SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22 .- (Spe cial.)—Whatever slim nopes the Angels entertained relative to the Coast League pennant of 1914, were dispelled as the result of today's play. The Beavers walloped the Seals over in Oakland, 8 to 3, and the Angels fell before the Tigers in the south, making the chase for the bunting one from bound, double-riveted cinch for the Portlanders.

The Beavers fell on Lefty Leifield in an abbreviated seven-inning game, cut short by darkness, and never left the issue in doubt.

Right from the jump-off, Rodgers beat out an infield hit with one out. Kores doubled into right and Speas delivered a Texas leaguer to center field to ring the bell.

The Seals promptly tied it up. Fitzgerald singled to center and was sacrificed by O'Leary. Schaller singled to center. cial.) - Whatever slim hopes the Angels to center.

Yantz Drops Ball-Speas' perfect peg home had the speedy Fitz by 10 feet, but Yantz dropped the ball, a score resulting. Evans' single, Doane's out, a walk to Rodgers and Schaller's slow fielding on Kores' single shoved the Beavers ahead in the second. They added another in the fourth on Charles' error on Yantz, Evans' sacrifice, Rodgers' infield hit and O'Leary's low throw to the plate.

The Howardites staged a rally in their half, Cartwright, Charles and Schmidt singling in succession, Liefield's out to short counting one run, but Fitzgerald lined to Evans for a double play to retire the side.

Game Settled in Fifth.

The game was settled in the fifth. Bancroft dropped a two-sacker in short left and advanced on Davis out. Lober singled to right for a run, and, after Yantz walked, Evans doubled to left to score two more runs. After Rodgers was hit by a pitched ball and Kores walked, filling the bases, Leifield was removed and Young Couch took up the pitching burden.

The former Stanford hurler got by micely until the seventh, when he was touched up for two runs. The damage had been done, however, and, with darkness coming on, Umpire McCarthy wisely called the game in the seventh inning. The score:

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. With the cinching of the 1914 Pacific Coast pennant yesterday Walter Mc-Credie established a new league record. Los Angeles, with Pop Dillon guiding the machine most of the time, had previously been tied with Portland at four gonfalons aplece, but Mack's newest pennanteering puts him one fag to the Five championships since 1905 is Walter McCredie's boast, and it is one that ought to go down in Pacific Coast

Twenty years hence, when the Coast League is a major organization, they will reminisce about big Mack just as we do today about Pop Anson, A. G. Spalding, Charley Radbourne and those old-timers of bygone days.

In some respects the 1914 pennantwinning combination resembled that of the year previous. Both got away like hobby horses and were down near the cellar about two months after everybody had abandoned hope.

Others Kidded, Says Williams.

But apparently, as Harry Williams, of Los Angeles, recently remarked: 'McCredle has it over these other managers so far that he can afford to kid them along for eight or 10 weeks before he begins to really warm up."

This year Mack left training camp with one veteran catcher, three veteran pitchers and a bunch of rooks, none of whom was worth a nickel to him. As a consequence the Beavers were in fifth place as late as June 1, and did not climb into the first division until the fore part of July.

About that time McCredie spent his money with prodigality, for he saw he had to inject new material into his fighting strength to win. He bought Pitcher Rieger from St. Paul, Evans and Lash from the Cleveland Naps, Martinoni and Eastley from the Colts and Catchers Yantz from the Naps and Brenegan from Pittsburg. Likewise Pitcher Pape was induced to report and his presence cost the McCredies about $1500, although he wasn't of any use. Others Kidded, Says Williams.

Stewart has the most compact interference in the conference, and with the heaviest team, it looks bad for Bender's cripples, who had such a hard game last Saturday against the big Oregon team.

"I will feel that we did fine if we can hold the biggest team in the conference to 21 points," said Coach Bender today, "Stewart has the largest and most experienced team in the conference outside of Washington."
