

SCIENCE RECORDS HEARD BY MANY

Hermann S. Hering of Concord Discusses Spiritual and Scientific Healing.

ADDRESS TO BE REPEATED

Introducing Speaker From Mother Church, John F. Carroll Pays Tribute to High Standard Set and Ideals Taught.

The subject of "Christian Science Healing, Spiritual and Scientific" was discussed yesterday afternoon and evening in a public lecture at First Church of Christ, Scientist, by Herman S. Hering, of Concord, N. H. The lecture will be repeated again tonight at 8 o'clock.

High Tribute Is Paid. "While the fundamentals and essence of Christian Science have so far eluded me, I feel I can, with even better grace than one of its adherents, pay to it the tribute of my respect and admiration for the many things it has done, for the efficacy of its teachings, for the delightfully high standard it maintains in its own membership and for the high ideals which the church itself teaches and which its members so blithely maintain.

There is no general interest to mankind as the one of healing. The universal demand and endeavor of humanity is for a larger measure of the truth which is today attained, and there is manifestly great need of some better means of healing than that in general use.

Perfection, Church's Teaching. "It is difficult for the materially minded to see how physical results can be attained through the teaching of the nature of matter produces such a material bias of consciousness that the nature of spiritual existence and spiritual power is very difficult to grasp.

Truth Declared Great Healer. "As disease is an untrue experience of the human mind, truth must be brought to bear upon consciousness in order that the untrue may be destroyed. When we think rightly of divine Truth, Life, Love and Light, which truth in essence makes possible today, truth is present with us in consciousness, God with us.

When an ill or sin is healed in Christian Science, it is not the thought of the Christian Scientist which effects healing, but the spiritual truth which he knows and applies to the human error.

This definitely distinguishes Christian Science from hypnotism, magnetism, or mental suggestion of any form.

JEW TO BE BAROMETER

Rabbi Jonah B. Wise Discusses After-War Conditions. Love of Race for Native Lands in Spite of Persecution Pictured, and Hope for Future Held.

The treatment of the Jew after this war will be the barometer of civilization by which we may judge the condition that will confront the masses of Europe," said Rabbi Jonah B. Wise yesterday in his address before the current events class of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Wise spoke of "The Jew's Part in the War." He told of the terrible tortures the Jews have suffered at the hands of the Cossacks, and of the loyalty and patriotism of the Jews in the countries in which they live. Dr. Wise predicted that if the countries now at war realized the great injustice done to the Jews, the world would surely be an age of social, political and economic betterment, and the war would redound to the improvement of general conditions.

He said: "The Jew now has no standing in Russia. He cannot be recognized. If a Jewish girl goes to St. Petersburg to study music she must register as a prostitute. Prostitutes are allowed there, but Jews are not in spite of all their letters and diplomas received from the Jews tell of their loyalty to the land of their birth. The vast majority of the Jews are miserably poor. It is only the minority that is rich. The latter keep the former from being public charges and beggars. The poor may become poorer; they may suffer more; more of them may die, but their hope through all is for political liberty. In Russia the czar has promised it—but will he keep his promise? Or will the archduke Nicholas argue him out of it? This man is the leader of the class that is cold-blooded as far as the common people are concerned. He represents the class for which the serfs toll and that the Jews fear.

"If Europe in this awful war can come to a greater appreciation of the rights and feelings of the poor people there will be a social revolution of conditions and human beings will be gradually bettered. I repeat, the treatment of the Jew will be the barometer for all the destinies of Europe," said Rabbi Wise, who was heard by several hundred members of the Presbyterian Church and visitors from other denominations.

ABLE PROFESSOR OF PUBLIC SPEAKING AGAIN TO TEACH Y. M. C. A. CLASSES.

Professor W. G. Harrington, who has successfully conducted classes in public speaking in the educational department of the Y. M. C. A., has been re-engaged for similar work the coming year.

Mr. Harrington is professor of English and public speaking at Pacific University. He is a graduate of Boston University and the Emerson College of Oration. He is an experienced public speaker and coach, having prepared five placed winners out of seven entered in collegiate oratorical contests.

