TEACHER ARRAIGNS EVILS IN SCHOOLS

Right Standards in Sports Essential to Character Build-ter of high school pupils uniess backed by the good example of teacher, parent and leaders in the public, professional and business life of the community."

declared Professor E. D. Ressier, of the Oregon Agricultural College, in his address on "Student Honor" before the convention today.

"Interscholastic contests, where teachers permit ineligible students to participate, write the speeches of their debates, jockey for partisan judges or yield to the clamor of local sports for winning teams by running in ringers, have not only demoralized character, but have set up false ideals of sportsmanship," he declared.

The speaker scored the weak-kneed submission of school officials to the unworthy ideals of "win at any cost." He indorsed such contests as an acid test essential to develop a sense of personal honor, on the theory that absence of temptation cannot develop character.

"Dishonest politics, crooked business, false standards and a low moral plane in family and social life must share in this responsibility." he said.

"The school, through its parent-teachers' clubs and other social connections, must have the courage to attack these evils and demand the co-operation of these other institutions. At the same time, teachers can influence the future generations powerfully by impressing upon the plastic minds of this school generation the grave dangers in the low moral standards of the present day.

Easy-Going Teacher Failure.

"The easy-going, indulgent teacher, who passes all his pupils, follles the parents and the public, arouses no antagonism and never says 'No,' may be a good politician, but he is an utter failure as a developer of character."

Professor Ressier's talk was preceded by a scholarly discussion of "The Problem of the School in Civic Education" by Dr. H. D. Sheldon, of the University of Oregon. Dr. Sheldon described the elements of every-day life which make for civic education, such as holidays, campaigns and newspapers, and urged that these be taken up in the schools.

He urged the study of certain books Easy-Going Teacher Failure.
