

WOMEN LINE UP FOR MR. HURLBURT

Opponent's Attack in St. Johns Speech Only Adds Strength to Republican Nominee.

CLUBS TO BE CONSULTED

Addison Bennett Describes Conditions and Cites Belief of Analysts of Politics That Election Is Won.

BY ADDISON BENNETT.

The Oregonian has ever since the primary election, in which Thomas M. Hurlburt was made the Republican nominee for Sheriff, stood consistently for his election. Why? Because it is known that Mr. Hurlburt is one of the ablest, cleanest and most conscientious men who ever aspired to that office. As one proof that the voters of Multnomah County think this is true, he received in the primaries more than four times the number of votes cast for his Democratic opponent.

Mr. Hurlburt's election is practically assured. The Democratic and "independent" hosts know this, and as the election draws near they are moving heaven and earth to defeat him. They are trying in every way to impugn his reputation as a man and a citizen, one of the latest stabs coming from his opponent, who in a speech last Saturday night at St. Johns made the statement that Mr. Hurlburt, in case of his election, would appoint two men, whose names were given, as his deputies.

When that statement was made the speaker must have known, did know, that those two men were about the last two in the county that would be considered, but in the game of dirty politics being played it was thought, since a report would turn a large number of the women from casting their votes for Mr. Hurlburt.

No Pre-Election Promises Made.

The word of Mr. Hurlburt has never been questioned in this community—never! He has been in the limelight here for many, many years. He has been the door of big things. Marks of his handiwork are to be seen on practically every street in Portland. Never a dirty dollar has passed through his hands, and what is more, in the heat of political contests his word has never before been brought into question; but his opponent now, at the eleventh hour, repudiates it. Mr. Hurlburt has reiterated and reiterated the statement that he had made no pre-election promises and would make none.

On the other hand, he has asserted and still asserts that in case of his election he will consult with the leading citizens of the county before appointing any deputies and will be ruled by the consensus of opinion of such men. He thus assures the voters practically that he will appoint clean men; and once appointing them he will see that they do their duty honorably and honestly.

Among his appointees will be two or more matrons for the County Jail; he avers that he will see that these appointees are approved by the leading women's organizations of the county and that their tenure of office, like all of his appointees, will be based upon their good conduct and the proper discharge of their duties.

When Mr. Hurlburt was induced to enter the race for Sheriff he declared that so far as he was concerned it would be a campaign devoid of personalities, and he has kept his word in that as he has in all things. It has been suggested to him from time to time that his opponent might be attacked for such a statement, but Mr. Hurlburt has remained true to his resolves and has not himself made or allowed his friends to make any accusations.

Doubt Causes Sorrow.

But when it is charged that he has promised to appoint two notoriously unfit men as deputies he thinks it no more than right that he should deny such statements made by his opponent, and once again call attention to his platform and to his personal statements as to how his appointments, in case of his election, are to be made.

In a long talk with Mr. Hurlburt yesterday, in which I called his attention to the published remarks of Mr. Word in which he made the statement that he, Mr. Hurlburt, had agreed to make certain appointments, I found him more grieved than offended, for he remarked that the first time in my life that my word has ever been questioned, I am my platform I distinctly said, and in my public speeches during the campaign I have frequently said, that I had made and would make no pre-election promises. And I think the people of Multnomah County know Tom Hurlburt well enough to know he will live up to the letter and spirit of his promises.

During the last day or two Mr. Hurlburt has been promised the support of a great many women whom he naturally thought, from their home ties and affiliations, would be against him. But his promise to see to it that the various women's organizations of the county would be called upon to recommend the matrons of the jail, and possibly a deputy, has brought to him the support of a large number of women.

Mr. Hurlburt looks upon the race as already won and his friends feel that he will be elected by a large majority.

TWO ORIGINAL POLLARDS ARE FEATURED AT PANTAGES.

Teddy McNamara.

Of the original Lilliputian Pollards who were the sensation of the stage a few years ago when they came from Australia and presented the leading musical comedies of the day, Teddy McNamara and Daphne Pollard are the only two to survive the vicissitudes of the stage and to win recognition as stars.

Teddy and his own company are featured in "The Guide From Monte Carlo," at Pantages this week. For a leading woman Teddy has engaged Queenie Williams, a diminutive comedienne who is much like the beloved Daphne. The latter went into retirement a few seasons ago but recently made her return to the calcium in "The Candy Shop" with Rock and Fulton.

WATER CUT PROPOSED

MINIMUM RATE MAY BE 10 OR 15 CENTS LOWER MONTHLY.