The class to be held this year will be in three sections, one meeting on Monday evening from 8 to 9, another from 10 to 11, and a third meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30. These courses are open tonight and tomorrow night.

CHURCH WORK DIRECTED

Mrs. Mary Bryner Points Way to Make Sunday School Grow.

Speaker Discusses Efforts of International Association Before Mass Meeting Yesterday.

How the work of the International Sunday School Association is being carried forward in its various departments was told in detail by Mrs. Mary Bryner, of Chicago, superintendent of the elementary department, at a meeting in the First Christian Church yesterday afternoon.

In making an appeal for the organization of cradle rolls and beginners' classes, in addition to the regular primary and junior departments in every Sunday school, the speaker compared the four branches with the fingers on her hand, asserting that the smaller ones were practically helpless by themselves, but that each was essential to the efficiency of the whole.

Mrs. Bryner told interestingly of the growth of Sunday-school work since the opening of the present century; explained the leading topics discussed at the late conventions and pointed out the necessity of having trained teachers in the Sunday-school service.

"One problem we face today is to keep the boys and girls in the Sunday schools," she said. "We must find out why the boys are dropping out and, if possible, do something to get them to measure up to the girls in numbers."

Short talks were made by Mrs. E. R. Cook, president of the Portland Graded Union of Sunday-school Workers, who presided; Dr. J. Earl Elise, president of the Multnomah County Sunday School Association; and Charles A. Phelps, secretary of the Sunday School Association of Oregon.

CANDIDATES ARE MANY

City Politics All-Absorbing Topic in Oregon City.

OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—City politics continues to be the absorbing topic in Oregon City, and almost every day a new petition is circulated for a prospective candidate for Mayor or Councilman. E. G. Caulfield, of the Second Ward, has been asked by his friends to run, and a petition has been circulated in his favor.

Four-fifths of the human race are so over-bred and under-brained that the brains exhaust themselves securing bare food and raiment for the body," Mr. Barick said that the beginning of high and fitting aspirations lies in a sound and healthy body, and that anything that tends to weaken and injure the body is as deadly as the most deadly of poisons.

"One should read books," he said, "that will make the brains sweat."

JUST as there are quacks in medicine and in law and other professions, so there are quacks in religion, who make a pretense of knowledge, but who caricature the true religion of the Bible with all religious superstitions," said A. B. Waltz, pastor of the East Forty-fifth-street Baptist Church last night.

"Some over-emphasize the importance of worship on some certain day, others place too much emphasis on the determent of dates of future events from the prophecies in the Bible; others place the emphasis chiefly on healing. All of these Christ held secondary to the spiritual mission he came on earth to fulfill.

PAUL TO BE COPIED

Rev. Mr. Lane Would Come in Spirit of Great Teacher.

INITIAL SERMON IS GIVEN

"Supreme Purpose" Is Subject on Which New Pastor of Centenary Methodist Church Preaches.

The auditorium of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church was crowded to capacity yesterday morning, when Rev. Thomas W. Lane, the new pastor, who arrived in Portland last week from his former pastorate at Tacoma, preached his initial sermon on "A Supreme Purpose."

In basing his text upon Paul's letter to the Corinthians, "I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and him crucified," Dr. Lane told in a general way that his preaching in Portland would hinge upon that same central idea, but that he also would preach upon politics, commerce, society and art and such other subjects that are vital in modern every-day life.

Dr. Lane thanked the members of the church for the warm, cordial welcome extended him and declared he felt already at home in the city, but he would not hesitate to speak of your former pastor, Dr. Trimble, or praise his work here, for I hope to win your love as he did."

Paul's Words Held Plain. "The words of Paul to the church at Corinth were the words of a great, keen and wise mind," said Rev. Mr. Lane, "and it would seem perfectly clear and plain as to his meaning. He made one thing clear, that Jesus Christ and him crucified was to dominate his ministry at Corinth. He was a great man, a man of great character, and his declaration was comprehensive."

