TEACHERS TO MEET TODAY

When School Bells Call Pupils in Monday, Enrollment is Expected to Show Increase of 1000 Over Last Year's Opening.

When the doors of the Portland public schools open Monday an increase of about 1000 above the opening day's attendance last year is predicted by the city superintendent's office.

The first event attendant upon the opening of schools will be a general organization meeting of teachers, to be held in the auditorium of Lincoln High School today at 2 o'clock.

Following Mr. Alderman's talk and the announcements from his assistants, each principal will meet with his corps of teachers and organize his staff by giving general instructions and checking up to see that all will be in attendance Monday.

It is expected that nearly all of the 1900 teachers and supervisors employed in the Portland public schools will attend today's organization meetings.

The actual routine of classroom recitation and assignment will not come until Tuesday. All of Monday will be given over to organization of the classes.

Book Changes Extensive. When the grades open Monday morning at 9 o'clock the pupils in the different rooms of each of the 64 buildings in Portland will be given their book lists and census forms to be filled out.

Because of the many changes in textbooks, probably more book exchanges will have to be made this year than ever before in the history of the Portland schools.

Probably every school youngster in Portland will have to exchange nearly all of his books, said R. H. Thomas, clerk of the school district, yesterday.

"This will involve a total expenditure of $150,000, but the book stores have arranged to take a large share of the old books in exchange for the new ones.

Each pupil will be supplied with a slip giving the list and exchange price of each book.

"The opinion seems to prevail that children must come into the city to make all of the book exchanges this year, however, such action will neither be necessary nor advisable.

The large book stores have made arrangements to have all of the books required in the grades sold in 50 different communities.

In order to facilitate the sale and exchange of school books the clerk's office has compiled a list of the local stores near the various schoolhouses.