Public to Get Benefit of Large Surplus Being Filled Up at Prevailing Rates.

Following out plans arranged some time ago when it became apparent that there would be a large surplus of water bureau funds at the end of this year, Commissioner Boy announced yesterday that on December 1 he will put into effect a new schedule, materially reducing present rates. The reduction in rates is possible because of the fact that for some time past the water bureau has raised more money under the prevailing water rates than is necessary for the maintenance of the water works system.

The minimum rate for flat rate services now is 50 cents a month. At this rate a household is entitled to the use of water for drinking and for cooking or washing where there are not more than 10 persons in the family. In the case of a bath, an additional charge of 10 cents a month is made and for a toilet a charge of 15 cents a month is made. It is proposed to eliminate the charge for one or the other of these extra fixtures and allow the use of the additional fixture along with the tap for cooking, drinking or washing, for the flat rate of 50 cents a month.

It is probable that the extra charge for toilets will be eliminated. This means that the present flat rate users who pay 75 cents a month will have their bills cut down to 60 cents a month.

FEDERAL AID CONSIDERED

Forestry Officials Act on Appropriation for Road Building.

The consideration of the appropriation to be asked from Congress to assist in building roads in forested countries, where the cost of construction is beyond the resources of the state, was begun yesterday by local Forestry Service officials.

The plan was outlined last Summer by Chief Forester Graves, when he visited the district on his way to the monument in the Olympic National Forest Reserve. It provides that the Forestry Department shall ask Congress for an appropriation sufficient to assist the counties in building the roads. The appropriation will be refunded from the 25 per cent of the forest revenue which now goes to the counties for road building and school support.

In certain sections of the Western States, notably in Western Oregon and Washington, this fund is at present inadequate, because the timber on the reserves is surrounded by other timber owned by individuals, and therefore inaccessible. The plan outlined by Forester Graves is to secure an advance appropriation guaranteed by bonding the future revenues.

FILMS SHOW STARS

Max Figman, Great Favorite, Shines at Star.

MRS. THAW IS AT MAJESTIC

Columbia Has "The Ragged Earl" With Andrew Mack in Role and Peoples Has Political Film.

Sunset Holds Prince Play.

There is such an appeal in Max Figman's acting in "What's His Name" at the Star Theater that the spectator is always on the border between a laugh and a cry. He takes the part of a man whose personality is submerged in that of his wife. She is a famous actress, her husband—and that is all. He takes that painful title among his own friends, and hers are disdainful of him. She supports him and their child lives in New York and leads the life of a popular actress.

Figman, always a droll, slow-moving character, exceeds himself in this production.

Miss Robertson is exquisitely beautiful in her characterization of the actress and fine in her refusal to be "common" when the chance presents itself. "What's His Name" will be at the Star until Sunday.

EVELYN THAW GREAT MAGNET

"Threads of Destiny" at Majestic Is Drawing Feature.

Possibly no other picture ever shown in the city has ever drawn larger crowds than "Threads of Destiny," with Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in the leading role, at the Majestic Theater is drawing. All week the playhouse has been full at every performance.

"Threads of Destiny" is a semi-historical feature in five reels. The action opens in Siberia after a massacre of the Jews. Swiftly and comprehensively the plot unravels until the spectator is almost swept away with the force of the story. Mrs. Thaw is a good emotional actress, although her work on the screen is noticeably better in lighter parts. Her small son, Russell William Thaw, disports himself most creditably and has received many ovations from Majestic patrons this week.

There are many beautiful outdoor scenes in the picture and a number of good interiors.

Accompanying the pictures a nine-piece orchestra renders appropriate music.

ANDREW MACK AT COLUMBIA

Star in "The Ragged Earl" Appears in Film of Irish Comedy-Drama.

Andrew Mack, the old-time Broadway favorite, who starred for so many years in "The Ragged Earl," the popular Irish comedy-drama, appeared in a five-reel visualization of this favorite production yesterday at the Columbia. For clean, pure comedy-drama of the highest type there is nothing which will compare with this offering. Andrew Mack makes his first appearance in pictures in this play, and he has made a great success of it.

In regard to the photography, scenes and settings the play may take its place among the best. The sets have been arranged with a spareness and some remarkable scenes are shown. In the story, "The Ragged Earl," a hale and hearty Irishman, impersonates the nobleman and carries away the girl he loves.

Another feature on the bill which afforded exciting entertainment was the episode of "The Million Dollar Mystery." This bill will run the remainder of this week.

