JUDGE CLEETON REFUSES CASES FOLLOWING COURT DECISION.

Multnomah Bar Tries to Solve Tangle and May Either Appeal to West or to Supreme Court.

No probate business was transacted yesterday in Multnomah County, Judge Cleeton declining to act further in view of the recent Supreme Court decision to the effect that he has no authority to pass on probate matters. To un-ravel the present tangle, the Multno-mah Ear Association has called a special meeting for tomorrow night in Judge Cleeton's court.

Judge Cleeton's court.

At that time the whole situation will be discussed thoroughly. The decision in full will be considered and it is hoped to arrive at a satisfactory understanding of the situation. Means of making an adjustment so that probate business can be transacted will be discussed and it is a second of the situation. cussed and it is expected a decision will be reached as to whether to initiate further litigation before the Supreme Court on the subject or to petition the Governor direct to appoint a probate judge at once, so that the court may resume business.

Among the speakers who will discuss the Supreme Court's decision will be Judge Martin L. Pipes, Judge Charles. H. Carey, Charles W. Fulton and A. E. Clark

Attorneys and others interested were as much at sea as ever yesterday over the curious condition that has arisen. It is not thought likely that the great mass of probate business transacted since the last session of the Legisla-ture will have to be done over again. in fact it is impossible to readjust all these matters. Since Judge Cleeton has at least conducted a de facto court, it is believed it had sufficient color of au thority so that a curative act by the next Legislature will legalize everything that has been transacted.

Another angle of the situation has arisen in that Judge Cleeton is a member of the Equalization Board, that is now in session. The law residies that ber of the Equalization Board, that is now in session. The law specifies that the third member of the board, in addition to the County Clerk and the Assessor, shall be the County Judge. If Judge Cleeton is not County Judge, he apparently has no authority to act on this board. Fortunately, however, two members make a quorum and the remaining two can, it is believed, transact the business legally.
