PORTLAND BANKERS LAUD NEW SYSTEM

With Centralization Days of Financial Panic Are Believed Thing of Past.

CURRENCY MORE ELASTIC

A. L. Mills Explains That No Direct Result Will Be Noticed by Public Individually, but That Moral Effect Will Be Good.

Portland bankers and brokers believe that the new Federal banking system inaugurated yesterday will make financial panies impossible and render all branches of commercial activity more sound and more stable.

The old, haunting fear that arose every Fall when money was required to move the grain crops and the inxlety that was entertained every time a heavy movement of other commodities was due, will be dissipated, it is predicted, through the successful operation of the new system.

The Federal reserve banks are expected to provide elastic currency in sufficient volume to meet all the financial needs of the country in all future time.

Bankers here as well as elsewhere believe that the new currency system will prove a panacea for virtually all the financial ills that have manifested themselves in times of past strin-

A. L. Mills, president of the Portland Clearing-House Association, and president of the First National Bank, explains, however, that so far as the relations of the public with the individual banks is concerned, there will be no visible change. The public will continue to do business in the same old waydepositing money and receiving a specifled rate of interest, and borrowing money and paying a specified rate of interest. The banks will be just as eager to receive deposits and will exercise just as much caution in making

New Confidence Expected.

The Federal reserve banks," says Mr. Mills, "will be just what their because the state of name implies—reserve banks. They will give the member banks an opportunity of discounting approved notes and converting such assets into cash. This cash, in return, can be used in dis-counting other notes of their customers. Thus an endless succession of loans and discounts is provided.

"But to my mind the principal benefit of the new system will be the opera-tion of what you might call a form of financial Christian Science. It will in-still new confidence into the business world. It will afford a ground for such confidence. After all it is confidence confidence. After all it is confidence that creates prosperity and lack of it that creates depression.

"We will have no more money and no more resources after the new system gets to working than we have had before. But we will have more confidence. I think that will go a long way toward restoring preservity." way toward restoring prosperity."

Mr. Mills also explains that the prowision in the new law which permits
National banks to reduce their cash reserve from 25 per cent to 15 per cent does not necessarily mean that this dif-ference of 10 per cent will be available

make it any easier.

"The law gives us a right to cut own our reserve if we have to, but don't think any bank will cut down to the 15 per cent margin except in his case of extreme emergency."
Emery Olmstead, vice-president of the Northwestern National, was optimistic yesterday over the certain good effects of the system. There is no question about the relief it will afford the whole Pacific

It will make itself felt here in Portland every year at the crop-moving period. I think it will be a great help every line of business."

Mr. Olmstead believes that the govern-ors of the San Francisco reserve bank, through which the Portland banks will do business, should give their early attention to the establishment of a branch reserve bank in Portland. A branch bank of this klod, presided over by local people, he points out, would be better able to pass upon paper offered for discount by local banks.

Mr. Crawford Enthusiastic.

E. G. Crawford, vice-president of the Lumbermen's National, was likewise enthusiastic over probable beneficial trip back home. His completely restored.

"It simply provides the bankers of the country with the relief that they have been demanding for the last 30 years. They have needed a centralized banking system. The Federal reserves pears. They have needed a centralized banking system. The Federal reserves provide this. Heretofore we have been operating as so many individual units."

J. C. Ainsworth, president of the United States National, and R. L. Durham, president of the Merchants' National, are similarly optimistic. They believe that the country never will experience another such financial range perience another such financial panie with its accompanying distress, as that

The five National banks of Portland are members of the Federal reserve system. The state and private banks can participate in its benefits by operating through the National banks.

The Fortland banks have not yet been called upon to pay any share of their reserve into the new bank, as the law requires. They nave, however paid their initial installment of the capital stock required of them. This payment, approximating $80,000, was sent to San Francisco about two weeks

The practical effects of the system have not been introduced in Portland as the local banks were instructed yes erday not to send paper for discount into the reserve bank pending the re-celpt of further orders.

Proposal Is to Transfer Large Part of Treasury Coin and Most of Government Money Now in National Banks.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. - Although the 12 Federal reserve banks only began business today, the Federal Re-serve Board already has before it plans for widening the banks' field of operations and increasing the store of

The Board may not be willing to The Board may not be willing to draw any definite plans from one day's business, but the first week may have a material effect and may result in augmenting the cash of the banks by more than $150,000,000. The Board has under consideration the deposit of a large part of the loose cash now in the treasury and the transfer of most of the Government funds now deposited in National banks.

Secretary McAdoo has power to make these changes, but so far has not reached a decision. If the first week's reached a decision. If the first week's rediscount business shows that the reserve banks can use more cash, however, the Board probably will suggest the adoption of the plan. Bankers Decorate Reserve Institution With Flowers.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16 .- With the nterior of the bank decorated with dowers bearing the cards of bankers business men throughout this section, the Kansas City Federal Re-serve Bank opened today. The Colo-rado National Bank of Denver was the first depositor, with $350,000.

Despite the fact that the call to the $41 member banks directing them to send their gold reserves was sent out today, a number of banks anticipated it and sent in amounts aggregating $500,000, according to Charles M. Sawyer, governor. Mr. Sawyer said he had been informed of a number of shipments made directly to the subtreasury in St. Louis, there but his father made an investigation placed to the credit of the local banks.
