and Search of Scene Is Futile.

Detectives Vaughn, Hellyer, Grisim and Tackaberry, after working all Tuesday night and yesterday, failed to ruesday night and yesterday, failed to solve the reported attack upon Miss Mary S. E. Mancur, a teacher, of 504 East Thirty-sixth street, by two men. Miss Mancur was unable to describe the men, and the detectives say they did not discover any clew or obtain any direct evidence that any crime had been committed.

Miss Mancur reported to the police Tuesday night that while returning from a downtown club meeting late in from a downtown club meeting late in the evening she was attacked by two men and ordered to a deserted place. Fart of the story reported to have been told to the Police at that time of the alleged waylaying was denied yesterday by Miss Mancur and Dr. C. L. Booth, who is attending her.

"It is one of the strangest cases I have experienced in years of active police work," said Captain of Detectives Baty yesterday. "According to police work," said Captain of Detec-tives Baty yesterday. "According to the separate reports of the four detec-tives working on the case, the girl said she wore white gloves, which were removed from her hands by the two men. The gloves were not solied or finger-marked. She wore a white coat, It was not symptomic solied and the coat. coat. It was not suspiciously soiled or

FORM DISCUSSED

PRELIMINARY ISSUE OF $125,000 FOR BRIDGE IS RECOMMENDED.

Committee Suggests Denominations of $100, $500 and $1000 and Urges Investment of Savings Funds.

Recommendations as to the form of interstate bridge bonds were determined yesterday at a meeting of the advisory committee, composed of District Attorney Evans, Charles K. Williams and Henry Teal and will be submitted today to the interstate bridge bonding committee, which consists of County Clerk Coffey and County Commissioners Holman, Lightner and Hart. It will be advised that bonds to the amount of $125,000 be issued in denominations of $160,8500 and $1000 and advertised for sale November 5. They vertised for sale November 5. They will bear 5 per cent interest. Should this amount not be sufficient for the work during the preliminary stages, a further issue of $250,000 is suggested in order that the proper

The idea of the committee at yesterday's meeting was that a campaign should be undertaken to encourage investment in these securities of the noney now in the savings banks of the ity, which draw but little interest. It was felt that these funds could be invested to better advantage for the owners iff bridge bonds because of the higher interest rate coupled with their absolute security.

Multnomah County, issuing the bonds, is without debt of any kind, and has many valuable assets. The bridge bonds will be the only obligation outstanding.
