

SENATOR DES NOT RECOMMENDS COMMISSIONS

Credit for Coos Bay Increase Implies Consent to Various Decreases.

EXPLANATION NOT MADE

Senate Amendments for Which Chamberlain Says He Was Responsible Ignored by Secretary of War in Allotments.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Oct. 21.—Senator Chamberlain is sending circular letters to commercial bodies and leading citizens of the Coos Bay country, claiming credit for having secured the allotment of $70,000 for the improvement of Coos Bay, which amount is $20,000 greater than was appropriated for Coos Bay in the river and harbor bill which met defeat in the Senate.

The fact that the amount allotted to Coos Bay was greater than the amount proposed to be appropriated by Congress is due to the fact that the river and harbor board of engineers, being thoroughly familiar with the situation at Coos Bay, recommended an allotment of $70,000 and the Secretary of War approved the recommendation of the Engineers.

Previous Opportunity Neglected.

As the river and harbor bill passed the House of Representatives last April it carried $50,000 for Coos Bay, that sum having been inserted in the bill after Representative Hawley had appeared before the river and harbor committee and urged the appropriation of that amount. When the bill went to the Senate, Senator Chamberlain was acting chairman of the subcommittee which redrafted the bill, but notwithstanding his advantageous position and at a time when he could undisputedly have claimed credit for any increase, Senator Chamberlain did not have the appropriation increased, but consented to the House provision of $50,000. In reporting the river and harbor bill to the Senate, Senator Chamberlain probably could have secured an increase in the Coos Bay appropriation to $70,000, and had such increase been authorized the Senator could well have claimed the credit.

He did not get the increase at that time, and, having overlooked the opportunity, when he had it in his power to get an additional $20,000, he now claims the credit for an increase that was made on the recommendation of the Army Engineer Corps.

Senator Ignores Nehalem Bay.

In this connection, however, it is interesting to note that while Senator Chamberlain claims credit for having secured an increase of $20,000 for Coos Bay, he has nothing to say about the failure of the War Department to make any allotment whatever for Nehalem Bay, which Representative Hawley had secured an appropriation of $116,175 in the river and harbor bill at the time it passed the House.

Nor does the Senator explain why no funds were allotted for the Siuslaw River, for which an appropriation of $112,500 was made by the river and harbor bill, as reported to the Senate. At the time the river and harbor bill passed the House the report of the engineers on the Siuslaw had not been received at Washington and the House, therefore, refused to incorporate any appropriation for that river in its bill. The engineers' report, however, was sent to Congress while the bill was in the hands of Senator Chamberlain's subcommittee, and the Senator secured the adoption of an amendment appropriating $112,500, in accordance with the recommendation of the War Department.

Appropriate Question Asked.

The question pertinently arises: If Senator Chamberlain was able to induce the War Department to increase the allotment for Coos Bay from $50,000 to $70,000, why did he not get some allotment for the Siuslaw River, for which he had secured $112,500 in the river and harbor bill, which failed? In the case of Coos Bay, according to the Senator's claims, he secured an allotment of $70,000 in excess of the original recommendation of the engineers. In the case of the Siuslaw he failed to secure any allotment whatever, though the War Department recommended an appropriation of $112,500. In this instance the Senator evidently did not put forth much effort, for while the engineers agreed to allot $1,000,000 for the mouth of the Columbia, the amount provided in the river and harbor bill as it passed the House, they reduced the allotment for the Siuslaw to $100,000 and evidently with the knowledge of Senator Chamberlain. There was great need for improving the channel below Portland with all possible expedition, especially in view of the delays incident to the hold-up of the river and harbor bill, but on that point Senator Chamberlain, by acquiescing to his contention, must have consented to a reduction of $100,000, while getting an increase of $20,000 for Coos Bay.

Senate Amendments Neglected.

Moreover, it is found that the Senator must have assented to the elimination of $50,000 to complete the purchase of the Willamette locks, $100,000 for the Columbia at Cascades, $2000 for Coos River and $1000 for the Clatskanie. All these amounts were appropriated by the House river and harbor bill, but none of these projects received allotments from the engineers or the Secretary of War. If Senator Chamberlain is responsible for the $20,000 increase at Coos Bay, he will have to explain why he consented to the elimination or reduction of allotments for the other projects named.

It is striking to note that the Secretary of War made allotments only to projects for which appropriations were proposed in the House river and harbor bill. No allotments were made for projects provided for in Senate amendments—or for which Senator Chamberlain claimed credit.

DEATH CALLS OREGON PIONEER AND CHURCH FOUNDER.

Mrs. Delilah Cason, pioneer of 1852, a charter member and one of the founders of Centenary Methodist Church, died Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Hurlbut, at the age of 87 years. She was born February 1, 1827, in Circleville, O. She crossed the plains to Oregon with her husband, Hilary Cason. In latter years they moved to the southeast corner of East Sixth and Pine streets, where the Centenary Methodist Church was organized.

