

WEDDING

MISS MINNIE FLEISCHNER'S wedding to William Heller Ehrman, which was the all-important event of yesterday, was notable for its charming simplicity. The ceremony was solemnized at high noon in the ballroom of Hotel Multnomah, and an elaborate wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families and relatives, who were the only guests. The bride, a dainty, vivacious girl, was attended by her small sister, Miss Elise, and Joseph Ehrman, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Rabbi Jonah B. Wise officiated.

PRINCIPALS IN PROMINENT WEDDING IN PORTLAND YESTERDAY

The bride was given in marriage by her father, I. N. Fleischner, and was especially charming in a gown of exquisite white satin built on simple girlish lines, and trimmed with pleatings and flouncings of tulle. She wore a short tulle veil, banded with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was an artistic arrangement of white orchids, lilies of the valley and gardenias. Like the Miss Fleischners, she wore a smart lingerie frock of Valenciennes and cluny lace over plush-pink silk. It was a straight frock, tied with a huge corsage girde of pink satin. She carried a bracelet arrangement of pink rosebuds and maidenhair ferns.

The old Jewish ceremony, a very impressive one, was used. A simple white altar was erected in the center of the ballroom, the front of it being covered with satin and an exquisite piece of Duchesse lace, which is an heirloom. Further adornment was a vase of white asters and an old brass candelabra. Another old and rare custom, that of using the Sabbath lamp, was part of the ceremony.

Suspended from the ceiling were baskets filled with long, graceful Pasadena ferns, and the sides of the room were banked with huge clusters of brilliant-hued Autumnal foliage. A colonnade, dividing the breakfast-room from the front of the ballroom was formed of tall, slender white columns, linked with heavy ropes of pink and lavender asters. The breakfast was served at small tables, each being decorated with low bowls of asters and ferns. The bride's table was all white, a bowl of graceful anemones and the towering, snowy cake with its white ribbons, to which were attached dainty boxes of wedding cake, carrying out the scheme of simplicity and youth.

One of the charming features of the function was the singing by the bride and her cousin, Mrs. Henry W. Metzger, her rendition of "Ich Liebe Dich" being particularly impressive and artistic.

After the ceremony the bridal party was assisted in receiving the guests by Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Fleischner, parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ehrman, of San Francisco, parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Fleischner was handsome in an imported gown of bronze-toned taffeta and net, with a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Ehrman was distinguished in a stunning black charmeuse and lace gown, with a corsage of orchids.

Upon their return from a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ehrman will be at home at the Kickeria, residence at 611 North Twenty-first street.

The Fleischner-Ehrman engagement was announced last Spring while the young folk were in a romantic and picturesque Egypt, and since their return to the United States they have been feted extensively. The youthful bride and her husband are popular in Portland society as well as in San Francisco.

Mr. Ehrman is a member of Mason, Ehrman & Co., of this city, and belongs to several local clubs.

A delightfully pretty tea was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cully to honor Miss Helen Ladd, who will leave today for Westover School in the East, entering on her third year. The McCully residence was adorned artistically with a profusion of pink gladioli, pink and white asters and zinnias. The daintily-appointed tea table was decked with a huge bowl of yellow zinnias, and was presided over by Miss Ruth Teal and Miss Katherine Hart. The guests included the younger belles, many of whom will leave this month to re-enter the various schools they attended last Winter. The charming hostess was assisted by Miss Rhoda Kumelin, Miss Esther Tucker, Miss Grace Peters and Miss Mary Stuart Smith.

Mrs. James G. Gauld has asked a few friends in to tea this afternoon in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Sidney Ashe, a prominent matron of San Francisco.

Miss Floy Sommer, who has been visiting in Seaside, has returned to her home here and resumed her studies at Reed College.

Mrs. L. Sommer and Mrs. M. Sommer, who passed the Summer in Seaside, have returned to Portland.

H. R. Spencer, of Portland, is passing a few days in New York and is at the Wolcott Hotel.

Mrs. W. G. Howell and daughters, Lucille, Mildred and Genevieve, have returned from Astoria and Seaside, where they passed the month of August.

Mrs. M. J. Badollet, of Astoria, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Howell, at her home in Mount Tabor.

