Multnomah Fair to Grow.

GRESHAM, Or., Oct. 13.—(Special.)—
A larger and better fair than ever before, to be held 10 instead of five days, was decided on tentatively by the directors of the Multneman County Fair Association at the meeting here yesterday afternoon. Notwithstanding the difficulties encountered by rains at the recent fair an optimistic spirit prevailed, and it was the unanimous sentiment that advance steps should be taken towards enlarging and improving the fair. No new buildings and new improvements will be required next year.

SUPREME COURT DECIDES AGAINST CHARLES COOPEY.

Decision of Lower Tribunal Upheld in Suit for Part of $500,000 Commission-Four Others Affirmed.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 13 .- (Special.)-Holding that the plaintiff failed to prove his contention, the Supreme Court today in the case of Charles Coopey against L. Y. Keady, A. F. Swensson and the Pacific Realty Company, affirmed the decree of the Multnomah County Court in favor of the defendants. The plaintiff sued for one-third of $430,000 of a $500,000 real estate commission.

Employment Agenefes Discussed.

"It has been demonstrated time and again that men employed in different parts of the state, say in Coos Bay, must come back to Portland to get another job and be shipped out again by a private agency. Case after case by a private agency. The employment agencies should be controlled by state law, and the fees should be made so low that a man need not be a slave. Better, still, would be a state system of labor exchanges at all the industrial centers of the state. These should be operated under the civil service rules.

"Next to the employment agency evil comes the hospital fee graft. It is strange that reputable firms will allow the men to be bled as they are under this iniquitous practice.

Secretary of State Olcott Says Statute Sounds Knell of Body November 4.

MIX-UP CONFRONTS OREGON

Time of Four Members Held Expiring With Election Departments Needing Money May Be in Predicament Until Solons Meet.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 13 .- (Special.) -According to a construction placed upon the laws by Secretary of State Olcott today, the state virtually will be without an Emergency Board after the election, November 3, and departments and institutions requiring more money than the respective legislative appropriations may find themselves in serious predicament. It is understood that at least one important branch of that at least one important branch of the state government now is in need of funds and is contemplating asking the Board to create a deficiency.

If Mr. Olcott's construction of the law is correct all departments, excepting those having continuing appropriations, will be without funds from January 1 until the Legislature, which will convene January 11, makes provision for them. There is a question as to whether the Emergency Board will be empowered to create numerous deficiencies before November 3 to provide funds for use after January 1 for the departments and institutions. stitutions Deficiency Prevention Is Object.

The law creating the Emergency Board was passed at the last session Board was passed at the last session of the Legislature and was designed to prevent the heads of departments and institutions from exceeding the appropriations of the Legislature in their expenditures. It provides that the Board shall be composed of the Governor. Secretary of State, State Treasurer, President of the Senate. Speaker of the House and chairman of the ways and means compilities of the Treasurer, President of the Senate, Speaker of the House and chairman of the ways and means committees of the two branches of the Legislature. The approval of five members is necessary for the creation of a deficiency.

Mr. Olcott, in announcing his construction of the law, called attention to paragraph four, article four, of the state constitution, which provides that Senators and Representatives in the Legislature begin their terms of office the next day after the general election at which they are elected. According to that four members of the Emergency Board—the president of the Senate, Speaker of the House and committees of the House and committees of the Board, will cease to be Nevember 4. Even should some of them be holdover Senators, they would not continue in their respective offices in that body, for the election of these officers is with the next Legislature. That being the case there would be only three members of the Board remaining, the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer. They could do nothing, for the law provides that five members must vote for deficiencies to create them.

Overpayments Are Forbidden, Before the payments of the act create them.

Before the passage of the act creating the Emergency Board, when there were deficits, certificates of indebtedness were issued and the succeeding Legislature provided for their payment with appropriations. It is doubtful, however, if any of the officials will dare create debts under the emergency bill, for one of its provisions says in part:

"Any officer, trustee, manager, director, superintendent or commissioner, who shall violate the provisions of this act by creating a deficiency, incurring a liability or expending a greater sum than is appropriated by the Legislative Assembly for any institution or department of this state in any one year, shall individually and with their sureties be liable to any person, copartnership or corporation with whom liability is attempted, and such violation shall be deemed a misdemeanor and any officer, trustees, manager, director, superintendent or commissioner, upon conviction themos, shall be fined in any sum not less than $1000 or more than $5000." 'Any officer, trustee, manager, di-

West Creates Deficiency.

Attorney-General Crawford, in an offhand opinion recently involving another question, said that the members of the Legislature held their positions until their successors qualified. If that is the case the present Emergency Board will continue until the next session of the Legislature. However, it is not known whether Mr. Crawford, who was out of the city today, took into consideration the plain statement of the constitution referred to by Secretary of State Olcott.

If Secretary Olcott's construction of the law is correct it is probable that a meeting of the board will be called in a few days to determine what shall be done to tide the state over financially until the Legislature can act. West Creates Deficiency.
