FIXING OF PENALTY IS DRYS' NEXT STEP

Punitive Clause Purposely Omitted From Prohibition Act as Safeguard.

LEGISLATURE RELIED ON

Liquor Interests May Test Election Before Supreme Court-Breweries Likely to Be Changed Into Various Factories.

Now that the people of Oregon have voted to abolish the liquor traffic it remains for the Legislature to pass a law providing penalties for violations of the prohibition amendment. The framers of the prohibition amendment adopted at Tuesday's election purposely omitted provision for penalties. They were advised by able attorneys that this function of government properly belongs to the Legislature of the state. While it would have been possible for the people, by their vote, to fix a penalty, it is pointed out that the measure as passed by the people will stand the test of constitutionality, while, had it carried a penalty clause, its constitutionality might have been questioned.

Notwithstanding that some of the best constitutional lawyers in the state have declared the amendment as adopted is valid in every particular, it is understood that some of the interests opposed to prohibition are preparing to carry the new law to the Supreme Court to test its validity.

Drys Rendy for Fight.

Drys Rendy for Fight. The prohibition forces are ready to meet just such an emergency. They are supplied with ready funds and have the command of some of the best legal talent in the state. They will defend the amendment, they declare, to the last ditch.

As a mater of fact the liquor interests have laid out no programme of their own and may acquiesce to the voice of the people in silence. Only a few of the most radical of their number now are talking of carrying the case to the Supreme Court.

The saloon interests seemed fully confident of success at the polls Tuesday and made no plans beyond going to the polls and voting against pro-day and made no plans beyond going to the polls and voting against prohibition. They were not prepared for defeat and do not know just exactly what they will do.

Another step that the saloon interests now are considering is to go before the coming session of the Legislature and insist on enactments against the liquor traffic even more drastic than those the people have adopted.

have voted for prohibition, so I think there can be no mistaking the senti-ment of the people. If the Legislature acts in accordance with the wishes of the people expressed at the polls Tuesday there will be little difficulty in obtaining the kind of legislation to make the new amendment effective." Owners of the leading breweries in the state, it is understood, are prepar-ing to take some action to protect their property. It is probable that they will convert their plants into other indus-tries. It is said that one brewery at Astoria will be transformed into a salmon-packing plant. Others in the state, it is said, will become ice man-

Inasmuch as the new law does not prohibit the distribution of liquor within the state it will be possible after the amendment goes into effect on January 1, 1916, to have it shipped in from outside sources provided the recipient signs an affidavit that it is not to be sold, but to be put only to personal use. The word "distribution" was purposely omitted from the amendment so that it will not restrict people in their personal liberties.

The amendment does prevent, however, the sale of liquors in private clubs. Several clubs of this kind in Portland will be affected, notably the Commercial Club, Arlington Club, Elks' Club, Press Club, Concordia Club, Uni-versity Club and others.

Arbor Lodge Votes Dry.

Arbor Lodge has joined Troutdale in the dry column, according to the final count, Precinct 285 having piled up a vote as follows: Yes 173, no 114. Pre-cinct 284, which is at Kenton, went the other way, the wets having a strength of 101 votes against 80 dry bailots. At Troutdale the result was a victory for the drys, 62 ballots being cast for prohibition, with the "no" column show-

EVAN WILLIAMS.

Evan Williams, America's greatest concert tenor, who sings at the Heilig Sunday at 3 o'clock under the direction of Steers & Coman, has "a voice wonderful in its modulations, expressing the rapture and human appeal of song in a way that plays upon the heartstrings strangely," according to music critics.

A novel feature of his programme will be a group of Welsh songs, showing he gift of melody and wealth of poetry that exists in that "Double Dose" Outlined.

They want to bottle up the state airtight, they say, and make it impossible to ship liquor into the state and a felony for anyone to take a drink in the state. In other words, they want to give the people such a strict set of prohibition laws and such rigid enforcement of those laws that they will sicken and tire of regulation and gladly restore the liquor traffic as a means of relieving their restricted liberties.