"Christ and him crucified was to be the dominant factor with him, not that he was never to say anything about the weather, health of the community, art, schools, the museums and not to mingle with the great statesmen or kings of the world, but that in the great civic questions that concerned the welfare of the people. On the contrary, these things were to be considered in their place, but were to be subordinate to the great truth about Christ."

"A man comes to Portland to make money. He says that he comes here for a purpose. That is the dominant reason for his coming, but that does not mean that he shall not visit Council Crest, the parks and the lumbering mills. However, these are to be subordinate to the great truth about Christ. He is here to make money, but that is not his purpose. He is here to preach Jesus Christ and him crucified, and this was to be fundamental with him and dominate everything else. That was the one great purpose of his life and mission."

Life Purpose Similar, He Says. "So it is with life. If the purpose is high and noble, the life will be high, clear and effective, but if the purpose is low, life is tone, atmosphere, great, full of music unexpressed, with a great, growing purpose, full of hope and inspiration. Life has nothing of poverty or monotony where it is governed with a great and noble purpose. Some lives stretch out like a long plain, but some are made up of mountains, valleys and plains, and we must climb."

"Some streams take a vacation during the year, but the Niagara never stops, and goes on with the centuries, and so a great truth and a great purpose goes on with the centuries, ever fresh and vigorous and never monotonous."

"And so entering on my work among you today, I shall be concerned chiefly with Jesus Christ and him crucified, not Christ the Socialist, Christ the reformer, the teacher or philosopher. I am anxious to come in the spirit of Paul today and through all the days that we shall be together."

Purpose to Be Fundamental. "Every religion and cult have their truths, but we can never lift the world without the crucified Christ, and that shall be my fundamental purpose during my ministry, to preach Christ and him crucified."

Dr. Lane preached last night on "The Crucified Christ," pointing out the necessity of inquiry and investigation in all things. He admonished his congregation not to "take things for granted," as it sometimes seems for students to do.

At the close of both the morning and night services Dr. Lane met many members of the congregation at the Centenary church will tender Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lane a public reception at the church.

Sermon Thoughts From Portland Churches

A LOW ideal is the greatest moral peril of the young man of today," said the Rev. C. C. Barick, pastor of the Central Methodist Church in his sermon yesterday morning. "The number and kind of aspirations a man possesses or attains will determine the place he is to hold among men."

"Four-fifths of the human race are so over-bred and under-brained that the brains exhaust themselves securing bare food and raiment for the body," Mr. Barick said that the beginning of high and fitting aspirations lies in a sound and healthy body, and that anything that tends to weaken and injure the body is as deadly as the most deadly of poisons.

"One should read books," he said, "that will make the brains sweat."

JUST as there are quacks in medicine and in law and other professions, so there are quacks in religion, who make a pretense of knowledge, but who caricature the true religion of the Bible with all religious superstitions," said A. B. Waltz, pastor of the East Forty-fifth-street Baptist Church last night.

"Some over-emphasize the importance of worship on some certain day, others place too much emphasis on the determent of dates of future events from the prophecies in the Bible; others place the emphasis chiefly on healing. All of these Christ held secondary to the spiritual mission he came on earth to fulfill.

no mysterious religious formulae to find it." CHRISTIANITY is real and the greatest thing or it is false and the most damnable lie in the world," said Rev. Horace M. Ramsey, dean of St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral, yesterday morning in his sermon, one of a series on "The Meaning of Christianity." His text was "What think ye of Christ; whose son is he?" Dean Ramsey declared before the series was finished he would prove Christianity the greatest thing in the world or he would show it to be a half-way stand, he said. "Either it is one or the other. It can be decided. If you can't prove Christianity you can't prove anything in the world. There can be no arguments."

MISS LOU KILLINGSWORTH, a charming bride-elect, will be the inspiration for a delightful card party that has been planned by her sister, Mrs. Clinton Shorno, who will entertain several of the younger matrons and girls Wednesday afternoon. The festivity will be held in the Shorno residence, in Cleveland avenue. On Saturday evening Miss Killingsworth will announce the date for her marriage to Harry Swart. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Portland Academy and is socially popular. Mr. Swart is an attorney and is prominently known in fraternal and club circles.

