

BEZDEK IS HOPEFUL FOR NEXT SEASON

Oregon Coach Says He Didn't Expect to Win Against Dobie Saturday.

LOOK INTO FUTURE TAKEN

Roscoe Fawcett Takes Peep at Material for "Honorable Mention" Players Among Conference Colleges—Oregon Fares Well.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. "I really didn't expect to win," remarked Hugo Bezdek, of the University of Oregon, after the 10-0 defeat inflicted by Washington Saturday.

This statement is significant in that it is true. Particularly is it significant in view of the fact that Washington will be forced to meet Oregon away from home next fall.

Whether this game will be in Portland or Eugene or at Albany remains to be settled, but Coach Bezdek says Eugene is the best place to play against Multnomah Field.

Oregon also meets Idaho next fall, and this game almost necessarily will have to be staged on the campus, because of the weak showing of the Gem State in Portland against the Aggies last week.

The Oregon Aggies, on the other hand, will tackle the Purple and Gold in its own fair next fall. This will be the big game of the season in Seattle, because Washington State has now joined Idaho in demanding that Dobie take his team across the mountains to the Inland Empire.

Washington State has played four consecutive Thanksgiving days in Seattle on a flat guarantee of $500.

In Seattle it is said that the Oregon Aggies will be given the turkey date vacated by the Pullmanites of Washington and the Washington State collegians likely will tangle in Spokane, as Bender has guaranteed Washington $1000 for the trip.

Just as present Idaho and Washington are not speaking terms, owing to the champs' refusal to take its turn at Moscow, if Washington accepts Fawcett's guarantee, Idaho may be induced to appear again in Seattle on the assurance of a Washington game at home in 1916.

This would give Washington three games at Seattle—Whitman, Idaho and Oregon Aggies—and two away from home—Oregon and Washington State.

Coach Bezdek thinks Washington will defeat Washington State College Turkey afternoon, yet he does not think Hap Miller will do much starting. Miller will back into Tom Tyrer at left end—the best end I have seen in years," added the coach.

Barring Dominic Callierite, formerly of the Multnomah Club, yes. On the surface Washington ought to win by 10 points, but the Aggies defeated Whitman 28-7 and Washington State 7-0. Washington tied the Oregon Aggies and the Aggies nosed out over the Washington Farmers in Everett.

The sole conference game this week will be between the two big Oregon rivals for the state championship. Enthusiasts who journey to Corvallis Saturday will be treated to a raft of possible all-star talent in action.

Owing to the youthfulness of the varsity only three or four of the lemon-green boys will figure prominently in the all-star symposiums this fall, as against a half dozen of the Aggies.

These stars stand out most prominently: Oregon—Beckett, tackle; Risely, center; Cook, guard; Parsons, halfback. Oregon Aggies—Anderson, center; Moore, guard; Laythe, tackle; Huntley, end; Lutz, half-back; Abraham, full-back.

Quarterback Cornell, of Oregon, would be a sure member of the club but for ill-luck in the matter of injuries. His place will be taken this fall either by Bernard, of Washington State, or Smith, of Washington.

Halfback Billie, of the Oregon Aggies, is another star in the front in this season's campaign. Markey, of Oregon, looked good until put to the bad by injuries.

Flintooth-combing the entire Conference for honorable mention material reveals a world of candidates. The following loom forth as pure gold in a crucible: Center—Anderson, Oregon Aggies; Risely, Oregon. Guards—Cook, Oregon; Seagraves, Washington; Moore, Oregon Aggies; Johnstone, Idaho. Tackles—Beckett, Oregon; Anderson, Washington; Laythe, Oregon Aggies; Groninger, Idaho; Alvord, Washington State. Ends—Tyrer, Washington State; Hunt, Washington; Huntley, Oregon Aggies. Quarterback—Bernard, Washington State; Smith, Washington; Hoover, Whitman. Halfbacks—Miller, Washington; Lutz, Oregon Aggies; Parsons, Oregon; McDonald, Whitman; Baner, Washington State. Fullback—Shiel, Washington; Abraham, Oregon Aggies; Dietz, Washington State.

ALL HALL TO EDWIN STROWBRIDGE

One of the most fiercely contested struggles of the interscholastic league football game, Washington High needed out a 3-to-0 victory over the Jefferson High School eleven on Multnomah field yesterday. It was the trusty right toe of Halfback Strowbridge that put the ball between the goal posts just 58 seconds before time was called to end the match.

Quarter Replete With Sensations. All through the fourth quarter the followers of both institutions were kept on their toes by the sensational opening drive, running pulled off by Moe Sax, of Jefferson, and Charles Parsons, of Washington. No one was sitting in the grandstand when the last frame commenced, for enthusiasm was running high and the somewhat chilly wind made the spectators stand and keep moving in order to remain warm.

The stone-wall defense of Coach Jamilton's crew came as a big surprise to the 1215 persons present, as Washington played the game as though by one or two touchdowns. During the first half neither team was able to do much, although two place-kicks were tried by Jefferson and one by Washington.

In the third frame the Jeffersonians came the nearest to scoring a touchdown than either aggregation through out the whole set-to. Normandin had to punt from behind his own goal when the clinging Jeffersonians one-yard line.