Miss Opal Cochran, who has been visiting at the home of Miss Dalles Perkins, returned to her home in Ione, Or., yesterday.

Mount Hood Circle, No. 151, Women of Woodcraft, will give their opening dancing party September 25 in the East Side Woodmen Hall, 112 East Sixth. This is the first of a series to be given during the Winter.

Miss Edna Mason, who has been a guest of Miss Nora Keeling for a fortnight, returned to her home in Spokane on Friday.

Today will be notable for two smart weddings, both to take place this evening. Miss Rosalind Kingsley and Medford Reed's marriage is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daniel Kingsley, and at 8:30 Trinity Church will be the scene of the Koehler-Huber nuptials. A reception at the Huber residence will follow at 9 o'clock.

A distinguished visitor, Miss Grace Lindley, associate secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church of New York, will visit Portland October 13 and 19, and during her sojourn will give a course of lectures. She is well known in the missionary educational field and is a prominent worker in the East.

The committee chairmen are: Membership, Mrs. C. B. Simmons; Mrs. W. T. Wade; department, Mrs. G. J. Frankely; press, Mrs. Robert French; calendar, Mrs. H. E. Chapman; social, Mrs. M. H. Lamond, assisted by Mrs. L. L. McAloney; visiting, Mrs. C. M. Scott; publicity, Mrs. A. H. Breyman; Mrs. A. King Wilcox; resolutions, Mrs. D. A. Waters; philanthropic, Mrs. Charles J. Smith; educational, Mrs. S. M. Jamison; visiting nurses, Dr. Lillian Baker; Greater Portland Plans Association, Mrs. Frankel; school beautifying, Mrs. G. O. Jefferson and Mrs. R. M. Tuttle; public housing, Mrs. Esther A. Jobs; women's building, Mrs. Charles E. Runyon; Mrs. John Van Zante and Mrs. Frankel; Oregon Industry League, Mrs. J. A. Reeves; Mrs. Jamison and Mrs. Frankel.

At Chapter C, P. E. O. meeting Friday, Mrs. Ora Bess M. Seeburger will appear as vocalist on the programme. Mrs. E. G. Titus, of 655 Tillamook street, will be the hostess. Chapters A and G will be guests. Mrs. Carrie R. Beaumont will be accompanist.

Mrs. John F. Beaumont, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will visit the Linn chapter at Albany, September 16. The Oregon Lewis and Clark chapter in Eugene will be visited by Mrs. Beaumont October 1.

The Brentwood Ladies Aid, of which Mrs. Mary Strader is president, met at the home of Mrs. Laird on Kindorf road Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance. Refreshments were served.

At the regular meeting of the Women's Political Science Club, held in room H, Library, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Josephine R. Sharp, the newly-elected president, occupied the chair. Mrs. Mattie C. Rhodes spoke on "Should Capital Punishment Be Abolished?" Mrs. Rhodes expressed the opinion that at present the death penalty is necessary for the maintenance of this form of punishment. A lively discussion followed, the speaker answering all arguments. Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. Rhodes elected delegates to the State Federation meeting to be held in Eugene October 12.

The Oregon Congress of Mothers is issuing a call to all the women's organizations of the state to take part in a Women's day at the Salem State Fair, Tuesday, September 29. All women's clubs are requested to send representatives to a meeting to be held at the Oregon Congress of Mothers' department at the health and welfare exhibit, Yeon building, Saturday at 2 P. M.

GETTING A START

NATHANIEL C. FOWLER, JR.

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
I addressed the following question to several hundred of America's men of mark, including college presidents and other educators, presidents of railroads, banks and great corporations and men of affairs:
"If all the young people in America were in session and you were asked to telegraph a few words of advice, what would you say?"
Because I used the word "telegraph," the replies were concise and concrete. Quite naturally many of them were in the nature of platitudes, but no less valuable on that account, because conventional direction addressed to conventional people may have greater value than would a display of originality or an attempt at fine writing.