ULTIMATELY a taste for the standards, the fine things in literature. In them you will find inspiration and something that is worth while. They are far more valuable than the ordinary books. This was the advice offered by Dr. Luther R. Dyott, pastor of the First Congregational Church, in his lecture last night on "The Influence of Environment." He spoke of the influence of environment, of the great value of true friendship and of the value of character building. "Environment," Dr. Dyott made him independent. There was originality in what he wrote. He was followed by the Rev. W. O. Shank, who gave an evening to him occasionally "we may have many beautiful and helpful thoughts," said Dr. Dyott.

POSTOFFICE START SET

POSTMASTER SAYS THAT WORK BEGINS ON FEBRUARY 1.

Change in Plans to Meet Need for Increased Space Reported on Official's Return.

Work will begin on Portland's new Postoffice building, on the block bounded by Broadway and Clatsop, and Hoyt streets, about February 1, according to Postmaster Myers, who arrived late Saturday night from Washington, where he conferred with officials of the Treasury and Postoffice departments concerning the building.

Mr. Myers found that the programme for the building had been referred to the supervising architect, that the building committee of the Postoffice Department. He was invited to a conference with this committee and asked to offer suggestions. He called the attention of the committee to the fact that the building was to be a self-contained unit, that the building should be able to take care of its own supplies, that proper vaults for the storing of these supplies be installed in the basement of the new building.

Both of Mr. Myers' suggestions were adopted by the committee, and the plans will be altered accordingly.

COOKERY LESSONS FREE

SERIES OF ADDRESSES ON HOUSE-KEEPING ARE PLANNED.

Mrs. Vaughn Aims to Help Those Who Have to Prepare Plain Meals 365 Days Every Year.

Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn, of Nashville, Tenn., a celebrated "Better-Foods-Better-Health" lecturer, is conducting a home economics school in Portland under the auspices of the Oregonian.

There is an old adage that the "proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof," and Mrs. Vaughn's cookery methods are always put to that test. She cooks and serves and she has explained how she does it to a large audience and her cook quite enough to go around, even though her guests number several hundreds.

Mr. Barick has studied cooking from every point of view, and here is the last word in the culinary realm. She does not teach novelties, nor advanced fancy dishes. She is not a food faddist and does not advise a diet. Her work is practical, sane and stimulating and not only serves to raise the standard of living, but also to relieve women of much of the drudgery incident to preparing three meals a day 365 days in the year.

The school will be held in the old Hellig Theater, corner of Eleventh and Morrison streets, and there will be a session every afternoon next week except Saturday, and all are free.

TIMBER LOSS IS REPORTED

Total Damage by Fire in Washington in Summer 31,000,000 Feet.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Fire losses during the 1913 season in Washington totaled 13,141,500 feet of timber destroyed and 12,800,000 feet fire killed, according to estimates by the U. S. Forest Service, which is the largest loss in the history of the state. Of the fire-killed timber, a considerable proportion can be logged before it decays.

Some over-emphasize the importance of worship on some certain day, others place too much emphasis on the determent of dates of future events from the prophecies in the Bible; others place the emphasis chiefly on healing. All of these Christ held secondary to the spiritual mission he came on earth to fulfill.

BIG PLURALITIES IS AIM

SALEM REPUBLICANS PLAN WEEKLY MASS MEETINGS.

George M. Brown, of Roseburg, Is to Be Speaker at First of Series Arranged for Friday.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Confident of Republican victory at the coming election, but determined that the pluralities and majorities shall be in keeping with the registration figures, the Salem Republican Club has arranged for holding mass meetings in this city weekly between now and the election.

The first one will be held probably next Friday night, and a committee, consisting of Don F. West, M. D. Callister and Carl Abrams, has been named to make arrangements for it.

While the election of Mr. Brown is assured, he is determined to continue his efforts for the entire ticket until the day of the election, and his friends here are confident he will be able to direct the invitation to deliver an address.

