Batteries of Machine Guns Captured, Prisoners Taken, Many Killed.

Austria Claims Victories

Reports From Various Sources Assert Battle Line Now Extends From Carpathians to Plock, 60 Miles Northwest of Warsaw.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The Havas Agency has received from Petrograd the following official communication issued in the Russian capital:

"The combat upon the routes leading to Petrograd and Radom has assumed the character of a great battle, of which the front extends over 10 Versts (a verst is two-thirds of a mile) from Rawa to Nowomiasno and Bialobrzegi as far as the mouth of the River Dnieper.

"The evening of October 24, north of Rawa, we attacked the Germans at the point of the bayonet, inflicting upon them considerable losses. In the village of Morchidlo alone we buried over 700 Germans.

Machine Guns Captured. "In a bayonet combat near the village of Masamerjeff we captured two batteries of machine guns.

"Our troops command the fortress of Nemlovo, southeast of Rawa, where we took back the German trenches and tenacious combats continue.

"We have progressed along the routes between Nova Aleksandria where we captured numerous prisoners and cannon.

Austrians Are Weakening. "The stubborn resistance of the Austrians in Galicia is weakening, and our troops are making vigorous progress in the region south of Sambor and Staromiasno, where we took 11 cannon and many caissons.

"The entire valley of the River Sprzyna is covered with bodies of the enemy, estimated to aggregate at least 5000.

"All attempts by the Germans to resume a partial offensive on the Eastern Prussian front have been repelled."

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A dispatch to Reuters Telegram Company from Rotterdam gives the following official statement issued in Vienna:

Russians Are Reinforced. "A telegram dated Sunday noon from the northeastern zone of activities says Austrian and German forces have taken a position in a nearly uninterrupted line from the northern spur of the Carpathian Mountains by way of Stry and Sambor to the north of Przemyel, to the Polish part of the Vistula and to the district of Plock, against the main army of the Russians who have been reinforced by troops from the Caucasus, Siberia and Turkestan.

"The Austrian offensive across the Carpathians attracted strong hostile forces.

Austrians Claim Successes. "In the middle of Galicia, where both armies occupy fortified positions, the battle is stagnant. Northeast of Przemyel and on the lower San, the Austrians have had several successes.

"In Russian Poland strong forces are facing one another. Since yesterday there has been fighting north of the Vistula, between Ivanogrod and Warsaw."

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The French official communication this afternoon said concerning the Russian campaign:

"To the west of the Vistula and to the north of the Pilica River, the German, have been forced back on Lowicz, Skiernewicz and Rawa, which have been captured at the bayonet point by the Russians.

"To the south of Pilica, in the direction of Radom, there has been a lively engagement between the Russians and the Austro-Germans, who lost prisoners and cannon.

"To the south of Solec, the Russian troops crossed the Vistula by main force, driving the Austrians back. On the River San and to the south of Przemyel there have occurred stubborn combats, resulting favorably to the Russians. An Austrian column detaching from the Carpathians on Dolina (in Galicia, 20 miles to the south of Stry) was routed."

WOUNDED ARRIVE IN BRITISH PORT DAILY

Hospital Ship Is Kept Busy Crossing and Recrossing English Channel.

HOTELS ARE TRANSFORMED Large Numbers of Belgians Transferred to Folkestone With Evacuation of Ostend by Forces of Allied Nations.

FOLKESTONE, Oct. 26.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—With the shifting of the fighting toward the Channel, Folkestone has become an important hospital point for the allies. A Red Cross ship lies here most of the time and makes daily trips to Calais for the wounded.

Many of the large hotels here have been converted into hospitals and others will be soon, as it is necessary that more beds be placed at the disposal of the seriously wounded not able to make a long trip by rail after coming across the Channel.

With the allies' abandonment of Ostend all the Belgian wounded there were brought to hospitals here. Hospital trains are provided here daily to meet the Red Cross ship, and the wounded who can travel without danger are taken to hospitals as near their homes as possible.

The Red Cross ambulance corps has its headquarters at a hotel on the quay to transport wounded soldiers who arrive from Boulogne or Calais.

When the Red Cross ship starts across the Channel on its daily trip several motor ambulances are taken for use on the other shore. Surgeons and nurses from here also take the trip to Calais, that they may observe and get full reports from the doctors who have had charge of the soldiers in France.

Many of the Belgian soldiers brought here from Ostend had suffered terribly from the effects of the forced evacuation of Ostend. Some of the wounded were taken to Ostend after the hospital had been abandoned and could not be given effective treatment.

HOG CHOLERA MUST GO SECRETARY HOUSTON TELLS HOW TO SOLVE PROBLEM.

Importance of Making Agriculture Efficient and Profitable Outlined at Dairy Show.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—"With people of all sections keenly interested in the supply of life's necessities, they recognize the importance of making agriculture efficient and profitable and rural life comfortable," Secretary Houston, of the Department of Agriculture, said today before the convention of the National Dairy Show Association.

He told the association what the government was doing to aid the farmer to increase the Nation's rapidly diminishing meat supply, develop acreage production, and asserted there would be "no question that the key to the solution" of many of the problems of rural life will be found in some form of concerted action or co-operation.

"Just what factors have brought about the serious condition confronting the Nation in its meat supply," he said, "no one with certainty can define, and so to ascertain them I have appointed a commission consisting of the best authorities I could discover," said the authority.