She was the mother of 13 children. Five, Mrs. W. D. Hurlbut and Mrs. H. P. Lee, of Portland; Mrs. Virginia Mair and Mrs. Virginia V. Mair, of San Francisco, and Charles F. Cason, Oakland, Cal., survive her.

SIX DINERS SHOW STEPS

Young Complex Dance Latest at Commercial Club Affair.

Six young folk of prominence in Portland's social circles added to the brilliance and success of the weekly dinner-dance at the Commercial Club last night by graceful exhibitions of the latest in dance steps. "The Lullaby," the fox trot, the one-step, the hesitation, and the Maxine all came in for their share of attention, and the dancers were applauded warmly by the other diners.

Miss Margaret Rader and Hugh Barford, Miss Beth Ludlam and Harold Grady, and Miss Harriett Harlow and Jack Price were the couples that obligingly featured in the exhibitions. The dining-hall presented a spirited appearance with bright lights, colored balloons and streams of multicolored serpentines. Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Moore were in charge of the evening.

Peruvian in Need of Work.

If any business man desires to hire the help of a young man recently from Lima, Peru, who is well suited to teach Spanish, he should address a communication to "A. R." at 54 North Sixteenth street, city. This man is anxious to get work and, though he is well educated, having studied shorthand and bookkeeping in a San Francisco business college, he says he is willing to start out as an office boy, if necessary. He has a letter of recommendation from the Consul of Peru.

SKILL AT COOKING APPLES WINS RAILROAD'S $20 PRIZE.

Many a guest that has the privilege of eating at the table of Mrs. Clem Krenz, at 554 Yamhill street, noting the excellence of her apple pie, will recall the fact that Mrs. Krenz was awarded the first prize of $20 in the apple cooking contest conducted by the G. W. R. & N. Company Tuesday. Mrs. Krenz is justly proud of the distinction, for about 1000 dishes were submitted to the judges.

To be adjudged the most adept among 115 entries in apple cooking is an honor that at least approaches the fame of "Aunt Delia," who gladdened many a White House guest with apple pies that were different.

In awarding the prizes the committee of women judges took the following points into consideration: originality or novelty, ease of preparation, general usefulness, inexpensiveness, wholesomeness, appearance, flavor, clearness of recipe and variety of display.

MILL WORKERS AID Dr. Withycombe Welcomed by Laborers at Oregon City.

WOMEN PROMISE VOTES Candidate's Visit to Plants Gets Ovation and Employes Offer Support — Republican Talk Heard Everywhere.

OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Dr. James Withycombe, Republican candidate for Governor, spent Wednesday in Oregon City and its mills, shook hands with almost 1000 citizens, and was most warmly and enthusiastically received.

Dr. Withycombe visited the big Willamette paper mills, the Oregon City woolen mills and the Hawley plant, in addition to putting in a busy afternoon on the streets. At the mills the doctor met with an unusual reception, in that hundreds of the paper-makers voluntarily offered their support. On every hand was heard talk of a general Republican year, and it was quite apparent at the conclusion of Dr. Withycombe's visit here this afternoon that the mill town will roll up a handsome majority for the Republican candidate.

At the woolen mills, where hundreds of women are employed, the doctor found unusual interest in the coming election, and the enthusiasm among the women voters was strongly Republican.

"It was a splendid day," said Dr. Withycombe as he boarded the car for LYRIC TO HELP UNION Receipts at Two Shows Today to Wipe Debt of Labor Celebration.

For the purpose of wiping out the debt incurred by the last Labor day celebration a benefit performance will be given both this afternoon and night at the Lyric Theater, to which all members of organized labor in Portland are expected to flock.

Stormy weather on Labor day caused a deficit in the funds for the celebration and it is to meet this that Manager Dan Flood offered to give the entire proceeds of one day at the Lyric Theater. The Central Labor Council has appointed a committee to boost the benefit and many hundreds of tickets have been disposed of by the unions and individual members of the labor organizations.

The Musicians' Mutual Association has provided for a large band, which will give a concert before each performance. The Lyric Musical Comedy Company will present "When Hubby Came Home," said to be a mirth-provoking comedy that should bring many laughs. Sol Carter, the Hebrew comedian, will "put over" many witticisms of a local nature, the shafts being launched at prominent labor leaders and politicians.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—With 150 delegates present from many parts of Northwestern Oregon, a tri-district rally of the Ladies of the Macabees began here this afternoon for a session of two days. Fifty came from Portland.

The feature of the rally is the presence of Mrs. Minnie W. Aydelotte, deputy supreme commander, and Dr. Ella J. Fifield, supreme medical examiner, both of Oakland, Cal.

Other leading officers here are Mrs. Florence Chambers and Mrs. Addie L. Tillman, district deputies from Portland. At tonight's session various phases of lodge work were exemplified by teams from Portland, Queen Elizabeth live and Golden Rule live, all of Portland, and Queen live, of Salem.
