GERMANS RETREAT IN EAST PRUSSIA

Attempt to Turn on Pursuing Russians Is Failure, Says Petrograd Staff.

AUSTRIANS SWEPT ASIDE

Vistula-Warthe and Soldau-Neidenburg Battles Rage-Czar's Army Forced to Rebuild Railway to Follow Enemy.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 16 .- A statement received from the general staff today

"After our successful fighting in Oc-tober along the roads to Warsaw and Ivangorod, the enemy began retreating toward his frontier, destroying the roads and railroads. He set on fire the railroad stations and freight sheds, fore railroad stations and freight sheds, fore up switches and destroyed the reservoirs and water pipes. At some points on the railroad he blew up the rails and their fastenings, thus rendering necessary the use of new rails when repairing the tracks.

"In addition all bridges and aqueducts, even the smallest, were damaged in such a way as to make repairs impossible, rendering their rebuilding necessary. Telegraph poles were felled, wires cut and insulators destroyed.

Damage Impedes Advance. "All this damage seriously impeded our advance and enabled the enemy on the left bank of the Vistula to escape outside of our field of action and to get near his territory.

"Taking advantage of this and their complete railway system, the Germans rapidly began to send their troops to the north in order to accumulate important forces against our wing.

"Their concentration in that region was covered by a large body of cavalry brought from the west and partly supported by Austrian cavalry.

German Offensive Fails. Towards the middle of November the German offensive was renewed be-tween the Vistula and Warthe Rivers. This resulted in fighting, which is still going on in front of Plock, Lentchitsa and Oureloff.

"In Eastern Prussia, in the region of Stalluponen, the enemy tried by means of separate bodies of troops to adopt the offensive, but he failed and rereated.

"In the region of Soldau and Neidenburg the battle continues. We maintain our offensive toward Cracow and the front of Galicia.
"The attempts of the Austrians to make a stand on our road have been in vain. In the fighting of November 12 we captured 10 officers and about 1000 soldiers."

Them in Face of Big Odds.

LONDON, 1:51 A. M., Nov. 17.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Petrograd says:

"The military skill of the Russian army was well illustrated in the capture of Goldap, some 30 miles south of Gumbinnen, in East Prussia. A strong Russian advance guard pushed toward Goldap after eight days of continuous fighting at Bakalarzevo and took the Germans by surprise. The Russians were within two miles of Goldap before a German aeroplane discovered their presence and directed the German artillery fire against them.

"The Russian line of advance lay between a wooded elevation and the main road, both of which were occupied by off the German retreat. "This hill was strongly held by in-fantry, who were well entrenched. A frontal attack theoretically was impossible, but nevertheless the Russians carried it out. The heavy rains had converted the guard into a quagmire.

"In the face of the German volleys the Cossacks crept up the hill firing their rifles almost continuously and held their horses by a single rein. The Cossacks did not mount until within 300 yards of the enemy's position. Then they swept irresistibly across the entrenchments.

Heavy Guns and Fresh Troops Give Turks Success at Fortress.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post

The Russians have not succeeded in

The Russians have not succeeded in marching on to attack the formidable obstacles of the Deve-Boyun range, which protects the approach to Erzerum. The Turks brought up from Erzerum, from Trebizond and from Gryskala such large reinforcements, with heavy guns, as to compel the Russians aiready occupying Koprukule to retire. Whether or not the retirement from positions secured after heavy fighting must be reckoned as a Turkish success depends upon local factors of which we have no knowledge.

Co. was built, an agreement was reached with the heirs of the Shearer estate, which owned the right of way needed, that if the track was built 60 feet up from the average height of water in the river, the right of way could be had for $1000. The land company had an option on the Shearer land, which it took up, and the rallroad claimed that before it built it showed the land company the profile of the proposed grade, and that the land company acquiesced.

Later the land company acquiesced.

Later the land company claimed that the track would have to be built higher up, so that a dam 60 feet high could be put in. Such a dam would have be put in. Such a dam would have flooded the tracks as built.

POLICE HEAD

Captain Louis M. Lang Popular With All Elements, Whose Hopes Are Raised.

ARMY RECORD BRILLIANT

Philippine Service Gives Acquaint ance With Prison Work, but Appointee Says He Will Not Make Policy Changes.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 16 .- (Special.) Although as unexpected as a bombshell, Mayor Gill's appointment of Louis M Lang, an ex-Army Captain and veteran of the Spanish War, as chief of police to succeed Austin E. Griffiths, is proving popular in Seattle today. After Griffiths, a Progressive, who was beat-en badly in the Congressional election by Representative Will E. Humphrey, Republican, tendered his resignation, speculation was rife as to his successor and a wide range of names was selected, in none of which figured Captain Lang. He was a "dark horse." In fact Gill first met Lang at his inauguration as Mayor last March.

the appointment was announced every one asked who is Lang? The inquirers soon were supplied with statistical information such as the fact that he was 48 years old, a native of Buffalo, N. Y., entered the National Guard when 21, was commissioned a captain by Governor Frank Black in the 202d New York Volunteers, was with the first troops that entered Hawith the first troops that entered Havana, had lively fighting experience and administrative jobs in the Philippines, was a general contractor here, married, had no children and lived at 322 Thirteenth avenue North. The first line on him developed when it developed his wife was the ex-president of one of the leading women's clubs and still active in club work.

Popularity Astounds Officials.

Popularity Astounds Officials.

The most surprising thing about the appointment is its popularity with the so-called liberal element. Although there seems no basis at all to believe that any of the vigor of the Griffiths administration will be relaxed, the prevalent feeling down town is hopefulness and an impression "that it might be worse." Maybe the liberals are doomed to be disappointed.

When Gill was running for re-election the same liberals had the notion that if he were successful he would open the town. He was successful, but their hopes were dashed to the ground, for he put in the seat of the Chief of Police a high-minded man of somewhat idealistic tendency, leader in humanitarian and welfare work and an ardent advocate of police efficiency.

The feeling seems to have no foundation that Lang will do anything other than maintain the present policy, but it exists just the same. Lang's own statements leave no room for doubt and indicate crushed hopes for some.

In many cases we couldn't even find any record of their presence there, and in many we couldn't discover the reason for imprisonment. When we had finished our work we found we had out of the 387 prisoners just 116 legally behind the bars."

ADOPTION OF CITIZENSHIP MEAS-URE MAY COMPEL STEP.

County Clerks Not Being Empowered to Purge Names of Allens, Voters May Have to Qualify Anew.

Every voter in Oregon may be required to register again before the next election

Portland attorneys are of the opinion that the amendment passed at the recent election requiring all voters to be citizens will necessitate a complete renewal of the registration rolls.

The new law does not give the County Clerks permission to purge from the registration lists all names of voters who are not full-fledged citizens. If this cannot be done, they point out, there is no way by which such persons can be prevented from voting. voting.

The new law is intended to pro-hibit all persons of foreign birth holding "first papers" from voting. The people expressed approval of the plan by a decisive majority.
