P. L. Mack spoke on the "Scope and Usefulness of the Oregon Industrial Club." It was decided to make the exhibit an annual neighborhood event. Miss Grace Shank had charge of the Industrial Club this Summer. At the Peoples Theater the audiences in a big man's play yesterday. Jesse L. Lasky presented Dustin Farnum in a big man's play yesterday. Jesse L. Lasky presented Dustin Farnum in "The Virginian," from the book by Owen Wister. "The Virginian" is a cheering breath from the West and in one of the most artistic productions yet made by the Lasky Picture Company. The photography is beautiful, the action swift and consecutive. It required a special cast of 300 players and is composed of 400 scenes.

Everyone is familiar with the story of the Virginian, his quick temper, his magnificent personality, his lovable character, his power to make friends, his ardent worship of Molly, the little school teacher, and his devotion to duty. Throughout yesterday compents of highest praise were given by enthusiastic audiences.

Next Sunday the Peoples will show Hobart Bosworth in the title role in another of Jack London's great stories, called "Burning Daylight."
