UANTITIES of lovely blossoms made a fitting setting for the presentation of the latest "bud" local society yesterday, when Joseph Nathan Teal formally introduced her charming and attractive daughter, Miss Ruth, to the smart set. The Teal residence was aglow with fragrant blooms in a riot of brilliant coloring, many of the attractive clusters being gifts to the debutante from her hosts of admiring friends. Between 300 and 400 smartly gowned women thronged the Teal home during the calling hours of 2 to 6. In order to assure the comfort of the guests the hours were divided, some being asked from 2 to 4 and the others from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The drawing-room was artistically adorned with shaggy pink chrysanthemums and Autumn foliage, similar leaves and red and golden-hued dahlas forming the decoration of the library. Ferns, palms and yellow chrysanthemums were effectively arranged in the reconting-room.

reception-room.

Mrs. Teal was admired in a handsome gown of black charmeuse, elaborated with jet embroidered chiffon and jet sequins. A corsage bouquet of violets completed the attractive costume.

Miss Teal, who is one of the fairest countries in Portland society, was charmingly gowned in a quaint frock of bluish-pink crape faille built with full skirt, long crushed basque. The bodice was embellished with tiny blue buds, and she carried an old-fashloned buds, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses and lit-tle blue "love-in-the-mist" flowers. Miss Teal is especially loved for her graciousness and her naturalness. She graciousness and her naturalness. She is immensely popular with the older people as well as the younger set.

The tea table was exceptionally estistic and attractive. Dainty baskets of deep pink roses and violets were arranged with pink shaded candles, and the heverages were poured by Mrs. Andrew J. Glesy, Mrs. James D. Honcyman, Mrs. George Willett and Mrs. Charles E. Rumelin from 2 to 4 c'clock. The latter two hours the table was presided over by Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Mrs. John G. Edwards, Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd and Mrs. Holt C. Wilson. The punchbowl was placed in the living-room, and Mrs. Gordon Voorhies and Miss Ione Dunlap served. Mrs. Henry Cabell and Mrs. Herbert S. Nichols served ices in the library. The hostess was assisted in the drawing-rooms by her sisters-in-law, Misses Clara and Ruth Teal, the latter of Hood River, and Mrs. Walter V. Smith.

A bevy of attractively-gowned young girls assisted in the dining-room, including the Misses Rhoda Rumelin.

Little Miss Miriam Walker Cehme entertained a few of her little friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Celime recently to celebrate her fifth birthday. gueried my friend, who is from Missouri. "You don't seem acquainted with him, for you didn't speak."

"No, I don't even know his name, But I know he is happy."

"How do you know it?" persisted my friend. "Have you second sight?"

"I know he is happy because of his son," I replied. "The two are a study in happiness. The family have rented a cottage opposite me for the Summer. There is the father, mother, son and son's wife, and they are an interesting little group. But it is the happy old father who interests me the most, perhaps because what I see is so rare, though I hate to admit it. The father is a little old man rather feeble as to legs. He is somewhat trembly and tot, tery in his walk, as, no doubt, you notice. But otherwise he is as bright and chirpy as a robin. The son is not young, possibly on toward 50 and just the usual business mah. I should say, off for a few weeks' vacation. He's rather pale and serious-looking, maybe business isn't or hasn't been good. But the attention and care he gives his father is beautiful to see. Lots of sons off on a vacation would think only of their own pleasure. They would think it their due. But this son seems to think far more of his father than of himself. They go out walking everyday, the son going slowly in step with the old man, not striding two or three paces ahead, as is so often the case when young and old go out together. And he is always talking to him so brightly and interestedly. It doesn't seem to be a duty walk at all. Then he helps him on with his coat and fixes, and does it all as if he thoroughly enhanced to the public at cost.
