail.

GRAND JURY TO BE CALLED

Holland Vice Consul Declares Igporance of American Methods Responsible for His Plight. Accomplices Are Blamed.

In default of ball, J. W. Matthes, local Vice-Consul for the Netherlands,

In default of ball, J. W. Matthes, and Robert W. Snow, an alleged accomplice in committing forgery whereby the International Mortgage Bank, of Apeldoorn, Holland, was defrauded of large sums, were committed to the County Jail yesterday.

W. J. Summers, arrested on a like charge, succeeded in raising a $5000 surety bond yesterday and was released pending action in his case by the grand jury. All three will be taken before the September grand jury, which will be called together next Tuesday by District Attorney Evans and will begin work the following day.

Mr. Matthes made a long statement to Deputy District Attorney Evans and will begin work the following day.

Mr. Matthes made a long statement to Deputy District Attorney Murphy yesterday. In talking with newspaper men he attributed his troubles to the others arrested and their alleged accomplices. He says he was made a catspaw of by those clever enough to take advantage of him. He admitted, however, that as notary public he acknowledged his own signature in carrying out a $5000 Crook County land deal.

Beyond asserting that he is innocent

Beyond asserting that he is innocent Beyond asserting that he is innocent of the charge against him, Mr. Sumers had nothing to say. Mr. Snow says that he is the victim of circumstances and that the others, particularly Matthes, are "passing the buck" to him. He declares it is sought to make him the goat, but says he can the situation out and show straighten the situation out and show just where the blame lies as soon as he can arrange ball.

day. He further denied that he has profited personally by his transactions with the Apeldoorn bank, but said that he had been victimized by others shrewder than himself. He further laid his trouble largely to his ignorance of American business methods.

"One man, whose name I do not cars to mention, came to see me once about a loan," said Mr. Matthes. "He was well recommended and I was favorably impressed with him. He asked me how much commission I was paid and I told him 1 per cent. He told me it was not enough and that he could arrange it so that I would make more. He proposed that the additional commissions be split between us.

He even went as high as 25 per cent in some cases, obtaining this amount from the borrower as brokerage for obtaining the loan. "This man later had me at his mercy. He made threats to me that if I did not come through with more street yesterday afternoon.

A neighbor notified the I did not come through with more more whenever he wanted, he would money whenever he wanted, he would write to the bank in Holland and expose me. His the secretary were mixed and I wanted to tell him the real status of the case then, but thought that if I waited a year and business conditions improved our affairs would come out all right. On the contrary, the opposite has happened. At that time, however, I telegraphed Mr. Bakker to come back from New York, when he was on his way home, but he answered that he could not return.

was erecting a number of houses. He got me to keep paying money to him, showing me bills that later proved to be for houses upon which we had no mortgage. Later he failed and left the city with about 200 mechanics and to protect the bank I had to pay these claims.

"I was besieged with laborers and material men who had not been paid. There was about $25,000 due and they looked to me for the money. I realized that if these liens were foreclosed it would entail additional loss to the bank and so in order to protect what was already invested, it was necessary to put up about $20,000 additional. I took over 12 houses, partly completed, from this contractor with the hope of putting them in shape to sell or rent and get the money back.

"I discussed the situation with Snow, who was building houses also and to whom loans had been made. In order to get money, I bought vacant lots, Snow making the arrangements and I furnishing the money. In order to make the mortgages available for the bank we had to use dummies. I paid Snow certain amounts to take care of the bills. A part of this went for his living expenses. Snow got the men to sign as dummies."

The books show that Snow got about $64,000 from the Apeldoorn bank and property deeded back to it by Snow amounts to about $30,000, say the authorities.

"Summers came to my office to make some leans," continued Mr. Matthes, telling me he had good land in Eastern Oregon, of which there were several sections. One tract was said to be worth $8000, and I took his word for it. This is what was known as the Twitchell tract. This was sold to Mallory, a Californian. Summers said he was a good man and would pay the interest. Summers valued the farm lands at three times the amount I would loan on it and the returns would interest. Summers valued the farm lands at three times the amount I would loan on it and the returns would cover up the unpaid interest.

Mismanagement Is Conceded. "So far as I am concerned, I never made a transaction in which it was made a transaction in which it was not my purpose that the money should go to the bank. It was mismanagement on my part, I have no doubt, but I was taken advantage of by people who knew I was up against it and that I could be influenced. They knew I would be the goat.

COMMITTEE IS ARRANGING FOR UNEMPLOYED PROBLEM.

Other Work May Be Provided During Winter.

The first step in plans of the city, county and state to provide work for the unemployed in Portland next Winter is to be the selection of a secretary to represent the City Commission the County Board of Commissioners and the State Board of Control. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the official seasonal employment committee at which the problem was discussed at length. the meeting were all members of the City Commission and Rufus Holman, representing the County Board. Although they were notified, the mem-bers of the State Board of Control, of which Governor West is chairman, did not attend the meeting. Commissioner Brewster, to whom was referred the matter of proposing persons for the position of secretary, reported that he had two men in mind. one is captain Andrews of the Salvation Army, who has had much experited in the unemployment problem.

Mr. Brewster said he had conferred with Captain Andrews but the latter doubted if he would be able to take the place. He will be urged further.

If his services cannot be secured an affort will be made to get a man named Pauley, who was in charge of the "Hotel De Gink," a refuge established in Seattle last Winter for the unemployed.

The plan is to have the city and the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the expense of paying it may be controlled to the county share in the captain and the county share in the captain and the county share in the captain and the captain and the county share in the captain and the ca mittee on employment.

It was decided by the committee that its function should be not only to furnish work for idle men, but also to encourage private concerns and individuals to furnish work.

County Commissioner Holman announced to the committee that he avenues to the committee that the avenues to the committee that its function should be not only to furnish that he are the committee that its function should be not only to furnish that he are the committee that its function should be not only to furnish that he are the committee that its function should be not only to furnish the committee that its function should be not only to furnish the committee that he are that he are the committee that he are th CENTRALIA, Wash, Sept. 4.—(Special.)—The premium lists for the Cowlitz County fair, at Woodland September 17 to 19, were issued Wednesday. The fair is the next of importance in Southwest Washington, and every town in Cowlitz County is working to make it a success. Particular efforts are being made to have a high-class exhibition of stock and farm products.

County Commissioner Homan aupects the county to have money on hand during the Winter to give work to men on some of the roads.