SUNSET HAS OLD FAVORITE

Elsie Esmond and Thurlow Bergen, ex-Baker Players, Are Stars.

The feature of the present programme at the Sunset Theater is "A Prince of India," a four-reel drama featuring Elsie Esmond and Thurlow Bergen, both formerly of the Baker Stock Company. The plot abounds with thrills.

The Prince of India is the possessor of a priceless diamond which a band of crooks is attempting to obtain. Their accomplice is a beautiful woman who, in trying to be a crook, falls in love with her intended victim. How the Prince ultimately loses and regains his treasure makes this picture play intensely interesting.

The Tramp Quartet gains in popularity with every performance. The open-air concerts continue to draw large audiences.

"Sweet and Low," a Keystone comedy with a lot of "ginger," and the Northwest local news conclude the offering.

The bill is a good example of a blended show, and is one of the most attractive ever presented at the Sunset.

'THE COUNTY CHAIRMAN' HERE

Macklyn Arbuckle Portrayed in Film in Great Production.

Macklyn Arbuckle's name should have been "Joybringer."

Even though he was unfortunately named, he does bring joy nevertheless, and is bringing it to patrons of the People's Theater this week in "The County Chairman."

This story is one of political life in a small New England township. There is the usual rivalry in love and politics, worked out in a refreshing way that appeals to the spectator. The county chairman perpetrates all sorts of "vile deeds," including the making of a match between his own "particular boy" and his rival's daughter.

The whole picture is saturated with genuine, good, clean comedy, a little of rank and pedigree, descended from the days of the silent film, and just enough to make it interesting.

The County Chairman will be at the People's all week and if you want to have a hearty laugh you should go through his campaign with him.

W. F. JEWETT IS DEAD

Wealthiest Resident of Douglas County Passes at Gardiner.

ROSEBURG, Or., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—W. F. Jewett, superintendent of the Gardiner Mill Company at Gardiner, and reputed to be worth nearly $2,000,000, died last today. He had been ill several months.

Mr. Jewett was born in Maine and came to Oregon in the year 1878 and located at Marshfield. Two years later he went to Gardiner, and entered the employ of the Gardiner Mill Company. There he has lived since almost continuously.

He was financially interested in several steamers, mills, banks, oil wells

OREGON HENS ENTERED
TEN FROM AURORA WILL COMPETE IN WORLD'S LAYING CONTEST.

Birds From All Countries in Championship Test Which Opens in San Francisco November 1.

Ten Oregon hens are on their way to San Francisco to lay against the world. The international egg-laying contest for the exposition, begins November 1, 1914, and continues until October 31, 1915, under the supervision of the poultry division of the College of Agriculture of the University of California, in the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Hens will be there from England and Canada and South America and Australia, and perhaps from China; hens of rank and pedigree, descended from good laying parents. Hens will be there from Missouri, where the hens are supposed to be proverbially fine layers, and from all the other states of the Union. On November 1, 10 Oregon hens will begin laying against all for the world's championship.

The Oregon champion hens are from the Browndale Farm, of Aurora, a corporation of which R. H. Brown, of Portland, is manager.

They are the best 10 trap-nested, single-comb White Leghorns that Mr. Brown could select.

"If Oregon wins this international egg-laying contest," says Mr. Brown, "it will mean hundreds of thousands of dollars to the poultry men of the state, and I am of the opinion that Oregon stands a good chance of winning it, or at least to come out near the top."

BAKER GETS FIRST PLAYS
Value of Stock Company to City Told at Ad Club Luncheon.

"Nowadays we are able to get the new plays the first year after they are produced in New York and to get the best plays on the market. In this way we are able to offer Portland audiences attractions as good as they will find anywhere in the land," said George L. Baker yesterday at the Ad Club luncheon, where he introduced his new stock company and gave a talk upon its organization.

"We are catering to the home and family," he said, "and trying to offer to the people a character of plays and a company of actors whose characters are above reproach."

John F. Logan, speaking on the economic value of a stock company to a city, said: "Every city that has a successful stock company is a successful city. For a stock company represents its character the character of the city and the people who go to make up the city."

Adam Hill, of the old crew of the battleship Oregon, gave a talk on the effort that is being made to man the Oregon with the original crew of 1898 to operate her at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The chairman of the day yesterday was F. W. Hild.

FOR DANDRUFF--FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP--25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save Your Hair!
Make It Grow Luxuriant and Beautiful.

If you care for heavy hair, that glitters with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you can not have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—Adv.