"This study will embrace an investigation of production and consumption, of the methods of producing, finishing and marketing. Certain things, however, now are clear, and definite measures for increasing the meat supply are being taken.

"Unquestionably the largest hope for a considerable increase in our meat supply lies in:

"First, systematic attention to the production of larger animals in the settled farming areas of the country, especially in the South; second, increasing attention to the smaller animals, such as swine and poultry, and, third, the control and eradication of cattle ticks and hog cholera."

WILSON OPPOSES CANNON President Writes Letter Indorsing "Uncle Joe's" Rival.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Wilson joined in the fight today against the election to the House of former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, by writing a letter indorsing Representative J. O'Hair, of Illinois, who defeated Mr. Cannon at the last election. Up to the present the President has kept out of the Senatorial fight in Illinois, where Roger Sullivan is the Democratic candidate.

Mr. Wilson practically finished his letter-writing campaign today, sending indorsements to Democratic candidates in a number of states. He has been assured by the campaign managers that the elections will result in Democratic majorities in the Senate and House, but will continue to work as much as possible for particular candidates.

In addition to the Democratic Senatorial candidates whom the President already has publicly indorsed, he is giving his support to James H. Hawley, of Idaho; S. E. Baldwin, in Connecticut; George A. Neely, in Kansas; W. E. Purcell, in North Dakota; Edward Johnson, in South Dakota; and James H. McVie, in Utah. Special interest in other candidates may be shown later.

SENATE RESCINDS ACTION Decision on Transfer of Consul-Generals at Antwerp, Is Reversed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—It was disclosed today that the Senate in executive session here just before the adjournment of Congress today rescinded its action confirming the transfer of Consul-General Harry W. Dieckhoff from Antwerp, Belgium, to Barcelona, Spain, in place of Consul-General Carl-Balley Hurst, transferred to Antwerp.

The rescinding of the transfer is said to be based on the fact that the Germans had taken Antwerp since objections were made against Mr. Dieckhoff because of his German ancestry.

BRITAIN RESPECT TRADE OF NEUTRALS

American Doctrine Regarding Conditional Contraband Is Announced Policy.

WASHINGTON IS SATISFIED

Oil Ships Released and Question of Changed Registry Is Not Raised. Navy Department Holds Marine Insurance Is Safe.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Great Britain in two notes presented today to the State Department by the British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring Rice, defined her attitude toward commerce between neutral countries as one of rigid endeavor to give every security possible in the interest of free and undisturbed trade.

The documents constituted a general pronouncement of British policy on the subject of contraband.

The points in the British view are: American shippers should take adequate precaution to show the exact destination of their goods, mentioning either a specific country or a neutral government in their bills of lading.

Great Britain will be guided by the American doctrine of continuous voyage or "ultimate destination" in respect to commerce between neutral countries in articles generally known as conditional contraband. Absolute contraband, embracing munitions of war, is always subject to seizure without examination when carried in neutral ships.

Cotton, which is specifically mentioned in the British view as being absolute or conditional contraband, can be shipped in neutral vessels, not only to neutral countries, but to all belligerent countries without molestation.

The announcements from London that the American tanker Brindilla had been ordered released at Halifax, N. E., and the Platuria held on the coast of Scotland similarly would be permitted to continue her voyage, cleared up every pending question in the subject of shipping which had arisen in the past week between the United States and Great Britain.

In both cases the principal force in the day's communications from the British Ambassador was followed, namely, that on determining the exact destination of the cargo as neutral, the vessels would not be held.

Great Britain's decision not to raise the question of changed registry in the case of the Brindilla or the Platuria strengthened the belief of the Administration that there would be no difficulty in this connection where the ownership of vessels which changed their flag was continuously American.

As yet there has been no test case of a change from German to American registry where a transfer from a German company to an American concern was involved. There have been several such transfers, but in each case it is understood British Consuls have been satisfied that the transfer was of a bona fide character and have not recommended that the vessels be brought before a prize court.

The attitude of the British government in these matters was regarded by the Washington government as entirely satisfactory, the assurance that cotton cargoes would not be molested, even when bound for belligerent countries, being particularly welcome.

As a result of these definite assurances, Secretary McAdoo issued the following statement tonight:

"There is no reason why underwriters who cover marine and war risk insurance should now hesitate to issue policies on cotton in neutral bottoms, so far as Great Britain is concerned. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance of the Treasury Department is writing in insurance freely on cotton when carried in American vessels."

Postmaster - General Gets Lost in Soo City.

Burlison Thought He Was in Soo Falls, S. D., and When Corrected, Makes Bolt for Bags and Catches Train Just in Time and Keeps Scheduled Speech Date.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 26.—Postmaster-General Burlison "got lost" in St. Louis city today.

Burlison got off a train here and went to a hotel. Just then a newspaperman accosted him and asked: "Aren't you in the wrong town, Mr. Burlison?"

"No, this is St. Louis, isn't it?" When he learned he was in St. Louis City Mr. Burlison grabbed his bag and bolted, while the hotel clerk looked on in amazement. He arrived at the station just in time to catch a train for St. Louis, where he was scheduled to speak today. Mr. Burlison had caught the "St. Louis" end of the city's name when it rolled from the tongue of a stranger and assumed he had reached his destination.
