AMERICAN RANCH LOOTED

Governor of State of Tamaulipas Said to Have Announced Adherence to National Convention and to Control Tampico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 .- While no definite advices had been received today as to the situation in Mexico City, Administration officials credited reports that General Villa's troops had joined the Zapata forces there.

The last dispatch to the State Department, dated vesterday, reported the Zapata men and agents of General Villa as in control of the city. All official dispatches say order is being maintained in the capital, the only looting mentioned being that of a ranch owned by an American named Hill, in the outskirts of the city. Officers under General Hill made a sortie today into the front trenches, where fighting occurred November 18, and found eight men alive, one of whom had been shot in the hip and the Legislature, but all the members of the House, while not looking was dving from thirst and starvation. The wounded man said that May-torena's losses during the battle nine days ago was between 600 and 800 men. Many, he said, were left wounded on the field to die. Yaqui Indians sent by Maytorena at night on rescue work merely looted the dead, refusing to carry dying Mexicans to hospital camps, he said. They succored none but wounded Indians, the wounded

Walla Walla Exhibits Prove Supremacy of Northwest in Producing Grain.

Boys Obtain Larger Yields and Better, Quality Than Best in Other States-O.-W. R. & N.'s Efforts Are Described.

BY ADDISON BENNETT.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 27.—
(Special.)—What may well be called the first annual Corn Show of the O.-W. R. & N. Company is now being held in this city, and to my mind it is one of the most important events ever staged in the Northwest. Really this same company held three corn shows last year, two in Washington and one in Oregon; this year there is to be only Oregon; this year there is to be only one greater show, the one now going on here.

So far as the territory of the railroad is concerned, this is the logical place for the assembling of exhibits for such a show, being in the heart of what may be called the corn territory grown in the Walla Walla Valley. W. of the company. And surely the number of exhibits proves this, for they best ear of corn. are far more numerous than at the three shows combined last year.

Before going into the question of exhibits and their quality, a few sta-tistical facts may be given for the information of the general public and the encouragement of the landowners, who either are just starting in the corn-growing industry or have land

Fallures Are Many. We all know that for 75 years after the settlement of Oregon and Washington we almost took pride in saying this was not a corn country. Of course, many tried to raise corn. They sent back to Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Illi-nois and other corn-producing sections and got seed corn, planted it and failed; sent again and again—failed again and again. Really we did not get started on the right track until the O.-W. R. & N. Company, through the efforts of R. B. Miller, its traffic manager, undertook the distribution of seed corn through-out the company's territory. Last year the company gave away 10,000 pounds seed, this year about the same

The first year, 1912, it gave imported seed. Then Farmer Smith came along and took charge of what may be called the agricultural department of that company, and he gathered in every pound of home-grown seed he could get. There was a wonderful uplift in results; this year he again got every ear of good corn he could buy and again distributed free another 10,000 oounds. Now "where are we at" in the corn-game?

Production Here Heaviest, Throughout the United States at large the annual production of corn is a trifle under 23 bushels to the acre In lows, the most renowned state in the Union, the yield is 38 bushes; in Minnesota, 34 bushels; in Illinois, 32 bushels; in Kansas, 18 būshels, and in Nebraska, 15 bushel. Just what it was Mr. Burgess is president of the Cun-ningham Sheep & Land Company, is the Oregon representative on the execthe Oregon representative on the executive committee of the National Woolgrowers' Association and for three hibits grown by boys on non-irrigated land running as high as 90 bushels to the acre. This was grown by Adolphus Weathers, of Touchet, Wash, 14 years old. His brother, Louis, 16 years old, raised on 42-44 of an acre 71 bushels, and one shock was eaten by beavers, a showing, on non-irrigated land, of about 150 bushels to the acre. Idaho Yield Heavy.

From Winchester, Idaho, 2600 feet above sea level, there is here an ex-hibit showing the crop of the last three years. The first year was nothing ruch but nubbins, last year, from the nub-bin seed, there were many pretty good ears, this year the ears are much larger, well filled out and the yield nearly 50 bushels to the acre.
To come back to the show. I wish

To come back to the show. I wish every land owner in the three states could have been here to see the exhibits. Last year the largest show was at Colfax. If I remember right, there were about 75 entries, of which Judd Fish brought from The Dalles practically a third. Now there are nearly 300 exhibits, and Farmer Smith estimates that the quality is at least 35 per cent better than that last year.

Why, you never saw better corn in your life than can be seen in this show, and the quantity is something to astonand the quantity is something to aston-ish one. The large room, 100 feet square, is literally filled and at least a

Other figures ought to be given. For instance, the present price of corn, 90 cents a bushel. Then, remember, Mr. Miller started his corn campaign as a Summer fallow crop for the wheat sections. It cost about the same to raise a crop of corn as to Summer fallow, and look at the difference in money. Aside from that the wheat crop following the corn will be better by far than that following the Summer fallow. Farmer Smith estimates the cost of raising an acre of corn at $10; an acre of wheat at $7. But from the corn there is left the fodder worth $10 an acre if fed raw—worth $64 when used through the silo. See what it means to raise corn, corn and more corn. It means hogs, dairy See what it means to raise corn, corn and more corn. It means hogs, dairy cows, fat stock, poultry, and, above ali, the enriching of our soil. For nobedy thinks of sending corn out of the state; we want to keep it at home on the farms where it is raised and feed it there. If we can do this—and we are swiftly following that trail—our farms will soon fail in area; will be cut up and soid to small holders, and the Northwest will be revolutionized.

Mr. Miller gave a fine lunch at the Grand Hotel at noon today for the exhibitors, and tonight 12 of the boy exhibitors have his private car all to themselves, and they will have a dinner that will make this a red-letter day in their lives, a day never to be forgotten. And, assuredly, they will never forget Mr. Miller. forget Mr. Miller.
