British Official Observer Reports Determined German Attacks Have Failed.

FOE'S LOSS TREMENDOUS

One Assault Pressed to Within Five Yards of Lines Before It Is Broken by Rifle Fire. Three Charges Fall.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Colonel E. D. Swinton, the British official eye-witless with the expeditionary forces on the continent, continuing his narrative of the army operations and supplementing his account of November 19.

"November 20-The only change to record in the military situation on our front is an attack in force again on our left on November 17. The four days from the 16th to the 19th have been unusually uneventful. Winter has now set in in earnest. Since certain misstatements to the effect that the Germans had penetrated Ypres and had been driven out again have apparently been circulated, it is well to say that Yprea is in the hands of the allies, and that, save for prisoners of war or possible spies, no Germans have succeeded in entering the town or even getting near it. The allied position there is stronger than it ever has been.

Germans Await Reinforcements. "Monday, November 16 — Our troops on the left passed a most peaceful day. There was little shelling and no infantry attacks. A prisoner asserted that it had been the intention of the Germans to assault this quarter on the 15th, but the carnage inflicted by our artillery on the previous day has been so heavy that it had been decided to postpone the operation until reinforcements should arrive.

"There is no doubt that on the 15th, in massing preparatory to attack, the Germans committed certain faults of which our guns and Maxims took advantage with devastating results to the rear German battalions.

"The fighting to the south of Ypres continued without marked advantage to either side, but the French everywhere held their ground. On the center all was quiet. On our right the enemy pushed forward the saps and throwing bombs from their trenches and mortars. One of their sap-heads was successfully attacked during the night and an earth-boring tool was captured."

"On Tuesday, on our left, the Ger-ans, after shelling our positions to be east in the direction of Ypres and the east in the direction of Ypres and to the southeast, made three attacks. About 1 P. M. their infantry advanced in strength against our section on this line and took possession of some trenches out of which our troops had been driven by shell fire. When the Germans endeavored to press on, our infantry made a brilliant counter attack with bayonets and drove them out of the trenches and for some 500 yards beyond.

The number of killed left along a length of some 500 yards of our front is estimated at about 1200. The assault was made by regular troops, though not by the guard.

Third Attempt Falls.

"About 3 P. M. they massed for the third assault, but, being subjected to a hot shell fire, they gave up the attempt. On the whole it was a most successful day for our arms.
"On Wednesday, the 18th, nothing occurred except the shelling of our right. Owing to the high tide, the in-right. Owing to the high tide, the inundation was extending satisfactorily to the southeast of Dixmude.

"Thursday, the 12th, also was uneventful. Our trench mortars were used for the first time with good results. The successful resistance we have made has had an encouraging effect in spite of the exhausting nature of the operations in the last month.
Our men show great enterprise in making local counter attacks, in cutting off the enemy's patrols and in similar affairs of outposts.

"Around Ypres we continually are finding fresh evidence of the siaughter infilicted on the enemy. On the 15th one of our battalions while advancing discovered a German trench manned by 17 corpses, while there were 49 more in a house close by. The next day a patrol discovered 60 dead in front of one trench and 50 more opposite. All the farms and cottages to our front are charnel houses. The significance of such small numbers lies only in the fact that they represent the killed in a very small area.

German Attempts Costly.

"According to prisoners the Germans' attempt to take Ypres proved costly."

"According to prisoners the Germans' attempt to take Ypres proved costly."

"According to prisoners the Germans' attempt to take Ypres proved costly, one said that there were only 16 survivors out of his platoon which went into action 50 strong. Another reported that one Bavarian regiment, 3000 strong, which left Bavaria for the front on October 19, had only 1200 men left when an attack was made along the Menin-Ypres road on November 14.

"The plight of some units of new formations is even worse, one regiment of the third reserve corps having 600 men out of 3000.

"If the period since the beginning of the war is considered, the numbers are even greater. For instance, of the 15th one of the feer to come out, there was some even greater. The following official communication was given out earlier in the day:

"The day of the 21st was calm on the whole front. In Belgium, as in the region from Arras to the Oise, there were only intermittent cannonades. Our artillery evidenced in general more activity than that of the enemy. Our batterles succeeded in demolishing many lines of German trenches. The enemy worked elsewhere to construct new ones in the rear.

After mutual recriminations, Germany demanded that Austria send every available man to the defense of East Prussia, arguing that there was no hope of saving the Austrian frontier from the advancing hosts. The Austrians, however, demanded that the Germans make a serious attempt to save Cracow.

"Moreover, this council meeting was preceded by actual fighting between Austrian and German soldiers in the retreat. The fighting, it is said, occurred after a large body of angry Austrians left the Germans and struck off on their own line of retreat, where upon the Germans sent detachments to bring them back. Both sides fired shots, the Austrians being overpowered.

A detachment of police arrived on the scene and found there 11 persons, including the following members of the Duma: M. M. Petrovsky, Badayeff. "There being no doubt as to the anti-government object of the conference, the members of the meeting were arrested after a search, with the exception of members of the Duma, who were released. An examining magistrate was entrusted with the inquiry and immediately opened an investigation.

Plans to Pave Way for Reopening of Exchanges Are Abruptly Halted.

Washington Officials Not So Optimistic as Formally, but Secretary McAdoo Says Situation Has Been Improved.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 .- Plans for learing up the international financial situation and paving the way for cial situation and paving the way for re-opening of the London and New York Stock Exchanges came to an abrupt halt today with the departure of Sir George Paigh and Basil B. Blackett, of the English Treasury De-partment, for New York. They expect to sail for England next week, and, although no definite information was obtainable here tonight, it is believed that they will not return.

that they will not return.

According to Secretary McAdoe, Sir George has been called back to England by Chancellor Lloyd George to explain the proposals cabled to London by him.

The message recalling him evidently came as a surprise, as he explained to Mr. McAdoo over the telephone.

Credit Fund Meets Opposition. Credit Fund Meets Opposition.
Some officials here were not so optimistic today about the success of the American plans as they had been before the news of Sir George's recall was given out. It was recalled that English bankers who are vitally interested in the negotiations were not at all desirous of having Sir George come to America.

come to America.

The point on which the English bankers are believed to be sticking—and the one about which they desire a personal explanation from Sir George—is the creation of a $100.000,-000 credit fund by the Bank of England to protect American securities which may be sold on the reopening of the London Exchange. A suggestion for such a fund which may look like an additional burden for shoulders already well laden probably has been regarded with some disfavor by English bankers.

regarded with some disfavor by Eng-lish bankers.

There is no doubt here that both these officials, as well as the Ambas-sador, understand that there is dis-tinct advantage sentimentally and otherwise in doing anything in rea-son which may aid American bankers at this time, when changing from one system of banking to another and still keep American trade and busi-ness going.

Negotiations Are Suspended. The negotiations probably will be suspended for sime time. Further representations probably will be made through the Britise Ambassador.

There is a belief in some quarters that the fact that the London Bankers were not wholly pleased with the plans proposed had been known in New York and that the promised reopening of the New York Exchange was delayed on this account.

It was a gracious act on the part of the Chancellor of the Exchequer to let them come to Washington."

The exposition will be unique in that it will furnish the lumber industry its first opportunity for presenting a company of the lumber research.
