BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. Into every man's life creeps one big ambition that overshadows everything else. For the Kalser just now Paris is the goal; Bill Haniey yearns for $8,-000,000 of Uncle Sam's kale; Hap Hogan would give his kingdom for a pennant;
Astoria breathlessly awaits 40 feet over the bar. It is always something that comes about once in a lifetime, and to the ball pitcher that clusive butterfly is generally a no-hit game.
Yesterday the big thing came to Southpaw Johnny Lush, of Portland.

Lush pitched a no-hit game against Venice in the final double-header of the series, and, by a strange prank of for-

Lush performed in the second affair. Had he received any kind of support the Tigers would never have registered even one run. But divers and sundry members of his backing contrived to boot the ball and run bases like amateurs, and as Southpaw Dr. Harris White was pitching a superb brand of pastime, it was Lush's luck to draw the zero end of the tallying.

White allowed eight hits.

The Tigers' score pattered across in the fifth inning, when Davis wer Derrick's to 0. Downs' three bobbles at the second station largely were responsible for Mission's 3-to-1 victory in the sets of down after the third inning and from that point held the Seals runless. The score:

White allowed eight hits.

The Tigers' score pattered across in the fifth inning, when Davis tossed high over Derrick's head and put Litschi on second base. An infield out boosted Litschi to third and Yantz' failure to hold one of Lush's low shoots brought disaster. It was scored as a wild pitch. Even at that had Yantz been a quick thinker he could have saved the game. This Corban out is thinker he could have saved the game. Rowdy Elliott was batting at the time and Rowdy deliberately blocked Yantz' return throw to the plate.

Litschi Slides In. Had Yantz thrown the ball into left for the ump but to call the runner out. But he threw high to Lush and Litschi slid in underneath.

The Venice Tigers went southward last night with four of the five games of the series credited to them. Happily for Portland the rival teams in the league were satisfied with splitting double-headers, so the Beavers still are enjoying the topmost scenery in the league.

In the first game of the double-decker 3800 fans saw Southpaw Roy Hitt clubbed unmercifully by the Mc-Credleltes after his teammates had driven Rieger out of the box under a

A Little Journey to San Francisco

BY EARL B. GOODWIN.
Before coming here, I heard a great deal of the wickedness of San Francisco, but during my sojourn I have seen but little of the same. However, I have heard rumors that the blockade is to be lifted on the Ceast of Rohemia. Or was it Rarbary? I am not sure. San Francisco is located on the shores of the Golden Gate, a body of salt water connected with the Pacific Ocean. Many of the esgeconsumed here come from China, and some of the butter from fareff New Zealand, where the cost of living for chickens and cows is not so hish as it is here. Many people here are using 1911 calendars, and when I have asked them why they are thus dwelling in the ruture, they have told me of an exposition which they protoses to hold next year. I have also heard some talk of a war in Enrone. A prominent citizen admitted to me that it is roing to be the greatest exposition ever held on the face of God's green earth. Those were his very words. The silt skirt is out of fashion here. Those that I have seen may more truly be raid to be divided. Another of the stehts of San Francisco is