Wolfer's Placekick Blocked. Once again in this canto the losers rushed the ball to the league leaders' ten-yard line, but nothing came in the way of a score. "Red" Wolfer again attempted a placekick, but it was blocked by Captain Walker and then returned by "Spud" Normandin, who stopped its progress on the one-yard line. He grabbed the ball and ran to his own five-yard line before he was doused by the clinging Jeffersonians.

Strowbridge made two attempts at a goal from placement before he registered his telling one, but neither went to the goal line.

The result of this victory gives the winners the undisputed right to be one of the contenders of the 1915 title. Columbia University play Lincoln High School on the same field tomorrow afternoon and a victory must be recorded by the collegians to win the title.

Washington High School on the same field tomorrow afternoon and a victory must be recorded by the collegians to win the title. The affair was one of the best of the season and this is the second time that Strowbridge took the game out of the fire. He beat Lincoln High by the same score two weeks ago to the day.

Moe Sax and Captain Irvine featured for Jefferson High, while Captain Walker, Charles Parsons, Strowbridge and "Spud" Normandin were the best advantage for the winners. The lineup: Washington (3) Jefferson (0)

TITLE GAME WORRIES

IF O. A. C. WINS, WASHINGTON WOULD PLAY AGAIN. Seattle School's Faculty Likely to Sanction Post-Season Contest if Dobie Thinks Best.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18.—(Special).—There is a probability that the University of Washington may meet the Oregon Agricultural College in a post-season football game after the final games of the conference are played. This rests upon the outcome of the O. A. C.-Oregon game next Saturday.

The local football authorities are not prone to see the championship title up in the air, provided that the Aggies defeat the University. Dobie is non-committal on the subject this afternoon but he did not indicate that he would disapprove seriously of a post-season encounter in order to settle the title.

The faculty has been disposed to frown upon games after the close of the conference, but it, too, it is believed, would sanction the game provided there be any doubt as to whom the honor rightly belongs. General Manager Younger said that it is possible that the faculty objections may be overcome and that it was largely up to Dobie to decide whether a deciding game should be played.

OREGON SEES FIGHT

Oregon Aggies Have Lead by Comparative Scores.

HISTORY MAY REPEAT SELF

Optimistic University Fan Digs Up Ancient Scores to Show How Prevailing Odds and Won Easily.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Or., Nov. 18.—(Special).—"On to Corvallis" is the rally cry of the Oregon campus. Coaches, students, and fans realize that it will take an awful fight to stop Stewart's scoring machine. By comparative scores from the Washington game, the Oregon line is eleven has a lead of from 10 to 15 points, but the optimistic Oregon fan is digging up ancient history and pointing out lemon-yellow teams that have entered the annual state contest facing adverse odds of three to one and yet triumphed.

The other half of the game in Cornell's school has won but three times. Beckett, however, does not grow enthusiastic over the record of a dozen years ago. Five days before the 1912 contest he was forced to shift his backfield in an attempt to find a combination that could carry the ball ahead.

As yet the new combination, Huntley, Lutz at half and Sharp in Cornell's berth, has not struck the stride necessary for a winning team. The scrubs have been able to stop the line plunges persistent enough to give the Oregon line only around the ends that the Varsity has been able to gain. Against the Aggies' crack wing men this avenue of advance will be largely blocked. In the two remaining days of practice Oregon has got to get the drive necessary for puncturing the center.

This ability of plugging the line for gains is being hammered into the Varsity by long two-hour scrimmages. The coaches are sending the first team backs against the scrubs' line in play after play until long after dark, and the "ghost ball" and arc lights are an absolute necessity.

The Oregon line from tackle to tackle will be the same as faced Washington last Saturday. Although all of the linemen were more or less bruised in the Seattle contest, none of the injuries were severe enough to affect the fighting efficiency of the center quartet. So far this season but little yardage has been made through the center of the Oregon line, and this part of the team should be able to hold its own against the Aggies.

In punting Lutz appears to have the edge over Beckett, of Oregon. Beckett, however, has a high spiral that is hard to handle, and which gives the ends time to get down the field. If the Oregon line should be able to hold its own on the spot, Sharp, the Oregon quarter, by his open field running may be able to even up the gains on an exchange of punts.

King May Be Back in Game.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 18.—(Special).—"Billie" King worked out at end with the Oregon Aggies this noon and there is a possibility that he will be started in the right extreme berth against Oregon Saturday. King is recovering from a broken shoulder blade received before the Washington game. He has been out of scrimmage for three weeks. Schuster, who subbed in King's place last week, is looked upon as the probable choice of the local coach, should King's shoulder continue to trouble him. "It doesn't look as though we were going to be able to get any scrimmage this week," said Coach Stewart, when questioned as to how things were coming. "Lutz and Hofer are suffering from the Idaho game, the former with his knee and the latter with a bad shoulder." Prater Moore, who played last Saturday in a weakened condition from sickness, is still having chills and is unable to work. I do not want to run the risk of having any of these men out Saturday, and will go easy on the scrimmage this week, if necessary." Preparations for the game practically are complete as far as arrangements for the crowd are concerned.
