

LAND SHOW LIKELY TO ATTRACT MANY PEOPLE FROM THREE STATES EXPECTED TO VIEW VARIOUS DISPLAYS AT ARMORY.

EVENT WIDELY ADVERTISED IN PRESS AND THEATERS OF NORTHWEST ATTENTION IS CALLED TO EDUCATIONAL EXPOSITION AND RAILROADS ALSO GIVE AID.

That the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show will attract many visitors to the city during the time it will be in progress is the belief of the management of the enterprise. Reports from over the state and from Washington and Idaho, indicate that the plan and scope of the exposition has been well fixed in the minds of all persons who read the daily and weekly newspapers.

In the work of exploitation the railroads have been a great help. In every depot in the Willamette Valley country along both the Southern Pacific and the Oregon Electric railroads are posters calling attention to the Exposition. Posters also have been displayed liberally along the Willamette Valley, Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway and the Oregon Trunk line.

The North Bank Railroad has placed special advertising in its daily and weekly papers as well as class publications in this territory and the weekly editions of Portland papers, which have a large circulation in the rural districts, have been given special advertising on the Land Show. The Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the Pacific Coast Express, all of which have been calling attention to the Land Show dates in country advertising and announcing the rate of a fare and a third for the round trip from points in the Northwest.

Many Papers Reached. The weekly news service of the Portland Commercial Club has been a great aid to the Land Show in reaching the columns of the papers in Oregon. The American Type Foundry Company, as a compliment to the Manufacturers' Association, has carried a special article on Portland's Exposition in every paper in the Northwest reached by its service. Rural papers, interested in the success of the Land Show, are supporting the enterprise both in the editorial and local columns, with the result that the dates of the Exposition, together with the nature of the exhibits to be displayed, have been widely known. In addition the motion-picture theaters in the Willamette Valley are showing slides calling attention to October 23 as Willamette Valley day.

Theaters to Assist. Every photoplay theater in Portland will run slides urging the people to patronize the Land Show. This is complimentary on the part of the Portland Motion-Picture Exhibitors' League. This organization also will maintain two of the latest patterns of the motion-picture projection machine in the theater at the Exposition. Permission has been given to leave one end of the theater open to the public, and operators will explain how the films are handled. The local exhibitors will have programmes at the Land Show daily, in which they will demonstrate the advancement made by the motion-picture producers the last few years by showing high-class educational films and photoplays. More than 100 booths were under construction at the armory by 6 o'clock last night. The work of decoration has progressed rapidly and the electric lights for the interior of the armory and the temporary buildings were tried out for the first time. Several exhibits were nearly complete and by Saturday most of the fruit displays will be ready. From now on until the opening of the Exposition, next Monday, the armory will be open night and day to enable exhibitors and booth builders to get everything in readiness.

CHAMBER TABLES REPORT CITY AND COUNTY UNION FAVORED BUT BILL'S DEFECTS STIR OPPOSITION.

While the Chamber of Commerce was favorable to the report of its committee recommending plans for consolidation of the government of Portland and of Multnomah County, the report was placed on the table yesterday without action being taken on the fact that a referendum bill for the consolidation of city and county governments is pending before the people in the coming election and the Chamber radically opposed to this referendum measure. It was feared yesterday that if the Chamber had adopted its committee report on consolidation, the public might construe this as an endorsement of the referendum measure to which the Chamber is opposed. The Chamber opposes the referred

WINSOME STEWART SISTERS, AT EMPRESS, DAINTY DANCERS.

