THE MORNING OREGONIAN, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1914.

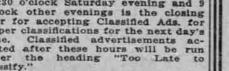

by Arogoni.

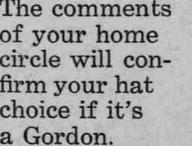

Mrs. Eliza A. Ihrke, better known among the old-time residents of Ore-gon as Mrs. Clark P. Crandall, died at son as Mrs. Clark P. Crandall, died at the residence of her son, E. D. Cran-dall, 108 Bonite avenue, Piedmont, Cal., on Sunday, September 13. Captain Crandall, her first husband, was for many years a prominent journalist of Oregon, and was connected with the Morning Oregonian and the Salem Statesman. Mrs. Crandall moved to California in the late '70s, where she has since resided. She leaves two sons, Edward D. Crandall and Harry E. Cran-dall, who are now residents of that state.

Mrs. Crandall's death removes the last direct descendant of Mr. and Mrs. Rice Dunbar, who settled in Marion County, in the Waldo Hills, in the early '50s, where they reared a large family that has since played a prominent part in the upbuilding of the Northwest Coast. R. O. Dunbar, for many years an honored member of the Supreme Court honorad member of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington, and W. R. Dunbar, who during his life was a well-known cltizen of Oregon and Washington, were brothers of Mrs. Crandall. Captain and Mrs. Crandall Were for a long time residents of Port.

OPPORTUNITY TOLD CLUB Business Men Hear Talk on War

"Our Opportunity Today, as a Na-tion" was the topic of an address de-livered yesterday by C. E. S. Wood, at the meeting of the Progressive Busi-ness Men's Association in the Multno-mah Hotel.

13