

MONEY LEADER IS SOON FOUND GUILTY

Ware Convicted of Charging Illegal Rates When Jury Is Closed 15 Minutes.

LAW TO BE ATTACKED

Eastern Syndicate Promises to Carry Case to Supreme Court of United States, Alleging Discrimination Practiced.

E. E. Ware, manager of the State Security Company, was found guilty yesterday afternoon after the jury which numbered but 10 men, had deliberated 15 minutes.

An attack will be made upon the Oregon law by the owners of the State Security Company, an Eastern syndicate, headed by J. Wiesen, of Milwaukee, Wis. Attorneys for Ware will appeal from yesterday's conviction, and if they lose in the Oregon Supreme Court they declare they will take the case to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"The law is plainly unconstitutional," declared G. E. Hanaker, attorney for Ware. "It gives rights to citizens of one state that are denied to those of another and this discriminatory phase of the statute is a fatal weakness."

The Eastern syndicate of money-lenders has just been successful. It is said, in having a similar law in Michigan declared unconstitutional.

This point was urged in the trial just concluded, but Judge McGinn held that the act comes within the police power of the state.

Deputy District Attorney Collier, in closing for the state, argued that the seizure of effects of violators of the law for use as evidence was justified and told the jury that the papers in the case were placed before it properly with the sanction of the court.

Members of the bonding committee of the Interstate Bridge Commission met yesterday and adopted a resolution authorizing the issue of the $250,000 bridge bonds lately sold to the Harris Trust Company of Chicago, and the firm of Morris Bros. of Portland.

INTERSTATE BRIDGE COMMITTEE ACTS ON $253,375 SALE.

Supervising Engineer is on Way Here From Kansas City and Early Starting of Work is Expected.

District Attorney Evans, chairman of the bonding committee, received yesterday from Waddell & Higgins of Kansas City, consulting engineers, who will supervise the bridge construction, a telegram reading:

"We are gratified to learn of successful bond sale. Complete data for right of way are filed with Commission and we believe all the duplicate copies in hands of right-of-way agent J. Fred Larson. Mr. Harrington en route west and will see you."

This means that no time will be lost in clearing up rights of way for the approach on the Oregon side of the Columbia. Upon Mr. Harrington's arrival within a day or two, steps will be taken to start actual construction as soon as possible.

Sleuths With German Names War on English Coat.

Detectives Pawn Confere's Balmancan and He, Redeeming it at No Cost, the Allied Jokers Lose.

POLICE detectives don't like balmancan overcoat because of their English pattern. Detective Goitz, Abbott, Craddock, Tackabery and a few others of German descent have shown aversion to the natty outer garment.

The detectives theorized that the pawnbroker would see the card and notify Hellyer. Abbott gave his name as Charles Brown and obtained $2 on the coat. After two weeks of waiting the detective concluded that their theory did not work and Craddock was assigned to inform Hellyer that he saw the missing coat at Kutner's shop.

ACTRESS ALIGNED AGAINST SOCIETY WOMEN WHO SMOKE AND DRINK.

Society women who drink, smoke and wear dresses of extreme fashion, yet who try to pose as reformers are arraigned by Georgia Cooper and her company in Walter Montague's act, "The Great Question," at Pantages this week.

Because Miss Cooper was so thoroughly sympathetic with the motives of Montague's pen product, she welcomed the opportunity to play the part of the society girl, who gambles and does not mean to teach a man to hang normal, not to teach a man to hang normal, not to teach a man to hang normal.

DR. GEORGE J. FISHER SAYS HEALTH AFFECTS MORALS.

Y. M. C. A. Official Discusses Relation Between Mind and Body and Gives Timely Hints.

That a man's morals and mind may be improved through his muscles was pointed out by Dr. George J. Fisher, of New York, international secretary of Young Men's Christian Associations, at a dinner given in his honor by the Portland association Tuesday night, presided over by I. C. Cunningham and attended by 200 members.

"One of the greatest things presented to the world by the Young Men's Christian Association is the fact that a man is a unit, his mind, soul and body cannot be separated," said Dr. Fisher. "Scientific training is necessary. I believe in developing the body normal, not to teach a man to hang normal, not to teach a man to hang normal, not to teach a man to hang normal."

SCHOOL BID LOWER

Shattuck Tenders $8000 Under Recent Couch Figures.

PRICE QUOTED IS $111,485

Both Buildings Are Identical and Architects' Estimate Was $160,000—Heating Proposals $23,858, Plumbing $10,542.

When the School Board at a special meeting yesterday opened proposals for the construction of the new Shattuck school building on the block bounded by Hall, College, Park streets and Broadway, it was found that the bid of the firm of Olson & Johnson, of Missoula, Mont., was the lowest for the general contract.

