Portland Dancing Authorities Announce New Order of Things Which Relegates Frivolity. Waltz Still in Favor.

Twinkle Hestitation, if you like, La Furlana, if you will, but in the name of all the twinkling toes of Terpsichore don't do the Bunny Hug or the Lam

Or, if the twinkle stuff is not strenuous enough for your temperament, and La Furlana reminds you of a nickel cigar, you will still be heeding the latest dictates of dancedom if you try a Half-and-Half, or a Lulu Fardo, by ome called the "Luna Fado," the last named being especially calculated to harmonize with moonlight effects. The "Lulu Fardo" was christened "Lulu COMEDYRULES EMPRESS Fardo," but dancing masters have agreed it shall be "Lulu Fado" in fu-

Don't admit that you even remember such archalc steps as the Turkey Trot or the Boston Waltz. Rather, ask anyone who mentions the new dances if they know any of the new variations of the tango, the maxixe or the Pavlowa gavette, for these movements seem to have become staple and whatever to have become staple, and whatever their derivations may be called as the season develops, the tangotst and the maxists still will "have the edge" on those who yet cling to the "rag" va-riations.

There will be a place yet on smart dancing programmes for the old-fashioned waltz, that, rousing Byron to fiery condemning verse 100 years ago, has become by natural evolutionary processes the tamest commonplace of the waxed floor.

A reflection of the thing that grips the thought of all the world will be seen in a revival of the military schottische and others of the stately dances that go with gold braid and epaulets may be seen before the present season has waxed and waned.

Thus decree the Portiand dancing authorities, who have made note of and agreed on the latest Terpsichorean edicts. The year 1914-15 is to be a quite decorous year so far as dancing is concepted.

Shing comedienne, a second Vesta Tillay, and two gloom destroyers in Irwin and therzog, a wonderful German orator and others have their places of henor.

The acrobats, Mr. Laype and Master Benjamin, display the grace of a Frenchman and the strength of a Russian in their acrobatic feats. It is needless to say more than that their acrobatic feats. Tomorrow will be "Westover Day." It will not be marked by the blare of trumpets or the boom-time methods of days gone by.

While few have been aware, the builders of Westover have worked unceasingly for five years.

Big men of Portland recognize what the creating of such a new home district means. The courage of those who conceived and carried out this wonderful project against great odds, has won their confidence.