One of "Dancing Dolls." A cute and winsome trio of dainty little "brollers" are the three Stewart sisters, the "dancing dolls," who are making a hit at Marcus Loew's Empress this week. measure because of its ambiguity in title and text," said W. J. Clemens, chairman of the consolidation committee, yesterday. "The title of the bill makes statements which are flatly contradicted in the text and, if it is adopted by the people at the coming election, any effort to consolidate the city and county governments under its provisions probably will produce first of all interminable proceedings in the courts. "A study of the text of the bill will indicate quickly to any who are interested that this city, in an attempt to consolidate under the provisions of this bill, would suffer and the County of Multnomah would suffer by it. The Chamber will not take action on the report until after the election. In the meantime, it is recommending that the referendum measure numbered on the ballot 304 and 305 be rejected by the voters. In case this measure is defeated, the Chamber will probably adopt the report and proceed to have a bill drawn up which will provide adequately for the consolidation of the government of the City of Portland and the County of Multnomah within the present existing borders of the county.

GEORGE BILL CONDEMNED Oregon Hydro-Electric Commission Would Keep Desert Land Board.

Resolutions opposing the initiative bill to abolish the Desert Land Board and substitute for it the old Land Board, have been adopted by the Oregon Hydro-Electric Commission, which is entering a campaign to interest the voters of the state in upholding the present organization of the Board. The full text of the resolution as adopted at the meeting of the Commission at the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, follows: "Whereas, the pending initiative bill, Nos. 346 and 347, known as the George bill, would abolish the present Desert Land Board, substituting therefor the old Land Board, composed of officials whose duties would be locally in becoming familiar with water and land, development problems; and whereas, the committee on the bill, who were named by the people and must serve them, substituting therefor an appointive state engineer, who would be named by and must therefore subordinate himself to his perfunctory State Land Board; and whereas, the Desert Land Board would curtail the number of Water Superintendents from two to one and eliminate for the time at least opportunity for quietest service in measuring the streams serving the farmers of the state; would annual the state's appropriations now existing for joint stream survey and cooperative survey work in conjunction with the Federal Government, in which work the Federal Government now bears half the cost, and would, further, according to the most extensive estimates of the state department, the commission back about 26 years in this progressive effort to master our natural resources; therefore, be it resolved, by the Oregon Hydro-Electric Commission, that the voters of the state be urged to vote against the initiative bill, which will have on the official ballot, "No. 346, "Yes," and "No. 347, "No," and that they further urge all associations and organizations deeply interested in state development to use their utmost influence to secure the passage of this measure by the voters of the state, for the measure precludes the possibility of a "regular old-time harvest dance in Horace Ramsdell's barn." "Me and George Kleiser is gettin' it in," says the invitation. "Red Larson will do the fiddlin' and George Baker will call the figngers. Charley Wright will blow the little horn and Frank Freeman will play the slide horn." So on through the list of prominent Commercial Club members runs the announcement of a meeting of the club, however, will not have to dress in keeping with the rural spirit of the evening.

AID FOR CREW AM Fund Desired for Veterans of Oregon of 1898.

Importance to West of Noted Battleship's Projected Cruise by Canal Route Expressed and Need of Assistance Urged.

ADAM GILL HERE IS HELP

To interest Portlanders and residents of the state generally in the proposed voyage of the old battleship Oregon from Hampton roads through the Panama Canal, which is to be started February 5; also to increase the exchequer of the "Veterans of the United States Steamship Oregon Crew, of 1898," a society of which he is president, Adam Gill has arrived in Portland from Vallejo, Cal. Mr. Gill is in the service of the Navy Department still, but instead of being a fireman, as he was when the Oregon made her historic run through the Straits of Magellan to battle with Spanish ships, he is now leading machinist at the Mare Island Navy-yard and has taken up the work of reassembling the old crew, having been granted a leave of absence of 18 months.