This bid was $111,485, or more than $8000 less than the winning bid of the Boy Johnson Arnold Company for the construction of the Couch school. The plans governing the construction of the two buildings are practically identical and the complete estimated cost of each structure was originally placed at $160,000.

Other bids for the general contract were submitted as follows: Boy Johnson Arnold Company, $116,975; Butler Contracting Company, $117,860; Bingham & Shelley, $117,899; Litherland & Avery, $118,742; Brayton Engineering Company, $121,875; J. S. Winters & Co., $123,987; John Almetor, $127,052; and the Pearson Construction Company, $132,846.

Among seven bids submitted for the heating contract the lowest, $23,858, was entered by the Alaska Plumbing Company and the next lowest, $23,979, by the Kendall Heating Company.

Eight proposals were made to do the plumbing work. The lowest figure, $10,542, was entered by the firm of Sturges & Sturges and the next lowest, $10,945, by the Kendall Heating Company.

The contracts probably will be awarded by the board at its next meeting. In awarding the contract for the Couch building, the board rejected the lowest bid on the ground that the bidder was not responsible at any time in the fact that the low bid on the Shattuck school comes from a Montana firm, it is regarded as possible that the board may elect to give the work to a local firm.

SEWER IS NEAR COLLAPSE

Ralph Modjeski Reports Tanager Aqueduct Dangerous.

That the Tanager Creek sewer, one of the largest and most costly trunk sewers, draining a large section in the western part of the city, is in danger of collapse at any time is the opinion of Ralph Modjeski, an engineer of Chicago, who has just completed an examination of the sewer for the city. Mr. Modjeski reports that the big pipe may cause much damage. He recommends that steps be taken immediately to reconstruct portions of it. While the cost of the work has not been estimated, it is said it will run far into the thousands of dollars.

The bad places between Lowndale street, near Washington street, to the intersection of Tenth and Irving streets. From Lowndale and Washington streets to Fourteenth and Couch streets, a distance of 534 feet, Mr. Modjeski reports the condition bad with the exception of about 125 feet. The sewer, he says, is out of shape generally. The pipe, which originally was circular, has been flattened until the top is about six inches lower than it should be and the sides are bulged out to a corresponding extent.

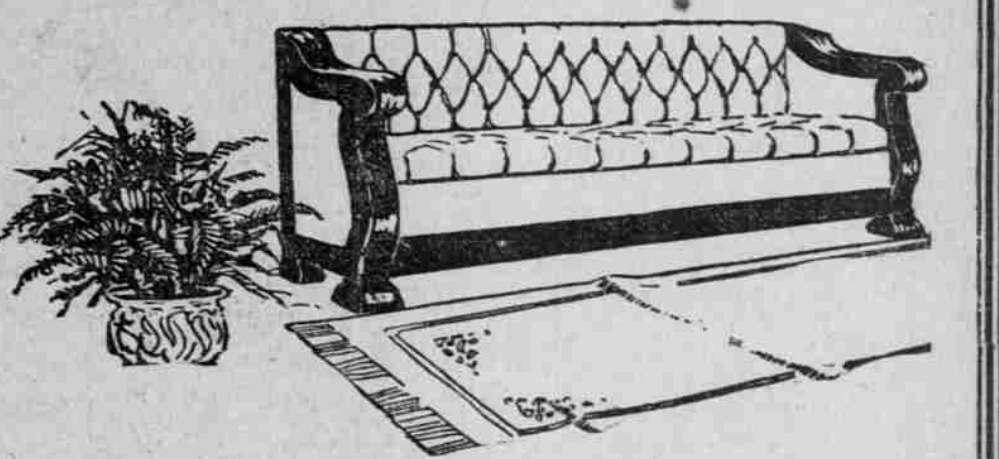

From Davis and Thirteenth streets to Eleventh and Irving streets, a distance of 1437 feet, the sewer is shaped in many places. In one place, where it passes under five and six-story buildings, it threatens to collapse. The top is crushed and settled, and cracks are open from two inches to three inches in places, reads the report. "The bricks are loose at several points, or are entirely missing. The bottom, which was here built of brick, is worn or washed out for several hundred feet."

"This condition is particularly dangerous," he reports, "because the current, which is quite swift, threatens to undermine the sides, and, in fact, has done so at several points. Where the sewer passes under the corner of Twelfth street the condition is particularly bad and dangerous. The street shows marked settlement on the surface at this point. Another dangerous place is near Eleventh and Hoyt streets, and the sewer may collapse at any moment."