The reader should bear in mind that each answer to my inquiry is a man of pronounced success, with an international reputation for accomplishment. It is obvious that men of this class would not, and could not, say anything except what would be of value to the rising generation.
From the many hundred "telegrams" received I have selected the following: The president of one of the largest insurance companies in America wrote: "Be sober, truthful, honest and energetic."
The editor-in-chief of one of our leading newspapers said:
"To thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."
The treasurer of a great corporation and the director of several banks replied:

"There is plenty of room at the top, and the number of men who can attain this position is comparatively small. I give as my opinion that most young men of average ability, whose families are in moderate circumstances, should content themselves with such an education as they can obtain in the city high school or the village academy, up to their 17th or 18th year, and then make life their university. They will have this satisfaction that, while they may be at some disadvantage, they are not thereby debarred from reaching the first place in the conduct of affairs; that the struggle itself is a school for the development of energy and character. It is true, now as ever, that opportunity does not make the man; the man makes the opportunity.

A famous author said:
"I should say there is no success where you don't succeed inside yourself. Outward success without inward success is a glided failure."
A United States General expressed himself as follows:
"Be diligent in business, serving the Lord and your country, and be true to your fellow-men."

A great merchant, perhaps the leader of his class in America, "telegraphed":
"Be true to God and man, Master the English language. Never spend more than you earn. Remember the glory of American citizenship and do not fail in doing your best to pay your debt to the past by serving your country to the best of your ability. God and country first, self afterward."
The president of a great Western college "wired":
"So act every day that nothing you do will injure you afterward or prevent the man you ought to be from doing all that he might when his time comes to do it."
If I had asked myself to send a "telegram" I might have sent the following:
"Be yourself. You can't be anybody else. Make the most of yourself, because all you have is yourself. If you try to be what you are not, you will neither be yourself nor anybody else."

THE BLACKNESS OF WHITE LIES.
DID you ever think of the blackness of white lies? There are no white lies. They are all black.

Honest money getting is a timely topic in our modern world. The principle of all right exchange is equilibrium, the quid pro quo, as the common phrase is. In all honest trade for every good received an equivalent good is rendered. In every legitimate bargain both the persons interested are satisfied, and permanently satisfied; each gets what he wants.
"Truth, as between man and man in the conduct of business, will never fail if each party will put his conscience into his dealings."
"Trust that man in nothing," said Laurence Sterne, "who has no a conscience in everything." Is not a man who is partly honest, wholly dishonest?
I recall a story I once read of a man who took a seat in a railway car and piled the seat at his side with bags and parcels. The car became crowded, and a gentleman asked if the other half of the seat was occupied. "Yes, those things belong to a man who has just gone into the smoking car, and he'll be back presently." The gentleman, having reason to suspect the truth of

This statement, said, "All right, I will sit here till the man comes back." Proceeding to remove the bundles and bags, he placed them on the floor or in the racks. The other man glared but could say nothing. As a matter of fact, "the man in the smoking car" was an invention. By and by the owner of the bundles arrived at his destination, and began to gather up his effects. "Excuse me," said the gentleman, "but you said these bundles belonged to a man in the smoking car. I shall consider it my duty to prevent you from taking them, since by your statement they don't belong to you."

The officers of the imperial dynasty, assisted by a delegation of about 25 common, garden variety of Muts, will take the regular afternoon program away from the fair management and run things to suit themselves from the grandstand. Later in the day the fun-makers will take possession of the City Hall after ousting the Mayor and proceed-with the initiation of about a dozen of the citizens of Gresham. The Muts will leave Portland, starting from The Oregonian building at automobiles at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

One of the most dangerous characters in the business and social world is the man or woman who has no vigor of integrity, who indifferently honest, who prefers to be on the side of the right, but who will quibble, will tamper with the truth, will not quit the whole truth if his or her interests are jeopardized.

Applying This Paste Actually Removes Hair

(Beauty Notes.)

Merely applying an inexpensive paste to a hairy surface, say beauty patch, will dissolve the hairs. This paste is made by mixing a little water with some powdered delatone; after about five minutes it is rubbed off and the washed. This simple method not only removes every trace of hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. To insure success with this treatment, be careful to get real delatone.—Adv.

Women's Clubs

By Edith Haight Holmes.

CHAIRMAN of the various departments of the Portland Women's Club and their assistants are beginning active work on the plans for the coming year's club activities. Several of the committees have been holding meetings and an active year is predicted.