Members of the club, at a meeting last Thursday, declared that Messrs. West, Callister and Abrams will be given large pluralities in this county. It was asserted that the voters of the county would not be hoodwinked by Chamberlain's attempt to make believe that he is a non-partisan candidate, and that his strength here was following here and his plurality in the county bids fair to be the largest ever accorded an aspirant for the United States Senate.

REGISTRATION NEEDS TOLD

Books for November Election Will Close at 5 P. M. Thursday.

"Those who have registered since January 3 of this year and who have not moved their residence since that date are entitled to vote at the general election, November 3, without any further ceremony," said County Clerk Coffey last night.

"Anyone who has not registered since the first of the year or who has moved into a different precinct since that date is not entitled to vote unless he registers before 5 P. M. next Thursday."

"To vote in Oregon a man or woman has to be of legal age, to have resided here for at least six months and, if alien, must have taken out 'first papers' at least a year before the day of election."

FINALS NEARLY FINISHED

State Engineer Says Project Will Be Ready December 1.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—State Engineer Lewis has announced that the Tumalo Irrigation project will be completed by December 1. He announced that 73 feet of the big dam had been constructed and that only four feet remain to be built. The Tumalo project, which formerly was the Columbia Southern project, was taken over by the state before the Legislature of the Legislature and an appropriation of $450,000 was made for completing the work.

About 25,000 acres have been re-located, the entire appropriation being necessary to do the work. Not more than half the land has been sold and no estimate of the value has been fixed. However, it is estimated that 149 acres must be received for the state to be fully reimbursed and receive a profit of $5 an acre, as provided in the act making the appropriation.

No Chance. (Kansas City Journal) "Why did you quarrel?" "She wanted me to hold her hand at a crowded reception."

WILLIAM HANLEY IS FOR OREGON

Aim of Candidate for Senator Is to Develop State.

REPRESENTS NO INTEREST

A Friend of the People, Mr. Hanley Will Always Be Found Fighting for Them and to Solve Oregon's Needs.

"What does he represent?" That is a question often asked of this or that public official. The general public should be interested in knowing whether their public servants, whether high or low, are representing the people or "special interests."

William Hanley as United States Senator would represent the people of Oregon and NO SPECIAL INTEREST.

This is not an assertion made to get votes, but is based on the fact that Mr. Hanley is of the people and he has always worked for the people and probably has done more to help the state as a private citizen than most public officials have done in their careers as such.

Having been found always fighting the battle of the people as a private citizen, helping to up-build the state as a matter of patriotic concern, it may be safely figured that as United States Senator he would not change his course, but that he would, because of the great responsibility thus placed upon him, be all the more aggressive in battling for those things which Oregon needs and must have in order to take her place among the states of the Union, but which she has never received at the hands of her public servants in the National Senate.

A man will not change in a night, especially the type of man like Mr. Hanley, but will pursue a safe and dependable course as a public servant, just as he has done in his own business, of which he has made a noteworthy success.

Getting for Oregon her share of the necessities that go to make a great state, such as the return of the millions of dollars gained from this commonwealth by the sale of timber lands, long diverted to build up other states, would be to Mr. Hanley a matter of the most serious business. He would go about it in a manner that would bring results. An untiring worker, far-sighted and earnest, Mr. Hanley would, as United States Senator, throw himself into the Senatorial whirl, not as a social lion, but as a representative of the people of Oregon, determined to get for Oregon that which rightfully belongs to Oregon people and Oregon enterprises.

ALL HE ASKS IS A FAIR CHANCE TO DEMONSTRATE WHAT HE CAN DO IN THE SENATE.

"I am a candidate for the office of United States Senator because a great many people thought I ought to be,"—the statement of Mr. Hanley is true, just as all of his statements are true; he is not seeking the position because he particularly wants it merely to gratify a whim.

A far deeper patriotism than that actuated him.

A great many people have decided that he SHOULD be United States Senator from Oregon, for many reasons, but, summed up, chiefly because he knows what the state needs and he is big enough and clever enough to get it.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.—Adv.
