SEDRO-WOOLLEY, Wash, Oct. 18 .-Bix masked and armed men robbed the First National Bank of Sedro-Woolley of more than $20,000 at $:50 o'clock tonight and escaped into the woods, after slightly wounding three citizens whom the robbers shot while fleeing whom the robbers shot while fleeing from the bank.

Cashier J. Guddall, the assistant cashier, a bookkeeper and three citizens were in the bank when the robbers arrived. Two of them stood outside, shooting up and down the street to keep the citizens indoors, while the other four kicked in a large plate-glass window and climbed into the bank, firing several volleys from their pistols to enforce their commands to those inside to hold up their hands.

WILLSHER TRIAL BEGINS Evidence for Defendant Objected to in Vancouver Assault Case.

VANCOUVER, Wash, Oct. 18.—(Special.) — The case of the State against A. E. Willisher, charged with assault with intent to kill Dr. J. M. P. Chaimers, a prominent local physician, began in the Superior Court Saturday before Judge R. H. Black, Mr. Willisher, previous to the alleged assault, had filled suit against Dr. Chaimers for $25,000, for the alienation of his wife's affections.

A. E. Wilisher, charged with assault with intent to kill Dr. J. M. P. Chalmers, a prominent local physician, began in the Superior Court Saturday before Judge R. H. Black, Mr. Willisher, previous to the alleged assault, had filed suit against Dr. Chalmers for $25,000, for the alienation of his wife's affections.

The state had completed most of its case today and the jury was excused until 5 o'clock Monday, when the case will be resumed. Attorneys for the state and for the defendant argued before Judge Back the legality of admitting as evidence, before the jury certain alleged facts, circumstantial evidence and letters, purporting to show that these things excited the defendant when he went to Dr. Chalmers' office, and that he acted while angered at fancied wrongs.

The state objected to the admission of this evidence. Arguments were made both sides, and finally Judge Back directed that each side present written briefs by noon Sunday.

He says the accident was unavoidable and he did stop and offer assistance. He has procured the statements of witnesses to support his denial of the report.

Mr. Armitstead was riding eastwardiy on Burnside street at a speed of about 12 miles an hour. Reaching Park street, he saw another automobile coming down hill toward him from the south. To avoid collision Mr. Armitstead turned quickly north into Park street. As he did so a man riding a motorcycle ran into his machine. Mr. Armitstead stopped and, while inquiring into the accident, the motorcycle rider disappeared. Mr. Armitstead forthwith went to the police station and reported the accident to Police Captain Moore.

Revive the Eastern Oregon Normal

(From the Milton Eagle.)

It's about time for Oregon to get over the foolish notion that it must kill or cripple its schools in order to reduce taxes. The state schools cost so little in proportion to the good they do that the frequent attacks upon them have been inspired, we think, by a singular mania or obsession for school-killing, rather than by any sane motive of economy.

The University of Oregon has been seriously handicapped in the past by such unwarranted assaults, but is now gliding happily along in calm waters. Two normal schools were killed, leaving only one to serve the entire state. An effort to revive them and to restore them to permanent usefulness, free from all political danger, is now in progress, and The Eagle, for one, hopes that it will succeed. It is time for Oregon to emerge from the antischool quagmires of 50 years ago and to march breast to breast with its sister states in the educational pro-

The Eastern Oregon Normal should be revived. The Southern Oregon Normal should be revived. Both bills on the ballot should earry by large majorities. An enlightened self-interest, demanding plenty of trained teachers for the state's young, dictates such a course. State pride dictates it. Both these schools have state plants now idle. Is it economy that they should continue idle? Will 9 cents on each $1000 of taxable property seriously deplete any taxpayer's pocketbook? Monmouth costs 4 cents. Weston and Ashland, if re-established, will cost 21/2 cents. And by the way, have taxes decreased appreciably since the Weston and Ashland Normals were abolished? Not so one could notice it. These schools cut so little financial figure that they may be said to have nothing to do with the real cost of state government.

Especially would The Eagle like to see the Eastern Oregon Normal reestablished. That two-thirds of its area should be without a state school of any sort is a condition no other self-respecting commonwealth would tolerate.

or two and one-half cents annually on every thousand dollars assessed valuation, as provided in the millage taxe bill referred to the people by the Legislative Assembly, will restore to the state's use the Eastern Oregon Normal's plant at Weston, consisting of one main building, two dormitories, president's cottage and 10 acres of ground.

Eastern Oregon needs this school. Oregon needs it, and also needs the Southern Oregon Normal at Ashland. Three Normal Schools are none too many for this great commonwealth.

Reflect that if you pay taxes on $2000, the permanent and adequate maintenance of the Eastern Oregon Normal will cost you but five cents each year.

secount of Victim and That of Land lord Differ-Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mulane Taken on Suspicion.

With a deep gash in his forhead plercing the skull, William Dibble, a teamster, 34 years old, is in the Police Emergency Hospital in a precarious condition, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mulane, of 75 North Thirteenth street, are held in the City Jail pending the outcome of his injuries.

Dibble was a roomer at the Mulane home. At 11 o'clock Saturday night he was found lying in a pool of blood just inside the door of his room. A wound in his head had evidently been inflicted with an ax. When he regained consciousness at the Emergency Hospital, Dibble said someone rapped at his door about 9:15 o'clock and when he opened the door he was struck a crushing blow on his head.

NEURALGIC PAINS

Among the causes of neuralgia the most important is the general physical condition of the patient. Neuralgia is most common in persons reduced in strength by over-work or some form of strength by over-work or some form of over-exertion, physical or mental, or by loss of sleep. Anaemia, or lack of good, red blood is a common cause of neuralgia. The reason for this is plain. The nerves get their nourishment through the blood. When the blood is thin and weak the nerves are badly nourished, they become inflamed and neuralgic pains are produced. These pains have been described as "the cry of a starved nerve."