"One purpose of my visit is to increase business and commercial interests of the city with the need of helping to some extent to finance the former Oregon men who are to make the cruise," said Mr. Gill, "and to provide their own transportation if it is necessary for them to go across the country to join the Oregon. It has been intimated that steam will be used for the other side. That is not in line with our programme, as we wished to have the vessel leave Puget Sound under the command of her former crew and pick up others so they could go to the East Coast. By that means they would save money and get back into harness for a while. We expect Congress to pass a law early in December permitting the former Oregon men to be enlisted simply for the cruise. "That ship has done more than any one feature to advertise the state of Oregon in my opinion. On a recent visit East I met a number of men who thought that the ship was built in this state and some think that her crew was from Oregon. Her trip to the Coast will attract attention to the San Francisco 1915 Fair, also draw thousands to Oregon. Moreover, her first trip demonstrated the necessity of the Panama Canal and it is a move of National-wide interest. We expect Spanish-American war veterans of the Coast states to get in line, as they will be a number of features fostered to increase interest in the event. I will arrange with one of the former members of the crew here to get in touch with every man in the vicinity who was aboard the Oregon when she made the run. I have a complete roster of the men who were aboard when she reached Santiago. Sixty-eight have died and some are in the Navy yet. Rear-Admiral Clark is an ardent admirer of the ship and he will be one of any of us to be again on the deck of the old fighter and it promises to be a memorable reunion."

Mr. Gill has numerous letters of introduction and other credentials from such men as Captain Elliott, U. S. N., fair officials and prominent San Francisco men and he will be well received by the Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club and individuals. Mr. Gill has headquarters at the Hotel Portland and will remain for a week.

BUDGET IS CUT $6617 LARGEST REDUCTION IS $2716 ON ITEM OF FEED FOR HORSES.

Several Salary Increases Allowed, Commissioner Daily Changing His Attitude on This Question. Cuts aggregating $6617 were made by the city budget committee yesterday in estimates for supplies, material, equipment and proposed salary increases for the dog pound and the street-cleaning department. The reductions were all of small amounts, the largest being $2716 in the estimate for feed for horses during next year. The only special appropriation made was $5000 for an appraisal of the property of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. This was appropriated last year and was continued over and will not have to be raised by taxation next year. At yesterday's session Commissioner Daly turned from his stand against salary increases and voted for an increase of several men in the street-cleaning department. He joined Mayor Albee and Commissioners Brewster and Dieck in the salary increase vote. The three latter officials having stood for the increases as provided for in the efficiency code. Mr. Daly up to this time has voted generally against increases in salaries. Superintendent Donaldson, of the street-cleaning department, was granted an increase of $10 a month. Clerk got an increase of $5 a month, two foremen of the repair shop got an increase of $7.25 for the year. Provision was made for two additional drivers for automobile street-cleaning machines. The total of special appropriations and increased working forces and salaries allowed at the budget session yesterday was $7258, including the $5000 for the appraisal of the streetcar property.

CHIEF WARNS TRAINMEN FIREMAN ADVISES RAILWAY EMPLOYEES TO "KEEP YOUR HEAD."

Alarm Box Fitted Up to Show Men How to Report Blaze and Best Ways to Help Fighters. "Keep your head at a fire, and make your feet work, too," was the gist of the advice offered the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company's trainmen last night by Battalion Fire Chief Stevens, in an address at a "Safety First" meeting in the clubrooms of the Hawthorne building. "How many of you men know how to turn in an alarm from a fire box?" he demanded. Nearly all present held up their hands, but a majority hailed down their heads when Mr. Stevens hinted that he might select a few demonstrators. "We want the assistance of the whole public, but the carmen can be of wonderful help. "I am going to send you office a list of all the fire boxes on your routes. And when you see a fire going down the street don't run to a phone to ask the fire department where it is, Ask the Gas Company, or the Information. We need our telephones. I have often tried to call our office for more help when some curious person was using the line. "Another thing, don't call the fire department and say: 'Come quick! My house is on fire!' and then hang up the telephone. We don't know where your house is." During his address Mr. Stevens fitted up a fire-alarm box, and turned in two alarms to illustrate the mechanism of the box. Other speakers were H. F. Coffin, chairman of the "Safety First" commission; L. R. Alderman, city school superintendent; Police Captain Moore, and F. J. Connolly, an engineer on the Southern Pacific Railroad since 1887. R. F. Boynton, claim agent for the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, presided.
